Puts Gov. Allred on Federal Bench.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aboard Presidential Special, En Route to the West Coast, July 11.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt paused in a race across Texas today to reward Gov. James V. Allred of Texas, an unswerving supporter of his administration, with a lifelong job on the federal bench.

Gov. James V. Allred.

At Wichita Falls, Tex., he surprised the congressional delegation by announcing the appointment of Allred to a vacancy in the federal court for the southern district of the state to some 25,000 persons assembled about the rear platform of his private car. Allred, now 39 years old, was 35 when first elected governor.

Six Speeches in Day.

With the announcement in one of five rear platform appearances during the day, Mr. Roosevelt broke a precedent by naming a federal judge from the rear platform of a presidential special. The five platform speeches and a major address at Amarillo in the evening raised the total of his speeches for the trip to eighteen, a string worthy of his 1932 and 1936 electioneering days.

When the appointment of Allred was announced, Senator Tom Connally, who was on the train platform, was so surprised that his glasses fell from his nose and dangled from a silken ribbon. Neither he nor Senator Morris Sheppard had considered the youthful governor, who comes from the north of Texas.

Kentucky's Governor Rebuked.

The Allred appointment, which the President handed to the beaming governor at the conclusion of his platform speech, came as a distinct surprise because it followed by only [illegible] days the rebuke he gave to Gov. A. B. Chandler of Kentucky, who is running against Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, for an attempt to tamper with the federal judiciary for political purposes.

The President thrust at Chandler by reviving a story several months old that he had tried to have Senator M. M. Logan of Kentucky appointed to the federal bench so he could slip into Logan's senate seat. The charge amazed politicians in that the finger of accusation came from one who has tried to pack the Supreme court with six administration minded jurists and who appointed former Senator Hugo L. Black of Alabama to the high court.

Claims Court Victory.

The President made the Allred appointment an occasion to claim victory for his campaign to place six administration supporters on the Supreme court. What he termed efforts of the people to improve the federal judicial system have succeeded, he said.

"Our principal objectives for the improvement of justice are on the way to be fully attained," he added.

"Now I am about to create another precedent. It concerns the first citizen of the Lone Star state, the governor of Texas," the President said in announcing the appointment. "As attorney general and as governor of the state, he has established an enviable record for fearlessness, honesty, and good administration.

"I am seeking, wherever possible, to nominate younger men to positions on the federal bench. That thought, coupled with his fine record has led me to offer the position of United States judge for the southern district of Texas to James V. Allred governor of Texas."

Favor from Son, Elliott.

It was whispered in the Congressional delegation that Allred owed his appointment to Elliott Roosevelt whom he appointed some eighteen months ago a trustee of the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college. The appointment of the President's son, who spent only one year at Princeton, was attacked throughout the state.

The fact that the President has

BARS WEIRTON STEEL LAWYER AT CIO HEARING

Examiner for Labor Board Enraged.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Steubenville, O., July 11.—[Special.]—An examiner for the National Labor Relations Board, who has had countless clashes with participants in an eleven months hearing that has been called a colossal burlesque, today barred the chief counsel of the Weirton Steel company from all further proceedings.

The nerves of the white haired examiner, Edward Grandison Smith, frequently have given way during the long series of hearings he has conducted on C. I. O. charges against the steel company. Once he broke his gavel and the glass top of his desk while pounding for order.

Smith's action today resulted from what he termed a defiant attitude exhibited last Thursday by Clyde A. Armstrong, head attorney for the company, and his failure since to show any repentance.

Testifying to Rumors.

Armstrong had objected many times to the admittance of hearsay evidence, a violation of a basic rule of legal practice. A witness was permitted to testify for the board that he "was told" or "thought" or had heard "a rumor that was going around the plant."

The defense attorney charged, when his objections were repeatedly overruled, that the examiner was unfairly favoring the government's side. Smith instructed the attorney to sit down.

"If that is a request, I will sit down," said Armstrong, "but not on an order."

Examiner Adjourns Hearing.

Apparently in wrath, the examiner adjourned the hearing, declining to hear any objections.

After the announcement that Armstrong would be barred from further participation, the hearing was adjourned today until Wednesday. The labor board informed the attorney he had the right to appeal the ruling within five days, providing he gave notice within 48 hours of intention so to do.

The ruling brought immediate reaction tonight from Weirton, W. Va., where a massmeeting of more than 2,000 persons adopted a resolution to march on Steubenville Wednesday to protest the expulsion of Attorney Armstrong from the hearing. The resolution called for the closing of every store at Weirton and the adjoining town of Hollidays Cove with signs to be posted reading:

Plan Peaceful Protest.

Merchants, their employés, and other citizens will march to Steubenville across the Ohio river, under plans formulated at the meeting, and form about the postoffice to demand reinstatement of Armstrong. It was explained that the march must be kept within the bounds of a peaceful protest.

Previously the general advisory committee of the Weirton Steel Employés' Security league, an organization not affiliated with any labor group, called on President Roosevelt and congress to investigate the manner in which the hearing had been conducted.

In making his charges against the attorney, Examiner Smith used the word "contumacy," which President Roosevelt was said by legal authorities to have used inaccurately in connection with his ousting of Dr. Arthur E. Morgan as chairman of the TVA. Smith said Armstrong was guilty of "defiant, contemptuous and contumacious" behavior.

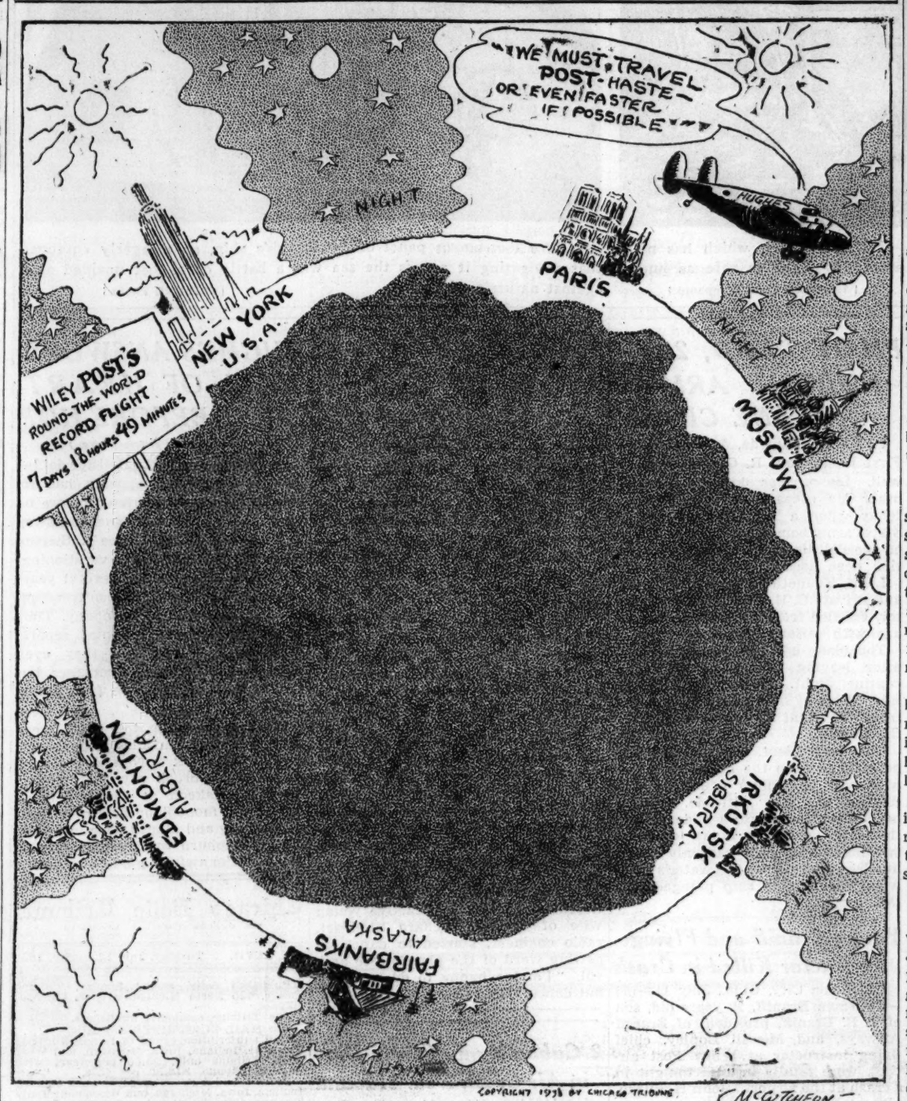
Nerve Racking Hearing.

The long and nerve racking hearing developed several sensational clashes, one of which caused considerable comment in congress. The incident involved freedom of the press charges inasmuch as the NLRB tried to force Hartley W. Barclay, editor of the trade magazine Mill and Factory, to submit editorial records and notes.

In an article in the magazine Barclay called the labor board hearing in the Weirton case a colossal burlesque staged with taxpayers' money. Barclay defied the board and refused to appear.

The NLRB hearing is based on unfair labor charges filed against the Weirton company by the Steel Workers' Organizing committee, an affiliate of the C. I. O.

ANOTHER THRILLING SERIAL STORY BEGINS



TVA Quizzers Begin Tour of Valley Today

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Knoxville, Tenn., July 11.—[Special.]—Nine members of a ten man joint congressional committee to investigate the Tennessee Valley authority held an executive session late today and prepared to leave at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning on a six day tour of the valley. The absent member, Senator H. H. Schwartz [D., Wyo.], is expected later in the week.

A program for the inquiry, which is expected to last through the summer and fall, was considered at the committee session.

Wants Hearing on Rates.

Dr. John R. Neal today was one of the first to take up the announcement of Senator Vic Donahey [D., O.], committee chairman, that when the hearings start, possibly next week, they will be open to any citizen, high or low, who might want to give germane facts, pro or con, about TVA.

Dr. Neal called at headquarters and said he and his associates would expect to be given a hearing concerning the rates charged for TVA current, and the low price contracts for primary and secondary power granted to the Aluminum company and three other large industrial corporations and one private utility.

Neal is a candidate for the United States senate in the August Democratic primaries. He is dean of a law college here.

Attack Yardstick Phase.

"My associates and I," said Dr. Neal, "are desirous of submitting data concerning the so-called yardstick of TVA, which is a fabulous, occult yardstick. Dr. Arthur Morgan has said a spurious yardstick is worse than none."

The yardstick, set up as a standard of measuring fair rates for electric current produced by private utilities, is one basic phase of TVA censured by Dr. Arthur Morgan.

Donahey said the purpose of the tour is to give the members a picture of the physical aspects of TVA, the dams, plants, and activities. The tour will be made in TVA cars and TVA officials and engineers will accompany the committee.

Director David E. Lilienthal of the TVA will be with the expedition, and director Harcourt A. Morgan will join the group at Chattanooga.

MILLIE HAS JUST ONE UP AND DOWN AFTER ANOTHER IN THIS TALE

New York, July 11.—(AP)—Mildred Watson, 19 years old, a colored maid, stepped into one of those automatic elevators in the six story apartment house where she works tonight and pushed the button to go down. It sank to the first floor, stopped with a bump, and abruptly started up again. At the sixth floor it stopped and abruptly started down again.

Then it went up again.

Then it went down again.

Then it went up again, down again, up again, and so on, until the building superintendent, suspecting there was something out of whack, called a squad of policemen. They went into the basement and stopped the elevator's antics by using a monkey wrench or something.

Mildred stepped out, in good health but slightly bewildered.

VOTE TO PICKET TRANSFER OF U. S. SILVER HOARD

New York, July 11.—[Special.]—The transfer of the $1,290,000,000 worth of silver bars from the United States assay offices here to the new storehouse on the military reservation at West Point, is threatened with labor union difficulties.

The executive committee of the Armoured Car Chauffeurs and Drivers' union, an A. F. of L. affiliate, voted tonight to picket the assay offices and the City Bank Farmers Trust company, storage points from which the silver is being transported on trucks.

The union officials accused Peter J. Malley, who obtained the government contract for transporting the silver, with breaking his contract with the union by locking out the union guard on each truck.

MRS. JIMEYFIELD SCREAMS; BANK'S LOSS ONLY $1,650

Detroit, Mich., July 11.—(AP)—Two gunmen wearing dark glasses entered the State bank of suburban Farmington today commanding: "Everybody lie down!"

Two employés complied, but not Mrs. Ida Jimeyfield, 75 years old, a patron. One robber approached her and she screamed: "Don't touch me!" He twisted her wrist, but she fought him off.

With Mrs. Jimeyfield in pursuit, the robber darted to the cashier's cage, grabbed $1,650 in currency, and fled with his companion, on guard at the door.

Physician Errs in Diagnosis; Ends Own Life

San Rafael, Cal., July 11.—(AP)—The body of a young doctor, who left notes expressing horror at the incorrect diagnosis he had made for a dying patient, was found today in a dingy hotel room at nearby Olema.

The doctor, Joseph Swindt, 32 years old, who had been missing nine days from his home in Chino, had died of poison, leaving a written record of his feelings as death approached, Coroner J. Ray Keaton said.

"It is so peaceful and calm and so different from the mad chaos that I have left behind me," Dr. Swindt wrote.

Laments His Failure.

He named a patient whom he had left until "his very last dying words called me back to his side, bringing the terrible realization that I had utterly and completely missed the diagnosis, a fearful monument to my horrible ineptness as a practitioner.

"Surely there can be no good reason for my going on and maiming honest people just to eke out a living—to me general practice was just a life of mayhem and murder."

In Chino, nearly 500 miles south of here, Swindt's widow said she could give no reason for her husband's actions. He was graduated from Pomona college in 1928.

Notations Tell Reactions.

Coroner Keaton said the notes told a little of advancing death. The first notation was at 8 p. m., July 8, and recorded the taking of 15 grains of poison. It mentioned: "No reaction."

Similar notations of "no reaction" timed 5 and ten minutes later were followed with the exclamation: "What the hell!" At 8:17—"No reaction." Then came: "Here it comes," followed by a description of a feeling of calm.

IRISH TAKE OVER FORTS; RULE BY BRITAIN ENDED

SPIKE ISLAND, Cork Harbor, Ireland, July 11.—(AP)—Prime Minister Eamon de Valera hoisted the green, white, and gold banner of Ireland over Fort Spike today at a simple ceremony which marked the passing of British rule from south Ireland.

British troops turned over possession of the fort to Irish soldiers in accordance with the Anglo-Irish finance, trade, and defense agreement of April 25. Irish soldiers also occupied Carlisle and Camden Forts in Cork Harbor.

LADY LUCK WITH LINDY; SCIENCE AT CONTROLS TODAY

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Only eleven years separate the New York to Paris flights of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Howard Hughes, but in spirit the two achievements are an age apart.

Lindbergh's epic journey, completed on May 21, 1927, was a successful gamble. He staked his life on the skill of the one man aboard his ship—himself. He wagered on one engine. He balanced his knack of guessing wind drift, compass error, and his ability to "get through" against all nature's tricks that might be brought to bear against him in the 3,620 mile trip.

Science Tilts the Scales.

Hughes' flying was of another school—the modern school, rooted in science. The odds always present in such a venture were tilted in favor of Hughes and his crewmen by more than 100 instruments now known to aeronautical science, and by three radio sending and seven radio receiving sets, of which Lindbergh had none.

In Lindbergh's case the world rubbed its eyes in wonder that he arrived. His achievement in navigating perfectly for almost thirty-four hours of constant flight was overlooked in the greater marvel.

The amazement over Hughes' crossing of the Atlantic is not that he arrived in Paris, but that he was able to make the flight at an average speed of 219 miles an hour.

Lindy Carried by 220 "Horses."

Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis" was a Ryan monoplane with a Wright J-5 motor that developed 220 horse power. He carried 451 gallons of gasoline and 20 gallons of oil. When fully loaded his airplane weighed slightly over 5,600 pounds. He had a fixed-pitch metal propeller, fixed landing gear, and his plane was built of spruce and metal tubing covered with cotton fabric.

The plane was of a new type and was undoubtedly one of the best of its day. It was arranged so that the pilot could see straight ahead only through a periscope. Lindbergh had a big wicker easy chair installed as his seat. He could see out either side through wide windows he kept open throughout his flight.

Ten Times Lindy's Horse Power.

Hughes' airplane is another "new type." It is a Lockheed 14 with special landing gear and built to carry the overload of fuel he carried. The landing gear pulls up into the wings in flight. The machine has two Wright G-102 Cyclone engines, each rated to deliver a maximum of 1,100 horse power.

When Hughes left New York his plane weighed 25,897 pounds. Of this 10,065 pounds represented the 1,650 gallons of 100 octane fuel he carried in special tanks. Another 3,000 pounds was represented by his radio equipment. And in addition to Hughes there was a flight engineer, a co-pilot, and two navigators in the crew. One of these also is a radio expert.

Early stories of Lindbergh's flight tell how he "flew on instruments." In comparison with the complete instrument panels in today's airplanes—panels on which numerous dials and

BULLETIN.

New York, July 12 (Tuesday).—(AP)—Completing the second hop of his round the world speed flight, radio reports to headquarters here said Howard Hughes set his silver monoplane down at Central airport in Moscow at 3:13 a. m. (Chicago time) today after a 1,541 mile nonstop trip from Paris.

The flyers made the trip in seven hours and 49 minutes. The five men, climbing wearily from the big plane, were surrounded immediately by Russian newspaper men at the airdrome. One of the crew, speaking into a microphone, shouted: "Hello, America!"

The report to headquarters at the World's Fair grounds said Hughes expected to take off on the third leg of his journey—a 2,281 mile flight to Krasnoyarsk, Siberia—within an hour, as soon as the plane could be refueled. He averaged 209.4 miles per hour in the flight from Paris.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 12 [Tuesday].—Howard Hughes, American millionaire adventurer, and his crew of four early today were winging their way toward Moscow on the second leg of a round the world flight.

It was reported that a wheel was damaged in the takeoff from Le Bourget field and might cause difficulty in landing at Moscow. Hughes by radio denied the landing gear was damaged.

Hughes took off at 1:24 a. m. [7:24 p. m. Monday Chicago time] in a light drizzle and expected to make the 1,541 miles to Moscow in about eight hours.

The flyers spent 8 hours and 29 minutes in Paris, most of it made necessary for repairs to their plane. They arrived at 4:55 p. m. yesterday [10:55 a. m. Chicago time] after a 3,620 mile Atlantic flight of 16 hours and 35 minutes from New York—averaging 219 miles per hour—which cut in half Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's record of 33½ hours to the same field on May 21, 1927.

Out to Break Post's Record.

Hughes now is out to break the round the world record which the late Wiley Post set in July, 1933. Post flew a course that took him 15,596 miles in 7 days 18 hours 49 minutes at an average speed of 131.4 miles an hour. Hughes' planned route totals 14,710 miles.

In the take-off today the heavily loaded, silver winged, twin motored Lockheed 14 plane rolled the length of the concrete runway and then hit a rut as the concrete ended and the runway continued on cinders. The left wheel bounced and appeared to be damaged as it was drawn up. Hughes was notified by radio from the field.

Flies at High Altitude.

Hughes' first radio message was sent 21 minutes after leaving the field and said "flying blind" [by instruments]. The plane was flying at high altitude, mostly at 16,000 feet. They were required to fly more than 10,000 feet above the fortified zones of Germany.

Radio Engineer Richard Stoddart reported the occupants were using oxygen and "everybody is all right." Hughes said the average speed per hour was 185 and added "we are trying to conserve our oxygen supply as much as possible; our supply is limited."

The others aboard the plane are Ed Lund, flight engineer; Harry Connor and T. L. Thurlow, navigators.

In a later message [about midnight, Chicago time] the plane was 608 miles from Paris and slightly less than 100 miles east of Deutsch-Krone, Germany.

"We have picked up quite a bit of speed and estimate we are making 220 miles per hour," Hughes said. "We are flying at 17,300 feet and coming down now to a lower altitude. We have been on top of a solid bank of clouds, and we haven't seen the ground since we left Paris. We have had to fly higher part of the way to stay above the clouds, which form ice on the wings the minute we get in them."

Lists Landing Points.

Hughes did not reveal until he reached Paris that he definitly intended to continue around the world. After leaving Moscow he expects to fly 2,281 miles to Krasnoyarsk, Siberia. [He might make an intermediate stop at Omsk, 1,437 miles from Moscow.] From Krasnoyarsk the next planned hop is 1,277 miles to Yakutsk, Siberia, then 2,456 miles to Fairbanks, Alaska, and finally 3,380 miles to New York. He might make a stop at Edmonton, Alta. Supplies have been laid down at all possible stopping points listed.

[Hughes' flight headquarters in New York figured he might arrive there Thursday night or early Friday—allowing between sixty and sixty-five hours in the air and another ten to fifteen on the ground, barring mishaps. This would better by about three days the record of Post, who flew solo in the Winnie Mae.]

Forced to Make Detour.

On the Moscow-Paris leg, Hughes was flying a detour 150 miles longer than the direct line to Moscow. This was because restrictions prohibit flying over fortifications along the Latvian, Lithuanian, and Russian borders. Hughes in Paris scotched rumors that Germany had refused permission to fly over its territory.

Hughes had made an attempt to take off from Paris two hours after his arrival, but at the last moment a mechanic noticed that the aluminum skin over the tail surfaces of the $85,000 plane was cracked. A corps of mechanics pushed the plane into the hangar and at once began removing the cracked plates.

This also gave time to repair a snarled radio antenna which had interfered with reception and transmission of messages on the Atlantic flight, to tune up the two 1,000 horse power Cyclone engines and to straighten a bent control rod. Hughes said he believed the control rod was bent when the plane hit a bump in taking off from Floyd Bennett field at New York on Sunday.

Has Only Short Rest.

Hughes' only rest in Paris was a couple of hours spent in the apartment of the Le Bourget field commandant. Direction of repairs, refueling, and replenishment of the plane's supplies kept him busy.

The repairs were completed at midnight. Hughes made a last visit to the weather bureau for information. The big plane was rolled out of the hangar and warmed up. Hughes thanked the field authorities for their aid and Paris for its welcome and then took off.

As soon as he landed yesterday afternoon Hughes appeared anxious to proceed and he urged mechanics to refuel his plane as quickly as possible. With French flyers and United States Ambassador William C. Bullitt aiding him, he pored over maps and flying charts.

Hughes was crestfallen, but not discouraged by the delay. He landed here well ahead of Post's time, but the postponement in his plans for departure meant that he might reach Moscow slightly behind Post's time to that point. Post arrived in Moscow fifty hours and 10 minutes from New York, going by way of Berlin. Berlin is 4,600 miles from New York.

Too Swift for Spectators.

Hughes took an expectant Paris public unawares by the extraordinary swiftness of his trans-Atlantic flight. He brought his plane to a perfect landing before less than a hundred spectators.

Ambassador Bullitt arrived at the field barely in time to welcome Hughes and his crew. Welcoming French air ministry officials had no time at all to spare. Only the few American newspaper men in Paris were on hand to see the termination of the momentous flight. The French press was caught almost flatfooted.

Admiring Parisians, who soon had arrived by the thousands, made affectionate comparisons of Hughes, who supervised repairs to his machine, with the lanky Lindbergh and his taciturn solicitude over his machine on May 21, 1927.

Recall Lindy's Flight.

This kind of fond recollection had been the undercurrent of the Paris press for days and received new impetus on Sunday at news from New York that Hughes had completely ignored the crowds at Floyd Bennett field as he worked on his engine "just like Lindbergh." The press added lyrically that "they have the same mysticism."

When a gusty drizzle set in the plane was moved into a hangar while a detachment of black helmeted mobile guards with carbines and a large contingent of municipal police kept the crowds from the plane's shiny sides.

After the welcome by Ambassador Bullitt and the French air ministry officials, the five flyers were escorted to the second floor reception room of the Le Bourget administration building for the traditional French "wine of honor."

Had Favorable Wind.

The great speed of the plane was facilitated by a favorable wind, but a large part of the flight was made in cloudy weather during which instruments were relied on solely. For more than six hours flying was blind.

There was some doubt at first that Hughes' plane, as he gently set it down on the runway, was ocean-conquering American ship. A British air transport company uses similar planes and because Hughes arrived so far ahead of his estimated time.

Moscow Prepares Welcome.

MOSCOW, July 12 [Tuesday].—(AP)—A 2,500 gallon tank car of gasoline was rolled on to the central airport early today and a special ground crew held in readiness to refuel Howard Hughes' round the world monoplane upon its arrival from Paris.

The airport was alive with activity when word was broadcast that Hughes and his four flight companions had taken off from Paris. Food was prepared for the flyers and members of Moscow's American colony mobilized automobiles for the trip to the airport to greet them.

The soviet foreign office kept its doors open until 2 a. m. to issue passes—admittance to the airport being by special permission only.

C. C. Maidment, representative of the Wright aeronautical firm, was on the field ready to supervise and check the plane's engines.

Soviet experts were on hand to advise the American flyers on weather conditions in the soviet and explain radio preparations for assistance to the plane's navigators between Moscow and Alaska across all of Siberia.

STEAL RADIOS AND CLEANERS.

Burglars stole eight radios, three vacuum cleaners, an electric fan, and $25 over the week-end from the All Makes Refrigeration Sales and Service, Inc., 2407 Montrose avenue. Fred Roth, the owner, estimated the loot, excluding cash, at $251.

PILOT DEAD, 2 HURT IN ARMY PLANE CRASH

PANAMA, Panama, July 11.—(AP)—First Lieut. Paul R. Gowen of Caldwell, Idaho, was killed and two other air corps men were injured today when a twin-motored United States army bomber crashed in flames on the Paitilla Point military reservation near here.

Lieut. Kenneth Chosher, navigator, and Private G. H. Bundy, radio operator, crawled from the flaming wreckage with serious burns.

The plane crashed fifteen minutes after leaving Albrook Field on a routine flight. Crosher and Bundy said clouds of smoke began billowing from the right motor shortly after the takeoff.

They said Lieut. Gowen tried desperately to keep the plane aloft, but with only one motor operating was unable to gain altitude. Gowen headed the plane into a glide toward the water off Patilla Point, less than two miles away. He was only a few hundred yards from the water's edge when the flaming ship plunged into tall trees.

Young Braniff and Flying Instructor Killed in Crash

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 11.—(AP)—Thurman Braniff, 20 years old, son of T. E. Braniff, president of Braniff Airways, and Merrill Donley, chief flying instructor at Wiley Post airport, were fatally injured tonight in a crash at the airport. John H. Burke, airport manager, said the two men had just taken off in a new private sports ship and were attempting a low turn when the plane slipped and crashed tail first. He said he did not know which man was at the controls.

THURLOW'S SON, 3, WHOOPS IT UP AS DAD FLIES SEA

New York, July 11.—(AP)—Tommy Thurlow Jr., 3 years old, staged his own celebration today when Howard Hughes' silver monoplane, with Tommy's dad aboard as a navigator, reached Le Bourget airport after a record-breaking dash across the Atlantic.

Tommy ran around the hotel room where his young mother, Mrs. Thomas Lawson Thurlow, had awaited the news with Mrs. Harry Connor, wife of the other navigator. Loudly Tommy shouted: "Daddy's in Paris! Daddy's in Paris!"

The two women, who had waved cheery farewells last night at Floyd Bennett airport when the big ship lurched into the air, were comparatively calm, but Mrs. Thurlow admitted she'd been a little worried.

"After all, though," she said, "they're flying men, and it's best not to get wrought up over these things."

In another hotel a few blocks away Rosemary Stoddart, attractive young wife of Edward Richard Stoddart, radio engineer, started to dance on getting word of the plane's safe arrival. "I'm too happy to do anything but dance," she said.

2 Cuban Army Flyers Die in Air Crash Near Havana

HAVANA, July 11.—(AP)—Two Cuban army airmen were killed today as their plane crashed at Havana Beach, near here. They were Lieut. Luis Jesus Ubiel, pilot, and Jesus Borrero Alfaro, mechanic.

New York, July 11.—[Special.]—Howard Hughes, it appears, had romantic notions in his head before he took off for Paris. He sneaked away to Saybrook, Conn., where Katharine Hepburn, the actress, is vacationing.

Hughes was divorced several years ago and since then has been frequently in Miss Hepburn's company. Time and again they have denied reports of impending marriage—they even have denied stories of a romance, but that is the way of people from Hollywood.

Hughes, according to report, spent several hours with Miss Hepburn before he flew back to New York. Residents of Saybrook say that shortly after the takeoff at Floyd Bennett field a big monoplane flew over their community and dipped once in salute.

Miss Hepburn was quoted today as saying "I'm awfully glad he made it."

LADY LUCK WITH LINDY; SCIENCE IN SEAT BY HUGHES

11 Years Separate Hops; Ships an Age Apart.

Comparison of Instruments.

LINDBERGH'S — Oil pressure gauge, oil temperature gauge, turn and bank indicator, airspeed indicator, engine crankshaft speed counter, navigation and landing light switches, altimeter, ignition switch.

HUGHES—Oil pressure and oil temperature gauges for each engine, cylinder head temperature gauges for each engine, four fuel capacity gauges, airspeed indicator, dual manifold pressure gauges, Sperry automatic pilot, dual artificial horizons, directional gyro compass, clock, Cambridge engine exhaust gas analyzer, two sensitive altimeters, flap position indicator, wheel position indicator, revolution counters for each engine, oil pressure gauges for the ship's hydraulic system, light switches for the entire ship and instrument panel, radio control switches, tuning grinders, volume rheostats, propeller pitch controls, flap controls, landing gear switches, mixture controls, throttles, carburetor heat controls, propeller "full feathering" controls, trim tab controls, fuel tank selector switches, dual magneto switches, master switch, wobble pumps for hydraulic system and for fuel tanks, fuel flow meters, dual controls for the engine cowling cooling gills.

Each Instrument an Aid.

Hughes' instrument panel, despite its apparent complications, allowed him to know a great deal more about his airplane and the atmosphere through which he flew than Lindbergh could glean from his meager equipment. Knowledge of conditions enabled Hughes and his men to adjust their delicate high compression power house to its highest performance.

Lindbergh' adjustment consisted of easing back the throttle on his laboring motor as he gradually gained height.

Once out over the ocean Lindbergh depended upon his compasses and upon the stars.

The highly trained navigators in Hughes' ship constantly took sights upon the stars and calculated their position by the classic methods of astronomical navigation. The two navigators checked their work against each other and were able to give the pilots a fresh position report as often as requested.

Hazard of Fatigue Banished.

Fatigue, a factor that was important in Lindbergh's case, was not evident when Hughes and his men landed. In the first place their flight had been made at twice the 108 mile an hour average of Lindbergh. They flew the journey in less than seventeen hours, while Lindbergh required almost thirty-four.

They were able to relieve each other at the controls and turn much of the flying over to the Sperry automatic pilot. Lindbergh sat grimly, through his time in the air, holding the stick and touching rudder pedals. Disaster and death were the penalties he faced if he fell asleep.

Lindbergh knew nothing about the weather he would encounter when he arrived in Europe, for his last reports had come shortly before his takeoff more than thirty hours earlier. Hughes and his men knew each half hour the changing weather ahead.

RADIO ON PLANE FURNISHES LOG OF HUGHES TRIP

Progress Is Followed Via Air Waves.

New York, July 11.—[Special.]—The radio equipment of Howard Hughes' plane furnished a running log for friends of the flyer and the New York world's fair headquarters during his record flight to Paris. Not all reports were received directly at New York. Some were relayed from ships at sea or from Europe. After his takeoff at 6:20 p. m. Sunday night the radio log follows [all in Chicago daylight saving time]:

7:26 p. m.—"Over Boston. Still climbing. Everything fine."

8:20 p. m.—"Two hundred eighty miles from New York, over the ocean, beyond Rockland, Me."

8:55 p. m.—"Over Nova Scotia, 420 miles out."

9:30 p. m.—Hughes gave his position as latitude 45:08, longitude 65:25. Over the Bay of Funday, near Margaretsville, N. S., 470 miles out.

11 p. m.—"Navigators working on data for over-water hop." No position stated.

12:36 a. m. [Monday]—"Speed increased to 192 miles per hour, 1,180 miles from New York and preparing to start over-water hop. Position 49:38 north, 54 west; altitude, 7,450. Encountering rain and flying both by compass and celestial navigation. Electrical reel in hold of plane broken. It is used in lengthening antenna and hand reel being used without interruption of operations; contacting American west coast and European radio stations."

1 a. m.—Broadcasting systems in New York intercepted a message from Hughes in which he said: "If I had been able to report two hours ago I would have used saying familiar to all flyers: 'Light rain outside, heavy rain inside.' I mean that it was raining outside and our windshield was leaking. Just ahead I can see daylight breaking."

1:30 a. m.—In a broadcast to radio station WOR Hughes said: "I hope we get to Paris before we run out of gas, but I am not so sure." He said the heavy load and high temperatures had used an excessive amount of fuel. Plane had been using 600 horse power and Hughes was decreasing power gradually. He said: "I hope we will have enough gas to reach land." Flying at 8,000 feet, 1,400 miles out from New York.

2:45 a. m.—Radio station WOR tried to make arrangements with Hughes for a broadcast at 4 a. m., but failed. Picked up his voice, but did not learn his position.

4:25 a. m.—After an hour of vain attempts to communicate with the plane flight headquarters at the world's fair grounds picked up a report from Hughes giving his position as 53:30 north, 33:10 west. The plane was at 9,200 feet, encountering broken cloud formations that threatened rain. Speed had been increased to 200 miles per hour. The position was 1,000 miles from Newfoundland and 900 miles from the coast of Ireland. There was a 15 mile tail wind.

4:26 a. m.—Hughes spoke with the Columbia Broadcasting system, but refused to give any details. He said: "I'm too busy to talk now. I'm going direction finding."

5:25 a. m.—Hughes was in radio contact with the Ile de France of the French Line. He said that all was well on board and that the plane was 2,250 miles from New York. The position given was latitude 54 north, longitude 27:50 west. He forecast that the coast of Ireland would be sighted by 9 a. m., with arrival in Paris by noon. The flight headquarters at the fair grounds also announced that Hughes had been in touch with the liner President Roosevelt of the United States Line.

6:52 a. m.—The London office of the Trans-Radio Press system was in contact with the plane. Hughes reported he was 525 miles off the coast of Ireland. He said he would go directly to Paris and would not fly over London.

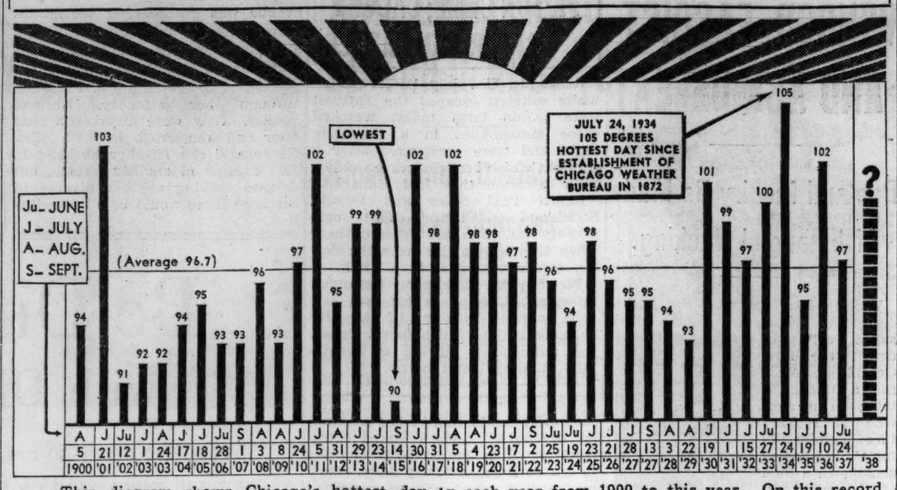
7:15 a. m.—Le Bourget air field established first radio contact with Hughes. He reported he was 500 kilometers [310 miles] off Ireland and that all was well. The plane was averaging 185 miles per hour, alternating between altitudes of 3,000 and 10,000 feet to avoid fog.

8 a. m.—A personal message from Hughes to his representative, Albert I. Lodwick, at flight headquarters, which was forwarded by Radio Marine corporation, announced that at 9 a. m. the plane was 200 miles off the coast of Ireland and that the speed was 225 miles per hour. The altitude was 10,600 feet, an altitude at which his motors work best. The distance to Paris is 580 miles.

10 a. m.—Flight headquarters at the world's fair received a message from Hughes, relayed by Radio Marine at Chatham, Mass., announcing he had crossed the French coast and was headed direct for Le Bourget, six miles out of Paris.

The next news was of Hughes' landing at Le Bourget field, Paris, at 10:55 a. m.

Record Days for Heat in Chicago Since 1900



This diagram shows Chicago's hottest day in each year from 1900 to this year. On this record July usually brings the hottest day. The high in 1903 was reached on two days. This was also true in 1927.

JUNE	JULY	AUGUST	SEPTEMBER

The number of times the hottest day of the year has fallen in the months indicated since 1900.

Record Due Soon

Until the end of the month Chicagoans can expect to experience the heat record of the year almost any day, Forecaster C. A. Donnel said yesterday. It is in July that the hottest day of the year normally occurs.

The 1938 record is 91, set Sunday. The all-time high for any month was 105 degrees on July 24, 1934. This is 3 degrees above the maximum for August, which normally has somewhat cooler temperatures. The mean temperature for the two months is 72.5 for July and 71.6 for August.

After reaching 85 degrees just before noon yesterday the wind shifted to the lake and the mercury dropped ten degrees. Unsettled and warmer weather is forecast for today.

Hughes Following Wiley Post's Course on Round World Flight

The globe circling route upon which Howard Hughes and his four flying companions are embarked follows closely the course taken by the late Wiley Post in 1933, when he set the existing record of 7 days 18 hours 49 minutes for a flight of 15,596 miles around the northern hemisphere.

That record was made when Post flew alone in his white Lockheed monoplane, the Winnie Mae. It represented a remarkable exhibition of physical stamina, for Post stopped only for servicing and refueling his plane, going without sleep virtually the entire time he was making the flight.

Post's Average 131 Miles Hour.

Post's airplane, with its 500 horse power Wasp engine, was capable of a cruising speed of about 145 miles an hour. For his entire flight he averaged 131.4 miles an hour due to delays, headwinds, climbs at slow speed to cruising altitudes, etc. He remained in the air 97 hours 13 minutes; his elapsed time totaled 186 hours 49 minutes.

From Hughes' flight headquarters in New York last night came word that he may be able to make his flight in 60 or 65 hours of flying time. His total elapsed time will represent at least another 40 hours, even if the remainder of his flight is free from the delays that beset him at Paris.

Comparison of Stops.

Post made stops at Berlin and at Koenigsberg, Germany; at Moscow, Novo-Sibirsk, Irkutsk, Rukhlovo and Khabarovsk, in Russia; at Flat and Fairbanks, Alaska, and at Edmonton, Canada, and thence nonstop to New York City.

Al Lodwick, personal friend and adviser of Hughes, announced in New York last night that the millionaire adventurer and his crew probably would fly 2,281 miles to Krasnoyarsk, Siberia, after reaching Moscow. From Krasnoyarsk they will hop to Yakutsk, Siberia, 1,277 miles, thence to Fairbanks, Alaska, another 2,456 miles, and finally 3,380 miles to New York City.

KERNER SENDS BILL FOR DRIVER LICENSE BACK TO GOV. HORNER

Springfield, Ill., July 11.—(AP)—Declining to make public his opinion on their constitutionality, Attorney General Otto Kerner returned to Gov. Henry Horner today the drivers' license and other special sessions bills he had been asked to study. The principal question in regard to the drivers' license measure was whether the $400,000 appropriation included was passed in a legal manner. The bill has not been signed by the governor.

RECKLESS DRIVER IS JAILED 5 DAYS; 4 GET PROBATION

A five day jail sentence was imposed yesterday upon Walter Wojtowicz, 1616 Wabansia avenue, on a charge of reckless driving. Other motorists who faced Judge Michael G. Kasper in Safety court escaped with a year probation each, but lost their right to drive for the same period. They are: Paul Firgens, 1920 Mohawk street; Arthur Garifolas, 2845 Division street, and Ray Holt, 1940 North Leavitt street, all charged with driving while intoxicated; Al Mann, 1318 Touhy avenue, charged with leaving the scene of an accident.

AUTO AND TRUCK CRASH IN INDIANA; MOTORIST KILLED

Open Investigation Into Dwight Collision.

James Venirs, 20 years old, 19 West 65th street, was killed yesterday when the car in which he was riding and a truck collided near Michigan City, Ind. The truck was driven by Charles Schuman of Benton Harbor, Mich.

Fred Colze Jr., 4, 129 South 6th street, Maywood, was killed yesterday when he darted in front of his father's car and was struck by another on U. S. 14 near Crystal Lake.

Investigate Fatal Crash.

Investigation was begun yesterday into a collision Sunday night near Dwight in which Mrs. Bert Wertheimer, 30, of 5011 Dorchester avenue, was killed. The car, driven by Mrs. Wertheimer's husband, collided with a bus in which Chicago members of the American Legion and their families were returning from a visit to the Soldiers and Sailors' Orphans home at Normal. Wertheimer and eleven members of the Legion party were taken to the Veterans' hospital in Dwight.

Nurse Finds Man Injured.

Miss Elizabeth Kissinger, an airplane hostess, on her way from her home in the Hyde Park hotel to the Chicago airport, yesterday found Edward Maher of 6436 Normal avenue unconscious from injuries just suffered in an automobile collision at 63d street and Cicero avenue. Miss Kissinger, who is a nurse, gave him first aid and then went on to board her plane while police took him to Holy Cross hospital.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 423 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 328 were killed in Chicago, where 9,666 were injured in the same period.

TEXAS GOVERNOR GIVEN LIFE JOB BY ROOSEVELT

State Surprised by U. S. Court Appointment.

seen fit to inject the subject of the judiciary controversy twice into the first five days of his trip caused an intensification of interest in what he may do tomorrow and Wednesday when he passes through Colorado and Nevada, the home states of two outstanding foes of the court packing scheme.

Adams Seeks Approval.

In Colorado Senator Alva B. Adams is engaged in a primary fight. He hopes to win presidential approval because of his work in behalf of the 5½ billion dollar pump priming program and the ill fated governmental reorganization plan. Senator Pat McCarran in Nevada is facing opposition in his quest for the Democratic nomination.

Other platform appearances were made at Chillicothe, Childress, and Clarendon. At the platform appearances the President spoke of Representative W. D. McFarlane, who is facing a stiff primary contest, as his good friend. McFarlane is being attacked for radicalism.

At Amarillo the President left the train for Ellwood Park, where he spoke for Representative Marvin Jones, chairman of the house agricultural committee, who is in a hot contest for the Democratic nomination in his district.

Rain began to fall when the President's automobile started for the park and became a downpour before he arrived. Mr. Roosevelt's summer suit was soaked by the time he reached the platform. There he removed his big Texas style hat and water streamed down his face when he spoke.

Lauds Farm Chairman.

"We are fortunate at Washington in having as chairman of the house agricultural committee a man who has a well rounded knowledge of agricultural programs in every part of the United States," he said in approving Jones' candidacy. "He and I have discussed many times the great objective of putting agriculture and cattle raising on a safe basis — giving assurance to those who engage in these pursuits that they will not be broke one year and flush the next. We need greater permanency and greater annual security for those who use the soil."

The presidential benediction on Jones and MacFarlane climaxed a series for the day which included Maury Maverick, Lyndon Johnson, and Hatton Summers, chairman of the house judiciary committee, whose speech against the court packing bill in the house contributed to its senate defeat.

There was no blessing for Representative Fritz Lanham, who has voted more frequently against administration proposals than House Minority Leader Bertrand H. Snell [R., N. Y.], according to his opponent.

Absence of Garner Noticeable.

Absence of Vice President John N. Garner and House Speaker Sam Rayburn was arousing curiosity in the press late today when the White House staf released an interchange of undated telegrams between the President and his capital lieutenants.

From Uvalde, Garner telegraphed two reasons for his absence: "First, it is too far to walk, and, second, I am now working for a living."

"Many thanks," the President replied. "Hope the fishing is good and the work not too strenuous. Wet a line for me. All best wishes to you and your number one boss."

SEIZE 1 IN CHAIN LETTER SCHEME; 6 OTHERS HUNTED

Police late yesterday raided the offices of the Taylor Drum and Bugle Corps Profit Sharing system, a chain letter scheme, at 37 South Wabash and arrested Henry Verburman of 1536 East 84th street. They had warrants for the arrest of six other men and three women, but found only Verburman in the place. He will be questioned today.

The place was closed after members of the Harold E. Taylor post of the American Legion complained the operators were using the name of the post, although permission to do so had been refused. In another chain letter office at 1525 East 53d street police seized Joseph Edward of 556 East 87th place and his brother Paul. Here policemen found more than 100 unopened letters and a list of 10,000 names.

IGOE QUESTIONS PRE-PRIMARY ROAD WORKERS

Twenty of several hundred men added to the state highway pay roll before the April primary election were questioned yesterday in the office of Michael L. Igoe, United States attorney. He and his first assistant, Warren Canaday, will question more than 400 men to determine if they were working on roads, or politics.

Most of the men were dropped after the primary. The federal government is interested because of the federal funds used in highway construction. F. Lynden Smith, director of the state department of public works, says the temporary employés were necessitated by the April snows.

STREET CAR VICTIM IDENTIFIED.

A man seriously injured by a street car Saturday night at 45th street and Kedzie avenue regained consciousness in the Southtown hospital yesterday and identified himself as Felix Janus, 45 years old, of 4729 South Keavale avenue.

MAKE ROOSEVELT MAIN ISSUE IN OKLAHOMA VOTE

550,000 Ballots to Be Cast by Democrats.

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 11.—(AP)—Loyalty to his administration, discussed by President Roosevelt in his Oklahoma City speech, stood out as an issue tonight as Democratic contenders for governor and senator wound up a hard-driving Oklahoma primary campaign.

The primary tomorrow is expected to bring out a record vote, upward of 550,000 on the Democratic ticket alone. Fair and continued warm weather was forecast.

The President boosted the hopes of Senator Elmer Thomas for renomination by declaring Thomas had been of enormous help in advising the administration of Oklahoma's needs. He called Thomas "my old friend." In addition, Mr. Roosevelt had a few kind words for Gov. E. W. Marland for his aid in developing a national oil policy. Marland also is a senatorial candidate.

Gomer Smith Snubbed.

The President's failure to mention Representative Gomer Smith, Thomas' second rival, was interpreted by many observers as a definite snub for the fiery fifth district congressman, who voted against the President's reorganization bill and the administration farm bill.

By inference, the President condemned one of five aspirants for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, former Gov. W. H. Murray, who he said was known nationally as a Republican. Murray introduced Alf M. Landon, Republican presidential nominee, at a speech here in 1936 and generally has opposed Roosevelt's schemes.

Four other candidates for governor are Leon C. Phillips, red haired Okemah legislator; W. S. Key, former state WPA administrator; Ira Finley, president of the Veterans of Industry of America, and Jack Walton, impeached and removed from the governor's chair in 1923.

Key Rides on Special Train.

Key rode the President's train out of Oklahoma City Saturday. The Phillips camp challenged claims that the President gave a friendly nod to Key in a reference in his address to benefits of the WPA program to the state.

For the first time since 1928 Oklahoma partisans will nominate their candidate without a runoff primary. The last legislature repealed the runoff law and a straight plurality will win in tomorrow's election.

Eight of the state nine Democratic congressmen filed for renomination. Voters of the fifth district, which includes Oklahoma City, must choose a successor to Gomer Smith.

In the Republican primary there were contests for only five state jobs and six congressional seats. A Republican convention indorsed Ross Rizley, Guymon attorney, for governor, and Harry O. Glasser of Enid for United States senator.

Swing Devotees

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Purchase, N. Y., July 11.—[Special.]—John and Hilda Jane Lehman, young children of Governor and Mrs. Herbert Lehman, were still talking today about the noted young lady who was their special guest on the Lehman estate here on Sunday.

The young lady was Shirley Temple, of Hollywood, who with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Temple, was entertained by the Lehmans. Apparently to indicate the occasion was a noteworthy one for herself as well as the Lehman children, Shirley went swimming with the governor—something she had declined to do with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt on Saturday. Leapfrog, luncheon on the lawn, swinging, and distribution of Shirley Temple "police badges" were other activities.

PASTORS BRAND WINROD FASCIST AND ASK DEFEAT

Demand Inquiry Be Made of Financial Backing.

Wichita, Kas., July 11.—[Special.]—Republican voters of Kansas were asked today to defeat the Rev. Gerald B. Winrod, a fundamentalist minister, who is seeking the nomination for United States senator in a field of four candidates. The Rev. Mr. Winrod is attacked by a committee of Kansas Protestant ministers, who denounce him as a Fascist.

The Rev. Gerald B. Winrod.

Pamphlets were distributed over the state by the ministerial committee, which is demanding an investigation of the preacher's candidacy by the Dies congressional committee. The ministers want to know where the Rev. Mr. Winrod is getting the money to finance his admittedly costly campaign and he isn't telling.

Makes Fortune As Publisher.

Editor of the magazines Defender and Revealer for the last ten years, the senatorial candidate is reported to have made a considerable fortune. He also sold many anti-Catholic books and publications. It was excerpts from the Rev. Mr. Winrod's magazine writings that the ministerial committee reproduced in a pamphlet in support of charges that he is a Fascist.

These writings have denounced the ministers of Germany as spreaders of communistic propaganda, denounced the Y. M. C. A. as communistic, attacked Jews as the promoters of communism throughout the world, and assailed Catholicism.

In their attack on the Rev. Mr. Winrod, the ministers have not charged that he was financed from abroad and about the only tieup with Fascism that has been found is indorsement of his publications by the official organ of the Fascist party in the United States.

Brilliant and Forceful Orator.

The Rev. Mr. Winrod, now 38 years old, was born and reared in Wichita. He attended college in Columbus, O., and soon after being graduated became a member of the Defenders of the Christian Faith. In Kansas he is counted a brilliant man and a forceful speaker. The tabernacle here in which he preaches the gospel is packed nightly.

In his current campaign for the senatorial nomination he has acquired an expensive, modern sound truck from which he makes political talks in ten or a dozen towns daily. How his political effort will be rewarded rests with the Aug. 2 primary. Political observers here doubt that the man who is called a rabble rouser can win the nomination and in the next breath admit that anything can happen in a Kansas election.

Others in Campaign.

Dallas Knapp, dean of the state senate, from Coffeyville, is considered to have a slight edge over the Rev. Mr. Winrod, but even Knapp's supporters admit the preacher is right near the top. Others who seek the nomination are former Gov. Clyde Reed of Parsons and the Rev. Jesse C. Fisher, a Methodist Episcopal minister of Garden City.

FIVE FLEE GEORGIA PRISON CAMP; CAUGHT AFTER GUN BATTLE

Reidsville, Ga., July 11.—(AP)—Five white convicts escaped the Tattnall state prison farm today, wrecked three automobiles in a desperate flight and were recaptured after a gunfight which brought grave wounds to a salesman they had kidnaped.

Sheriff Paul Sikes and Deputy Strickland ended the chase some seventy-five miles southeast of here when they shot a tire from the fleeing car, wrecking it in a ditch.

W. Herbert Brannen, Savannah salesman kidnaped in his own car, was wounded by some of the fifty or more bullets which flew between the automobiles during a twenty-mile running pistol battle.

FOUR DEMOCRATS DENY ROCKFORD STAG SCANDAL

Rockford, Ill., July 11.—[Special.]—Arthur Sagona, a deputy state fire marshal; Floyd Heath, a state oil inspector; George Hondros and James Roy Miller pleaded not guilty today. They were arraigned in the Circuit court on charges of giving an obscene exhibition at a Democratic stag here June 8. They were indicted last Saturday by a grand jury that investigated the stag.

Sagona and Heath have been suspended from their state jobs pending an investigation of the charges against them by their superiors, according to word from Springfield.

The stag was sponsored by the Winnebago County Democratic Central committee to raise funds to send delegates to the national convention of young Democrats.

Divorces Engineer in 1911 and Again 27 Years Later

Mrs. Carolyn Kinne of 6546 Ross avenue was granted her second divorce yesterday from Chester Kinne, a railroad engineer. The couple were first married in 1910, Mrs. Kinne explained to Judge Philip J. Finnegan through her attorney, Norman Becker. They were divorced a year later and remarried in 1921. Mrs. Kinne said she left her husband in 1933 because of another woman, but delayed seeking another divorce in the hope there would be a reconciliation.

DEMOCRATS SET TO RENOMINATE VAN NUYS TODAY

Senator to Back McNutt for President in 1940.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., July 11.—[Special.]—The stage was set tonight for the renomination tomorrow of Senator Frederick Van Nuys by the Democratic state convention.

Paul V. McNutt.

Eight days ago such a probability would have been laughed off, but within the last week the state house machine has decided that Van Nuys is not such a bad Democrat after all. This decision was made despite the fact the senator opposed President Roosevelt's Supreme court packing plan and his governmental reorganization bill.

Platform Strategy Used.

Although the platform to be presented to the more than 2,200 delegates will contain a blanket indorsement of Mr. Roosevelt, it will not mention these two measures.

The platform makers are said to have decided that the best way around the indorsement situation was to praise the "accomplishments" of the Roosevelt administration. The court and reorganization bills were not "accomplished," hence Senator Van Nuys would not be subscribing to them by agreeing to the blanket term.

Moreover, the platform will include, according to best advices, a declaration presenting former Gov. Paul V. McNutt to the nation as the Hoosier Democrats' choice for President in 1940. McNutt is in Manila as high commissioner to the Philippine Islands, but he is keeping in touch with the situation here.

Senator Pledges Backing.

Senator Van Nuys will back McNutt, he declared in a press conference today.

"Certainly I'm for him," he told newspaper men. "I'm a Hoosier and a Democratic Hoosier, and I'd be a poor citizen if I didn't go along."

A little dissension from the harmony move to renominate Van Nuys was noted among some of the delegates packing the hotels for congressional district caucuses tonight, but it did not appear to be the size of a movement. Van Nuys' badges fluttered from delegates' lapels in every hotel lobby.

Meanwhile Alex Gordon of Indianapolis, railroad brotherhood labor leader, announced his withdrawal from the senate contest, thus virtually assuring Van Nuys' renomination—probably by acclamation.

Denies Making Deals.

The senator was asked by reporters at his press conference whether he had made any deals with Gov. M. Clifford Townsend or other leaders in return for their support. He also was asked whether he had agreed to attempt to obligate others of the insurgent senators to McNutt in 1940.

"There has been no deal of any kind or character in this setup," Van Nuys replied firmly.

"Have you talked with McNutt over the long distance telephone about this reconciliation?" he was asked.

"Neither directly nor indirectly," came the reply.

It was his understanding, the senator continued, that Frank McHale, Democrat national committeeman, did talk with the commissioner in Manila.

"But my first information came when I talked with Alex N. Pursley [5th congressional district chairman], in Kalamazoo, Mich.," Van Nuys said. "Then, last Monday, came Gov. Townsend's invitation to submit my name to the convention." [The senator had announced he would ignore the convention and run independently next fall.]

Dopesters Pick Slate.

Far more uncertainty prevailed over Van Nuys' running mates on the ticket than upon the senatorial nomination itself. The political dopesters have picked the following slate, but with reservations:

Secretary of state—Joseph Hoffman, Indianapolis.

State treasurer—Joseph M. Robertson, Brownstown, present state senator. He is strongly opposed by Ralph R. Ferguson, Anderson.

Judges of Appellate court—Judges Harvey J. Curtis, Gary; William H. Bridwell, Sullivan; Humber M. Devoss, Decatur, and A. J. Stevenson, Danville.

Some May be Shelved.

Some of these candidates may be shelved following the caucuses now in progress tonight.

Senator Van Nuys will be opposed in November by Raymond E. Willis, Angola editor, the Republican nominee.

TAMMANY BOSS AND LAWYER TO BE TRIED AUG. 15

Hines and Davis Deny Racket Charges.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 11. — [Special.] — James J. Hines, powerful Tammany leader, and J. Richard Davis, attorney for the underworld, today pleaded not guilty to charges of operating New York City's lucrative policy game racket. After the pleas were entered Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora set Aug. 15 for the trial.

The courtroom was crowded and spectators were turned away. The case, worked up by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, has aroused wide interest. Dewey has said he will prove Hines was paid by the policy racketeers to bribe and intimidate judicial officers so that the operators could go unmolested.

Bill of Particulars Sought.

A request for a bill of particulars by Hines is the only motion by the defendants upon which Judge Pecora has to act and his decision is expected within a few days. This demand for details on the alleged criminal acts charged against Hines and the names of judges or law enforcement officials he is alleged to have dealt with in the policy racket will not delay the trial, however.

Today's arraignment of the two men might have been a cut and dried affair had not Davis leaped to his feet and made a last minute argument for dismissal of the indictment. He insisted Pecora had swerved from the law in upholding the indictment.

Davis Already Disbarred.

Judge Pecora coldly overruled his motion. He remarked that he had examined all the law in the case and that the indictment was drawn properly. This swept away the last hope of Davis, who was disbarred last year because of his association with Dutch Schultz, the gang leader.

Hines, who is an important cog in the New York political machine built up by National Democratic Chairman James A Farley, twisted a light gray felt hat in his hands as Davis finally launched into his argument.

It was the first time the two had faced each other since they were indicted. Davis has been held in the Tombs, the city jail, unable to make the high bail of $75,000 set after he had gone into hiding when he first heard of Dewey's intended prosecution.

Laughs at Handcuffs.

"Where'd you get the bracelets," asked Hines, laughing.

The two men clapped each other on the back and then held a whispered conversation. The ruddy faced Tammany boss told newspaper reporters he was confident of being found not guilty by a jury. Davis, pale of face from weeks spent in jail, said nothing.

Only Hines, Davis, and a third defendant, Martin Weintraub, also a lawyer, will go to trial in August because four others of the accused are missing while two have pleaded guilty. George Weinberg and Harry Schoenhaus, Schultz lieutenants, admitted their guilt and are expected to be the state's main witness.

TWO TELL GRAND JURY OF BERWYN FUND SHORTAGE

The grand jury investigation of a reported $3,726 shortage in Berwyn's special assessment fund began yesterday.

Fred A. Kauth and Frank Nugent were the first witnesses. Kauth is the Berwyn city bookkeeper who discovered evidence of the shortage. Nugent is an investigator for S. K. Markman, an attorney making a separate investigation.

Vernon Thompson, assistant state's attorney, said the following Berwyn men will testify later this week: Mayor Anton Janura, Matthew Berg, former treasurer, and Ernest Mau, former controler who is now treasurer.

Thompson said the witnesses are expected to tell of their own investigation, which showed that the $3,726 was used to redeem bonds which had been redeemed before.

The money was paid to a woman who says she promptly turned it over to two Berwyn men, according to Janura.

CALLS INDIANA'S LEGISLATURE TO SPECIAL SESSION

Indianapolis, July 11.—(AP)—Governor Townsend issued a call today for a special session of the state legislature to meet July 19.

The special session, the seventeenth in the state's history, was called to appropriate approximately $4,000,000 in order to obtain federal Public Works administration funds to finance a 9 million dollar, state building program as part of the federal lending-spending program.

POLICE AND FIRE TEAMS PERFECT THRILLING ACTS

Daredevils Reherse for Show Next Sunday.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

The roar of police motorcycles and the thunder of powerful fire fighting apparatus filled Soldiers' field yesterday as rehersals for the Chicago Police and Fire Thrill Show next Sunday went into their final week.

At the north end of the field stands the five story fire tower. Beside it are two fire stations, freshly constructed, from which will issue the most modern fire fighting equipment in the world. This equipment will figure both in the grand parade and in the stirring events that will illustrate the thrilling side of the work of the men who defend the city against fire and crime.

High Officials Pleased.

Officials of both departments were there to watch the rehersals. Capt. John Prendergast, chief of the police uniformed forces, and Deputy Chief Fire Marshal Anthony J. Mullaney drove in to supervise the stunts of their men.

Two of the most thrilling events were being perfected. At the outh end of the field firemen were practicing for the water fight.

Two pumpers stand on either side of the field and drive water through the hoses at a nozzle pressure of 125 pounds per square inch. Strung on wires are two red and gold balls that are driven back and forth by the powerful streams. The team that first drives the ball to the other's goal is the winner.

Best Hosemen on Teams.

"Those are the best hosemen in the department," said Chief Mullaney as he watched. "At a fire it is of supreme importance to place the stream where it will do the most good. Misdirected streams can lose a fight against fire."

Capt. Prendergast drove on the field just as the motorcycle men were performing one of their most difficult feats. In it thirteen men stand on three motorcycles and ride at a terrific pace around the field.

As the three machines and thirteen men swept past, Capt. Prendergast watched in admiration.

Daredevils of Department.

"Those motorcycle men are the toughest in the department," he said. "Give them an order, no matter what it is, and they'll do it. I don't think they are afraid of anything."

Two men already have been injured in rehersals for the thrill show. They are Motorcycle Policemen John McNulty and Stephen Barrett, who incurred cuts, bruises, and sprained backs when their tricky mounts went out from under them on Friday.

The show, which is sponsored by the fire and police departments, the Chicago park district, and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will begin at 2 p. m. Sunday and last until about 5 p. m. The admission price will be 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children.

EGYPT'S KING GRANTS COUSIN PERMISSION TO WED ZOG'S SISTER

CAIRO, July 11.—(AP)—King Farouk today granted permission to Prince Abdul Moneim, his second cousin and heir to a 50 million dollar fortune, to marry Princess Myzejen, sister of King Zog of Albania.

Abdul Moneim, 39 years old and one time crown prince of Egypt, is the only son and heir of the former Khedive Abbas Helmi Pasha II., deposed by the British as ruler in 1914 on the nomination of his uncle, Sultan Hussein Kamel.

Princess Myzejen, fourth of King Zog's six sisters, is 29 years old. She and two sisters, Princesses Rumije and Maxhide, visited the United States last March.

MOTION PICTURE MAN TO ADMIT FORGERY CHARGE

Hollywood, Cal., July 11.—[Special.]—George D. Smart, motion picture sound recorder, declared in his jail cell today that he would not fight charges of theft and forgery involving nearly $100,000 in a scheme in which he was said to have used names of film city greats.

Geo. D. Smart at top. Layne Britton at bottom.

"I'll be content with the aid offered by the public defender," said Smart. "I'll throw myself on the mercy of the people I've been dealing with. I don't want to cost the state or the county any more money. I'll not protect myself."

Smart confessed using the names of Louis B. Mayer, Jeanette MacDonald, Nelson Eddy, and Charles Laughton as bait in obtaining money on notes forged with Mayer's name. Arrested with Smart was Layne Britton, studio makeup artist, who is believed to have been an unwitting tool in the fraud.

REUNION IN HAVILAND

By CALEB

WE FIND in this business a good many opportunities to enjoy ourselves. Among the best of them are the instances when some event or service brings in friends of long standing with whom we can exchange reminiscences and recollections.

When recently we completed plans for making replacements possible in all the patterns for fine old sets of Haviland china, we did not fully realize the pleasant days in store for us. Those in our china department say that nothing like it has happened to them in many a day.

Some twenty-five years ago Haviland china was at the height of a tremendous popularity. The varied and colorful patterns of the French artisans were a familiar sight in many fine homes throughout the nation. Naturally the need for replacements developed—a need we met with difficulty as best we could, because for many years the Haviland plant at Limoges has not been in operation. To our regret, it was impossible to obtain replacements in many of the famous old patterns.

Other importers found themselves facing a similar problem, and the matter of replacements was discussed with Haviland officials. It was found that moulds and lithographing stones for color patterns were still on hand at Limoges. One of our merchandising executives on a European trip visited the plant to satisfy himself that it could meet our customers' needs fully, and his report made it certain that the equipment and artisans were still on hand to do it.

A Haviland factory representative was brought to set up long tables of samples in our china department.

An announcement of his presence was made, and Haviland owners—in person and by mail—made the second floor their Mecca.

"Mother began housekeeping with this set, and if I can fill it out again there's nothing I'd rather use in our home." . . . "As a girl I remember eating from plates like these at Grandmother's house. What memories they bring back!" . . . . "I've wanted Haviland china since I was eight years old; now I'm going to have it."

The delicate floral designs, the intricate traceries in gold, the smooth gloss of the dishes themselves warm the hearts of old friends. It is a reunion pleasant to witness, and one in which we are happy to play the part of intermediary.

COUNTY TO START PERSONALTY TAX COLLECTION DRIVE

Study Ways to Bring In Million Past Due.

County Treasurer Horace G. Lindheimer announced yesterday that his staf will start a drive at once for the collection of delinquent personal property taxes. His books show $231,500,000 in personality assessments to be due and uncollected.

H. G. Lindheimer.

Of this total, $52,000,000 is in the levies from 1928 to 1930, on which no collections have been made in the last 18 months. There is an additional $107,000,000, on which only a few thousand dollars have been collected during the same period.

While the county treasurer's office receives delinquent tax payments, it has not made any positive efforts to bring in back taxes for many years. That has become the function of the state's attorney.

When taxes become overdue, the treasurer sends the state's attorney a list of the unpaid taxes. His staf files suit to collect them, reducing the tax claims to judgments.

Orders Collection Plan.

Mr. Lindheimer instructed his administrative assistant, Abraham Drucker, to prepare a comprehensive plan for personalty tax collections. Drucker has already spent several weeks studying statutes which apply to collections, as well as the methods used by downstate counties. They collect 90 per cent or more of their personalty taxes, while Cook county has never collected more than two-thirds and in some years only half of the taxes billed.

Collection measures used downstate against personalty bills fall into two general classes. The more rigorous methods use the legal right of the county treasurer or the state's attorney, as attorney for the county, to seize property on an unpaid bill. This can be done either before or after a suit to collect taxes has been prosecuted and a judgment obtained.

Using these legal powers as a threat, many county treasurers have been successful in keeping tax delinquency down by using the methods of commercial bill collectors—they merely keep after the taxpayers until bills are satisfied.

Lien on Real Estate.

One legal fact not recognized by many personalty taxpayers is that a judgment obtained by the state's attorney for unpaid personalty taxes is a lien on any real estate the taxpayer may own.

As a reminder to real estate owners who fail to pay their personalty bills, Treasurer Lindheimer said that he is considering adding the amount of judgments for unpaid personalty taxes to subsequent real estate tax bills. This, he believes, will serve as a reminder to real estate owners of the risk they run in letting their personalty taxes become delinquent.

Drucker said that he expects to complete his survey of collection methods and be ready to set up machinery for personalty collections by Aug. 1.

Moving Day

William Wolf moving the last of seven eggs which a duck had been hatching in a mooring pile at the clubhouse of the Chicago Yacht club.

Seven duck eggs were moved carefully yesterday by workmen from the hollow of an old wooden piling at the Chicago Yacht club in Belmont harbor. This was necessary because the clubhouse, which is moored, was itself moved to other pilings. The old ones were pulled up, including the one sheltering the eggs. Before this, however, workmen headed by William Wolf, picked up the eggs, put them into a comfortably lined box, and placed the box at a new piling about 50 feet away.

USE OF GYPSUM RESTRICTED IN NEW CITY CODE

Manufacturers Fail to Win All Demands.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Manufacturers of gypsum building materials have received far less than they asked in the way of approval of their products under the new Chicago building code. Some of their claims were rejected by Mayor Kelly's committee of experts which drafted the code, and further restrictions were written in by aldermen during passage of the code through the council and its committees.

Gypsum is a mineral, calcium sulphate. It is found in nature as a crystalline rock in which water is united chemically with the calcium sulphate. Calcining, or roasting, the rock produces a powder which in its refined form is plaster of paris. Addition of water to this powder gives a material that hardens like cement, and can be used as a plaster or precast as bricks, wallboard, and other structural materials.

Advantages and Disadvantages.

Gypsum products in general have the advantage of good insulating properties and light weight. A disadvantage is that moisture disintegrates them, making them unsuitable for use where they are exposed to the weather or to other moisture.

After some dissension within its ranks the experts' commission permitted the use of gypsum slabs or arches, either pre-cast or poured on the job, as a roof for any type of building, provided it was protected from the weather by an impervious roof covering. The building code subcommittee headed by Ald. James J. McDermott [14th] struck this permission out.

The aldermanic action was approved by some of the experts. Any unnoticed leak in a roof covering, they contended, would permit intrusion of moisture which in six months or a year would destroy the structural strength of the gypsum members.

Permitted Under Old Code.

In reply the Gypsum association, composed of gypsum product manufacturers, points out that Chicago, under its old code, permitted gypsum roofs from 1923 to date, and that there are 5,000,000 square feet of such roofs in the Chicago metropolitan area. A leaky covering will cause damage to any type of roof if it is neglected, it was further contended.

Another subcommittee amendment, also approved by some of the drafting experts, increased from a two inch to a three inch coat the amount of gypsum covering required to give a metal column or girder three or four hour fire protection. One of the experts based his objection to the two inch coating on the difference between laboratory conditions and practical construction practice.

In pouring a protective coating around a column, either the column or the form used to mold the protective coating may be out of plumb, with the result that the coating will not be two inches thick at all points.

Different Results in Tests.

Laboratory tests disagree as to the fire protective values of gypsum. Tests made in 1918 on protected columns by the Underwriters Laboratory, Inc., gave a two inch gypsum coating a fire rating of only an hour and a half. The Gypsum association claims that the United States bureau of standards, in a 1932 test, gave a 4 hour 21 minute rating for a two inch gypsum coating further protected by gypsum plaster.

Gypsum manufacturers have also criticized the action of the experts' commission in permitting use of lime plaster for fire resistive purposes. They claim the plaster offers far less resistance to fire than gypsum.

A member of the commission, who is familiar with the laboratory tests, declared they do not give lime plaster a proper rating. Gypsum plaster gains its maximum strength a few days after it is applied, while lime plaster requires a month or more before carbon dioxide in the air, converting the lime into calcium carbonate, the equivalent of limestone, raises its strength and fire resistance to the maximum.

ALDERMEN ASK CHANGE IN BUILDING CODE'S REFRIGERATION RULES

Gerald Gearon, deputy city boiler inspector, told the city council subcommittee on the building code yesterday that the chapter in the new building regulations covering refrigeration is inadequate and that it contains provisions contrary to Chicago's other ordinances which regulate refrigeration. As a result, the aldermen directed the citizens' committee of experts to redraft this section.

The subcommittee recommended for passage chapters on ventilation, heating, and elevators. They were unable to consider the chapter on plumbing because a jurisdictional dispute between labor groups is delaying its drafting in final form. The complete code consists of forty-seven chapters of which twenty-five have been passed by the council. The full committee on building and zoning will take up the new chapters today.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

POISONED KIDNEYS
Stop Getting Up Nights

To harmlessly flush poisons and acid from kidneys and correct irritation of bladder so that you can stop "getting up nights" get a 35 cent package of Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules and take as directed. Other symptoms of kidney and bladder weaknesses are scant, burning or smarting passage—backache—leg cramps—puffy eyes.

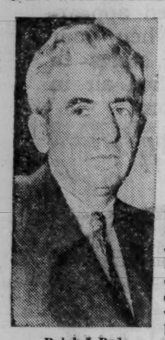
ILLINOIS BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

JUDGE BRINGS FOUNDRY STRIKE FOES TOGETHER

CIO and Company Seek Arbitration Basis.

Negotiations for the arbitration of a five week old strike, which has been marked by many disorders, were started yesterday at Waukegan by the Chicago Hardware Foundry company of North Chicago and representatives of a C. I. O. union.



Ralph J. Dady.

The suggestion for the conference came from Judge Ralph J. Dady of the Lake county Circuit court, before whom ten members of the union had been called to show cause why they should not be held in contempt of court. The cases of the ten men, who were accused of defying Judge Dady's injunction against the use of intimidation by pickets, were continued until today.

Three Arbitrators Proposed.

Edward B. Sherwin, president of the company and J. A. De Celle, plant superintendent, represented the company. Five workers headed by Frank Bradke spoke for the union. Bradke suggested that each side appoint an arbitrator and that the two choose a third man, the verdict of the trio to be accepted by both sides.

Sherwin consented with reservations. He demanded that all arbitrators be certified public accountants and that they examine the company's books thoroughly before reaching a decision. Further, he specified that the strikers must return to work at a 10 per cent reduction in pay while the investigation is being carried on. If this is done, he said, the company will cheerfully accept any award made.

Union Against Wage Cut.

Bradke and his associates considered the proposal for several hours, but announced last night that they would not yield on the pay cut. Another effort to reach a basis of agreement will be made at a conference this morning.

The specific demands of the union have been: [1] a written contract; [2] no pay cuts, and [3] vacations with pay. Sherwin has maintained that the wage slash was necessary if the company, which employs about 500 workmen, is to continue operating through the summer. He has also asserted it is impossible, under present business conditions, to grant the vacations.

The lines were drawn before the conference started, for a sharp battle on the contempt matter. The hardware company charged that the ten union men had forcibly prevented workers from entering the plant, that they had refused to listen to the reading of Judge Dady's injunction, and had stomped on copies of it.

Judge Dady promptly overruled motions of union counsel, one of whom is Thurlow Lewis, brother of Speaker Louis Lewis of the Illinois house of representatives, for a bill of particulars and for additional time to consider the charges.

Judge Sees State of Anarchy.

"This is not just an ordinary affair," the judge declared. "I know nothing about the facts, except what I have read in the newspapers. But assuming that what I have read and been told is true, an emergency exists. The question is whether we shall have law and order in Lake county or a semi-state of anarchy with no respect for law and the courts. I feel I should go ahead with the case."

He then asked Lewis if, as a lawyer, he believed that any one had the right to violate an injunction and prevent employés from going to and from the hardware plant. Lewis replied indirectly that this was "assuming the whole controversy," and insisted he was arguing only that the defendants were accused of the violation in vague and uncertain language.

"That doesn't answer my question," retorted the judge. "This court has to protect the public and preserve law and order. The object here is not to punish individuals. If you as an attorney would properly advise your clients this process—assuming that there has been an offense—could be done away with."

File More Contempt Charges.

Sidney H. Block and Erskine C. Edwards, attorneys representing the company, filed additional charges of contempt against the ten men, one of whom is Robert Woertz, the "intellectualist" leader of the strikers. Woertz is a former school teacher and took graduate work at Northwestern university during the last scholastic year. It was alleged that he and others passed handbills Saturday in Judge Dady's courtroom attacking the jurist as "reactionary."

Outsiders on Picket Lines.

The union involved is the Amalgamated Association of Steel, Iron, and Tin Workers. It has received much outside support from the C. I. O., with which it is affiliated, and it has been charged that most of the 200 to 300 pickets on duty constantly are outsiders.

State's Attorney Charles E. Mason yesterday began the presentation of evidence against certain of the pickets to the Lake county grand jury. He has announced that he would seek indictments charging conspiracy and intimidation. It has been alleged that the strikers lay down in front of trucks and railroad cars as they approached the plant and that they used force in keeping out seventy members of an independent union who want to work.

CITIZENS' RAIDS HALT GAMBLING IN LAKE COUNTY

Jury Quiz Is Ordered at Court Hearing.

Lake county's gambling industry folded up yesterday. Not a handbook was open and no loose silver trickled into slot machines, pinball games, or over dice tables.

This situation developed as the result of sensational raids Saturday and Sunday on county resorts which brought an assurance that the grand jury would investigate county gambling.

Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady at Waukegan ruled that First Assistant State's Attorney George W. Field should present to the regular grand jury evidence uncovered in the raids.

Special Prosecutor Refused.

Judge Dady denied a request for the appointment of a special prosecutor to act for State's Attorney Charles E. Mason. This request was made by a group of churchmen and clubwomen, sponsors of the raids which brought the arrest of thirty persons and the confiscation of ninety-four slot machines and twenty-five pinball games.

In a petition presented by Attorneys Wesley G. Carey and Philip W. Yager, this group accused Mr. Mason of being too interested in the outcome of any gambling investigation. He also was charged with an admission that he knew that Leo Mongoven, Chicago hoodlum, bossed the slot machine racket in the northern part of the county.

"I never made such a statement," Mr. Mason declared in court. "This whole petition is one of the most vicious and unwaranted attacks ever made on a public official. It is all a political scheme to injure the Republicans in the fall."

Blames Raids for Discharge.

Last night Claude Warner of Waukegan, who obtained the warants for the raids, charged he was discharged from the Physicians' Service bureau and the Professional Adjustment bureau for allegedly being too friendly with the Democratic courthouse crowd.

C. J. Yeager, manager of the bureau, denied this. He said Warner had been told to take a vacation because his interest in the case jeopardized the business. Warner admitted, Yeager said, that the raids were politically inspired.

In presenting the petition yesterday, Attorney Carey, who is secretary of the Lake County Bar association, declared he could produce witnesses who heard Mr. Mason admit knowing the operators of the slot machine racket. This was denied by the prosecutor.

Those seized in the week-end raids were to have been arraigned nightly beginning last night before Justice of the Peace Harry Hansen of Highland Park. At the request of Assistant State's Attorney Field, the cases were continued to July 21.

FOES OF LEWIS SIGN FIRST MINE LOCAL IN KANSAS

Joe Ozanic, president of the Progressive Mine Workers of America, yesterday announced the establishment of the first Progressive local in Kansas. It is at the Alston Coal company's strip mine at Pittsburg, Kas., where employés severed their connection with the United Mine Workers to join the Progressives.

The Progressive union, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, was started in Illinois as an opposition group to John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers. It is carrying on organizing campaigns in West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky, and several other U. M. W. strongholds.

SUSPENDED OFFICIALS OF AUTO UNION CARRY GRIEVANCES TO LEWIS

Washington, D. C., July 11.—(AP)—A group of suspended leaders of the United Auto Workers of America, C. I. O. union, aired their grievances in a long conference today with John L. Lewis, C. I. O. chief.

Afterward one of the men, Richard T. Frankensteen, a suspended vice-president, said it was essential to call a special convention of union members to clear up the factional strife which led to the suspensions.

Frankensteen, who was accompanied by Ed Hall, Wyndham Mortimer, and George Addes, declined to say whether Lewis would take any action of his own to settle the quarrel.

The four were suspended by Homer Martin, president of the union, several weeks ago on grounds they had disrupted his harmony program.

SHERIF ORDERED TO ENFORCE LAW IN MAYTAG ROW

Newton, Ia., July 11.—(AP)—District Judge Homer A. Fuller late today ordered Sherif Earl Shields to hire enough deputies to enforce any order of the court and told him he would not tolerate any interference by any person outside of Jasper county.

His order came during the hearings of contempt citations against three C. I. O. leaders brought by the Maytag Washing Machine company under an injunction restraining the union from picketing in unreasonable numbers and interfering with the regular order of business at the plant.

Meanwhile the three man arbitration board set up by Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel arrived here, toured the plant, and began a confidential session in a hotel.

Cited were James G. Carey, national president of the C. I. O. Electrical Workers; William Sentner, regional C. I. O. head from St. Louis, Mo., and Hollis Hall, vice president of the Newton local.

Eugene Takes Short Cut; Delays Train Two Hours

San José, Cal., July 11.—(AP)—Because Eugene Mello, 16 years old, took a short cut a passenger train was delayed two hours. Mello was leading a horse. His short cut took him onto a railroad trestle. The horse became wedged between two ties. The train was flagged down. A section crew cut the ties. An automobile wrecker hoisted the horse to safety.

KEEP HOME RULE FOR RELIEF UNITS UNDER NEW SETUP

Added IERC Power a Club Against Cheaters.

Home rule will not be taken away from the hundreds of local relief units in Illinois, Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, said yesterday. The state relief commission was given the power last week to cut off state funds from units not obeying its orders. This power, it was explained, will be used mainly to stop dishonesty and political discrimination when such cases are found.

"Under the pauper laws, the township supervisors in most places hire the relief employés and decide the amount of relief grants," Lyons said. "These responsibilities will in no way be affected except where there is evidence of discrimination or of breakdown in general relief administration."

529 Units Under Rule.

There are 529 township and county relief units outside Chicago which are subject to the commission's new power because they receive state relief funds. Many local officials feared the commission would take over the hiring of local relief employés. Others were afraid that the commission would dictate the amount of relief to be given to each family. Relief grants vary from $6.64 a month in Richland county to $28.15 in Cook county.

Lyons and other relief officials made it clear that the IERC does not intend to interfere in normal relief administration of communities.

Fight Against Dishonesty.

What the commission will be able to do, however, is to spike the guns of township supervisors who are dishonest or who are playing politics with state relief funds. Lyons said there have been reports of Democrat township supervisors who will give relief only to Democrats, and who send all grocery orders to Democrat store owners. Similar reports, he said, have been received about some Republican township supervisors.

The IERC now spends practically all of its allowance for operating expenses, which averages $83,000 a month. Hence it will be possible to hire only a few more staf workers to carry out its new powers.

Township supervisors may now spend 10 per cent of their total relief funds for administration.

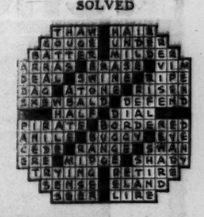
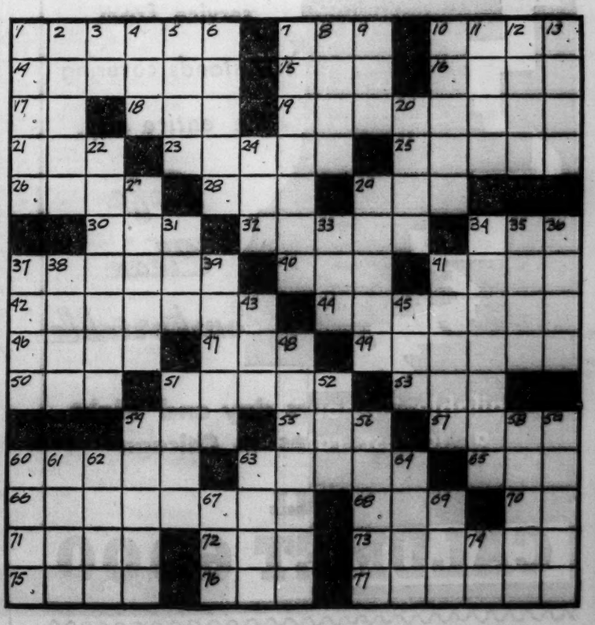
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED





HOLY LAND WAR GROWS; BRITISH BATTLE RAIDERS

Bombs Kill Haifa Jews; Arab Shops Shut.

JERUSALEM, July 11.—(AP)—Death and disorder continued to stalk the Holy Land today as British troops battled to restore peace in the mandated territory, which boasts more than 300 casualties in a week.

Pitched battles between guerrilla bands and the military, explosions and stabbings occurred through the land which Great Britain proposes to divide between Jews and Arabs—to the dissatisfaction of both.

Machine gun posts were established at all strategic spots. Armored cars patroled highways and teeming streets.

At Haifa, key point of northern terror, British marines aided the local constabulary and troops under the muzzles of the big guns of the warship Repulse.

Bomb Kills Two in Bus.

Two Jews were killed and ten wounded at Haifa when a bomb was hurled into a Jewish bus traveling from the Shemen soap factory on the Acre road. The assailants escaped. Police and marines immediately surrounded the area to search houses and passersby.

Several Jewish factory workers were wounded by bombs in the eastern part of Haifa as they were returning from work tonight. They also were fired upon. All Arab shops in Haifa were closed.

Marines and police fired into the air to disperse crowds and on one occasion charged a group of Arabs stoning police in the eastern quarter. Fire brigades quickly extinguished several fires in the Arab market area.

Troops Slay Ten in Battle.

British troops and police killed ten members of a band in a fight in the village of Dabbourieyeh, home of the biblical prophetess Deborah. A Jewish supernumerary constable was killed, another was wounded, and two British soldiers also were wounded.

Raiders cut telephone wires between Nazareth and Tiberias and many Galilee centers, disrupting communications over a wide area.

British troops marched into Tulkarem after four men entered a barber shop and shot and killed an Arab police inspector who was being shaved. A curfew was invoked.

A large band attacked the Jewish settlement of Givat Ada and was reported to have suffered heavy casualties. The band entered a village and wounded three guards and kidnaped two children. Neighboring villages sent aid and drove out the raiders.

1,200 JEWS IN ONE NAZI CAMP; BUILD TO IMPRISON 7,000

WEIMAR, Germany, July 11—The first all Jewish concentration camp near Weimar now holds 1,200 Jews arrested during recent roundups. Few of those once arrested have been able to obtain their release.

The camp is patroled by members of the Schutz Staffel [picked guards] and Deathshead brigade. The majority of the prisoners are described as having court records, although in many cases the offenses were only breaches of trafic regulations for which they had been punished with small fines.

None can hope to regain freedom until the camp commandant certifies the prisoner has "improved." Inmates of the new camp are kept busy erecting barracks, stores, and workshops. Later when the camp is completed 6,000 to 7,000 prisoners well be accommodated.

Young Galesburg Woman Falls from Raft; Drowns

Galesburg, Ill., July 11.—(AP)—Mrs. Wayne Widenhamer, 17 years old, was drowned today in a nearby lake when she fell from a raft.

Spanish rebels have fought their way through the Espadan mountains and are within sight of Segorbe (indicated by arrow). Coastal columns took Moncosar and Vall de Uxo and were converging toward Chilches. Heavy broken line locates the battle front.

URGE U. S. ENVOY DIRECT HUNT FOR JEWISH REFUGE

Parley Near Agreement on Permanent Setup.

EVIAN-LES-BAINS, France, July 11.—(AP)—Fresh efforts were made today to give the United States the leading rôle in the work of a proposed permanent organization to aid refugees from greater Germany.

The movement gained momentum with delegates to the thirty-two nation refugee conferring putting pressure on Myron C. Taylor, conference President and head of the American delegation, to accept the chairmanship of the projected establishment.

European delegates especially insisted that Taylor is the logical man to head the committee, since the United States was the guiding hand in convening the conference.

Near Agreement on Program.

Sources close to Taylor said he feels it is more important first to establish a definite working basis for such an organization, on which virtual agreement has been reached in private talks among the delegates.

At today's full public session the conference heard six representatives of South American countries and the Swedish delegate echo the stand of previous speakers that they could accept only unspecified numbers of agricultural workers from among the refugees.

Judge Michael Hansson, the Norwegian delegate, presiding at the afternoon session of the technical subcommittee, appealed for speed in elaborating the immigration laws and practices of the thirty-two governments.

Ready to Desert Wealth.

Dr. Nahum Goldmann, of the Jewish agency for Palestine, announced that Jewry was prepared to relinquish claims on all Jewish capital in greater Germany in return for that country's permission for mass exodus of Jewish refugees.

Goldmann added he realized Nazi authorities would be reluctant to accept "such a generous offer."

Dr. Arthur Ruppin, colonization director of the Jewish agency for Palestine, said there are 300,000 Jews in greater Germany who would be able to adjust themselves if they migrated to new countries. He suggested the intergovernmental committee should urge Argentina, Brazil, Colombia, Chile, and Uruguay each to take 10,000 of these refugees annually.

VICTIM OF CRASH DIES.

Washington, Ind., July 11.—[Special.]—Desco Hays, 20 years old, of French Lick, died in the Daviess county hospital here yesterday of injuries received in a collision with a parked truck near French Lick.

SPANISH REBELS BREAK THROUGH LOYALIST PEAKS

In Sight of Road Leading to Valencia.

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish frontier], July 11.—(AP)—Spanish Rebel Gen. Garcia Valino's Navarrese troops broke through the northwestern flank of the Espadan mountains today within sight of Segorbe.

The roar of battle echoed in rocky defiles as Gen. José Miaja's wearied defenders fought against the rebels in hand-to-hand combat. Squadrons of rebel planes swept over government lines in successive attacks. Spanish government advices admitted the enemy was "progressing" in the offensive directed toward Valencia, but said the advance was "at the cost of heavy losses." Miaja rushed several fresh divisions to the sector.

Ancient Roman Town.

Segorbe, an ancient Roman town tightly wedged between twin, castle crowned peaks, is fifteen miles northwest of Sagunto, toward which rebel forces along the Mediterranean coast are headed. Sagunto is the coastal terminus of the main highway through Segorbe to Teruel and has vital steel works. The main coastal highway from Castellon de la Plana runs through Sagunto to Valencia.

Gen. Miguel Aranda's Galician army along that highway were resting and cleaning up captured territory in the vicinity of Nules. Rebel dispatches said one of Aranda's columns had taken Moncosar, about five miles south of Nules, while another captured Vall de Uxo, a few miles west of the highway.

Converge on Chilches.

These two columns were said to be converging in a wedge on the village of Chilches, where the coast road begins to skirt the Sierra del Cid about twenty-four miles north of Valencia.

Both Sagunto and Valencia authorities rushed ahead with fortifications which Miaja ordered in an emergency conference with provincial leaders on Saturday.

Sagunto was crowded with refugees. Its steel works continued working night and day with many women clad in overalls and black with grime replacing men drafted for war service.

Raid Outskirts of Madrid.

MADRID, July 11.—(AP)—Several rebel planes raided the outskirts of Madrid today, but antiaircraft guns prevented them from flying over the city proper. Madrid itself has not been attacked by aviators since February, 1937.

Canterbury Asks Prayers in Behalf of Vienna Jews

LONDON, July 11.—(AP)—The archbishop of Canterbury, ranking prelate of the Church of England, today called on Anglicans to join with "their Jewish brethren" next Sunday in prayer for Jewish sufferers. He told the Canterbury diocesan conference that "devilish" methods had been used in Vienna and deplored a world "dominated by evil spirits—a prospect full of darkness and confusion."

SPAIN CHARGES PLAN TO THWART ALIENS' REMOVAL

LONDON, July 11.—(AP)—The Spanish government today formally accused Italy and the Spanish insurgents of laying plans to circumvent the twenty-six nation nonintervention committee's plans for getting foreign fighters out of Spain. In a note handed the British foreign office the Barcelona government declared Premier Mussolini had poured 7,000 soldiers, 334 of them aviators, into insurgent Spain since Britain and Italy signed a friendship pact April 16.

The note, delivered by Pablo de Azcarate y Florez, the Spanish government ambassador, declared that "in event of Italy being forced to yield to British pressure" for withdrawal of soldiers aiding the insurgents "some 10,000 men, most of them incapacitated and sick, would be transferred to Italy."

"The remainder of the Italian troops would be incorporated into the Spanish foreign legion as volunteers, together with their officers," the note charged, thus endeavoring to escape evacuation by the international committee's representatives.

GEORGE VI. GAINS BUT MUST REMAIN IN BED FEW DAYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WINDSOR, England, July 11.—The physicians to King George VI. announced today that the monarch's condition is improved, but that it will be necessary for him to rest several days before leaving his bed. He has been ill since yesterday with an attack of gastric infiuenza.

With his improvement, Queen Elizabeth decided to renounce mourning for her mother, the countess of Strathmore, and preside at a presentation party at Buckingham palace tomorrow night at which newly married women will be received.

AMERICANS FLEE CITY ON YANGTZE PERILED BY JAPS

Foreigners Move 8 Miles Away on Gunboats.

SHANGHAI, July 12 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Chinese began destroying Kiukiang waterfront properties today in an effort to prevent Japanese from landing at that important Yangtze river fort as heavy fighting surged within fourteen miles of it.

Applying their scorched earth tactics, the Chinese defenders blasted two Standard Oil Company of New York pontoons and other buildings of use to the invaders. Oil company officials sank a third pontoon, seeking to prevent its destruction.

All foreigners at Kiukiang were reported evacuated by the British gunboat Cockchafer and the steamer Wenchow, which, with the United States gunboat Monocacy, were said to have steamed eight miles upstream outside the immediate danger zone. Two American officials and the Chinese staf of the Standard Oil company at Kiukiang had taken precautionary refuge aboard a small tanker tied up near the Monocacy.

Figures of bombs locate Chinese cities which Japanese said they would bomb and from which they warned foreigners to flee. Sinyang was bombed yesterday. Americans fled Kiukiang, the immediate Japanese objective in their drive toward Hankow. The Japanese already have reached Hukow in the land drive.

Railroad Town Bombed.

Kiukiang is 135 miles down the Yangtze from Hankow, provisional Chinese capital, the Japanese goal.

[An earlier dispatch from Hankow said ten American missionaries of the Methodist and Seventh Day Adventist churches were reported remaining at their posts in Kiukiang, while fifty Americans were at the nearby mountain resort of Kuling.]

Quickly following a new Japanese warning to the United States and other foreign powers, which urged them to evacuate their nationals from a half dozen cities to be targets in an aerial bombinb campaign, Japanese war planes bombed Sinyang, which is on the Peking-Hankow railroad, 137 miles north of Hankow. Japanese said their airmen destroyed several buildings on the Sinyang air field.

The Japanese warning followed two notes, one a month ago and the other last Saturday, urging removal of all foreign vessels in the Yangtze river zone in the way of the invaders' drive on Hankow. The United States rejected the first and the second was not yet been answered.

A Japanese spokesman announced the mopping up of Chinese forces was completed between Hukow, fifteen miles down the Yangtze from Kiukiang and Yangtsun, but admitted fighting was continuing.

Chinese reported that their forces attacked Japanese at Hukow and Matowchen and had occupied Dragon Pool mountain, overlooking Hukow. They asserted they had sunk eight Japanese motorboats in the river.

Jap Planes Bomb Canton Homes.

CANTON, China, July 12 [Tuesday].—Japanese war planes heavily bombed the Wongsha station area and the residential district near the Sun Yat-sen memorial here this morning, starting several fires.

Japs Apologize

MRS. CECIL LYON.

PEIPING, July 11.—(AP)—The commissioner of customs at Chinwangtao, an Italian, has apologized officially to Mrs. Cecil Lyon, wife of the third secretary of the United States embassy here, for the invasion of her beach villa at Chinwangtao by a Japanese customs employé on July 6.

Authoritative sources said the Japanese had been discharged by the customs service — under Japanese domination in occupied North China —and had left Chinwangtao, seashore resort 150 miles east of here.

These sources said the Japanese, intoxicated, twice invaded the Lyon villa on July 6, beat male Chinese servants and tried to strangle a Chinese nurse.

Mrs. Lyon is the daughter of Joseph C. Grew, United States ambassador to Japan.

SLUG POLICEMAN, SEIZE $10,000 ON CROWDED STREET

Joliet Bandits Flee with Store Receipts.

On a street crowded with shoppers, four bandits slugged a Joliet policeman yesterday and took a money bag containing $3,769 and $6,000 in checks from a messenger for Goldblatt Brothers department store. The holdup took place in the heart of Joliet's business section, about a quarter of a block from the store at Cass and Chicago streets.

Joseph Ariagno, the messenger, was taking the money to a nearby bank. Policeman George Lamping was guarding him. As the two men neared an alley on Chicago street three men, each carrying a gun, jumped from a parked car. Two of the gunmen held the policeman while the third struck him on the head several times with the butt of his revolver.

Pick Up Fifth Man.

Lamping fell to the sidewalk. Ariagno started to run down the alley with the money bag, but was stopped by the fourth member of the gang, who grabbed the bag. The bandits then jumped into their car and drove off.

Witnesses told police the bandit car slowed down at a bus station at Ottawa and Clinton streets where a fifth man jumped into the car. Joliet authorities immediately notified Chicago police in the belief the gunmen may have been heading here. The bandits were described as young men. They wore no masks.

Guard Loses Consciousness.

Lamping, 50 years old, a member of the police force for more than 15 years, was not injured seriously. He said he did not remember what occurred except that two men grabbed him. He was beaten unconscious.

An investigation of several license plate numbers given by witnesses as those of the bandits' car was begun.

HOLD DRUGGIST'S KIDNAPERS; SEEK NEW CRIME LINKS

Harry Hunt, 19 years old, 4639 South Union avenue, and Alfonse Sadauski, 20 years old, 5035 Princeton avenue, who were captured early yesterday after kidnaping and robbing a druggist, were held at the Woodlawn station last night for possible identification in other crimes.

They held up Julius Leftwich, 5957 Elizabeth street, at 67th and State streets and forced him to drive to 50th street and Shields avenue where they took $4 and drove off in his car. A police squad arrested them in the automobile at 55th and State streets. They were not armed.

Hunt's brother, John Jr., 20 years old, was killed by Policeman John Fleming on Jan. 1, 1937, while burglarizing a grocery store at 8409 Stony Island avenue. Police said Sadauski killed a Negro in a fight several months ago, but was exonerated.

RETURN ACCIDENT VERDICT.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of accidental death at an inquest over Roland Rademacher, 32 years old, 3130 Parnell avenue. Rademacher suffered a broken leg while ice skating last February and fatal complications developed.

DENTIST GETS 2 PRISON TERMS ON SEX CHARGES

Strikes Witness in Wife's Suit; Jailed for 10 Days

David Rosenthal, 3648 Lexington street, was sentenced to ten days in the county jail yesterday by Judge John J. Lupe for contempt of court. A week ago Rosenthal struck Bernard Rosenthal, 3653 Division street, during a dispute in the corridor outside Judge Lupe's courtroom. Bernard Rosenthal had appeared as a witness for Mrs. David Rosenthal in her hearing for separate maintenance. The two men are not related.

SEABURY'S HOME IS SHAKEN BY MYSTERY BLAST

New York, July 12 [Tuesday].—(AP)—A mysterious explosion early today shook the home of Samuel Seabury, noted attorney and political reformer.

Seabury, former State Supreme court justice who conducted the inquiry that ended in the resignation of Mayor James J. Walker, was in the house with his chauffeur, John Mooney. They were uninjured, but were driven to the street by smoke and flames.

Seabury was reading in the library when the explosion shook the house and awoke the chauffeur. Seabury said the explosion occurred in the maid's quarters on the fourth floor.

The rest of the family was at his country home in East Hampton, Long Island.

Conscience Clear, Norman Hunts Job and Some Sleep

Norman B. Thiel of 3723 Plainfield avenue went job hunting yesterday with a clear conscience and the assistance of Theodore Kucewicz, assistant state's attorney. Because his conscience wouldn't let him sleep, Thiel surrendered on June 23 and confessed holding up a young couple in the forest preserve with a toy gun. Judge Charles S. Dougherty placed him on probation yesterday. The prosecutor promised to help find work for Thiel, who is 23 years old.

THE THIRD TERM.

With no word recently from Mr. Roosevelt on the subject of a third term, it is natural for both his opponents in the Democratic party and his supporters in the Democratic Front party to think that he will be willing to take the nomination again in 1940. He is now campaigning for control of the next congress, seeking to reëlect senators and house members who will follow his leadership without question and to defeat independent Democratic members who have had their own convictions and have opposed him when they thought he was wrong.

If Mr. Roosevelt were pressed to say what his intentions or ambitions were, it probably would be said for him, if he didn't say it for himself, that he was not called upon to make any statement at this time. It would be explained for him, if not by him, that a definite announcement he would not be a candidate in 1940 would deprive him of too much influence.

If he wrote himself out of the nomination the Democratic politicians would be looking around for his successor and they would pay less attention to him as the party chief. He would still further lose control of congress and steam would escape from his proposals. It is his ambition to leave a historic and lasting imprint of ideas on the social and economic plan of the United States. He would like to be known as the creator of New America.

Nothing has worked out satisfactorily in the sixth year of the revolution and people who regard the Rooseveltian program as one of mere adventurism, giddily trifling with national resources and forces, cannot expect anything beneficial to result in the next two years except as a triumph of private enterprise over governmental obstruction. If the remainder of the second term follows the line taken thus far Mr. Roosevelt will be confronted with the failure of two four-year plans and that may be the excuse for not quitting but insisting upon return to office.

There never was a time before when the two term tradition seemed to have so much justification. To ignore it now would be to concede a principle of indispensability inconsistent with the theories of free government. A dictator is a man who says that the people must have him because he alone can manage their public affairs.

SURRENDERING TO THE MOSQUITO.

Once in a while some one does something about the mosquito, but in these climes it is never enough. Over a period of years the mosquito comes out on top. People may not feel the full humiliation of their losing fight, but the licking they take is about complete. They are chased inside the house or behind the porch screens, abandoning the outside premises to the enemy. They can look at the lawn and the gardens from behind tiny bars, but they cannot use them.

As a restriction of property use this is a tyranny. The cool of evening falls. The wood thrush sings. The nicotiana opens its petals and sends abroad its perfumes. The fireflies sparkle in the brush and through the vistas. The moonlight floods the scene and man flails the air two or three times and runs for the protection of his screens, surrendering his premises to a hostile possessor.

The mosquito does not even need the householder for meat and drink. It can get along without him. The householder is merely a luxury. His only protection is in flight and hiding. The surrender is about as abject as anything in history.

AND SO'S YOUR OLD MAN.

The tu quoque, or you also, method of diplomatic response to notes of protest is generally good, frequently useful, and has considerable play these days. Just now it is keeping the British busy explaining the police bombing of Mohmands and Afridis on the northwest frontier. Mr. Chamberlain has explained that the rocky character of the terrain affords many grottoes and caves into which the bombed villagers may dive. Warning is always given and it is presumed that the people with their aged and ailing, their chickens and goats, are all under cover before the bombers appear.

If the villagers have not picked up the warning leaflets dropped from the air or if they are not able to read the missives they may not get to the grottoes in time, but it is the intention that they should. An extension of elementary public instruction would be helpful.

The Japanese have extracted an American incident from the flies to offset claims for damages to property in China. They refer to the bombardment of Greytown in Nicaragua in July, 1854. The French government asked compensation for French property destroyed, saying that it had been physically impossible for the merchants to remove their goods before the firing started.

The Japanese recall that our government referred the demand to the Nicaraguan government as the one responsible and for argument went back to the British bombardment of Copenhagen in 1807 when Nelson attacked without warning or declaration of war to destroy the Danish fleet lest it be used against Great Britain later. No third power made any claim for compensation. It is curious how involved these matters become. The remark about glass houses probably grew out of a diplomatic interchange.

TO PARIS IN 16½ HOURS.

The flight from New York to Paris, which Lindbergh made in 33½ hours back in 1927, has been achieved in less than half the time by Howard Hughes. The difference offers a convenient measure of the tremendous advances which have been made in the art and science of flying in the intervening eleven years. It is a short period even in comparison with the brief life span of a man, but it has seen astonishing improvement in airplane and engine design, navigational aids, and provisions for safety in the air.

Hughes' achievement is a distinguished one which will have its place in flying history whether he succeeds or fails in his effort to lower the record for the round the world flight. It is not to disparage his effort but only to demonstrate the progress of the flying art that the comparison with Lindbergh is made.

Lindbergh, an unknown mail pilot, flew to New York out of the west and, with a minimum of advance publicity, set out across the North Atlantic. He was alone. His ship today looks like a man trap. Its speed was about that of a modern training ship. Its one engine, though far and away the best in the world at that time, today is outmoded. Hughes flew behind two engines and had the help of a crew of four. Despite the added weight of his ship, his margin of safety was tremendously greater.

To American private enterprise in the operation of commercial ships and in the building of them goes the greater share of the credit for the progress which has been achieved. In one particular, however, there has been no advance: in the character and competence of airmen. In these respects Lindbergh was unique and can never be surpassed. There have been many flights across the Atlantic since Lindbergh's, but Hughes was the first man since Lindbergh to carry out his plan of ending his flight at Le Bourget.

REPUBLICANS OF THE LEGISLATURE.

The group of Republicans in the Illinois senate was responsible for much of the intelligence with which the general assembly directed legislation in the special session and for the soundness of its acts. The Republicans in the senate were aided by a number of equally deserving members in the house of representatives, but minority influence in the upper branch was most effective because of a fortunate political situation. The Republican senators could work with a Democratic minority and check many of the unwise proprosals which might have gone through.

Two of the 17 Republicans, Serritella and Leonardo, were pretty constantly in the company of the Democratic majority and were canceled out of the Republican vote. The others, for the most part, presented solid ranks and brought an uncertain session, charged with dangerous explosives, to a satisfactory finish.

Six of these Republican senators are candidates for reëlection in November. They are the colored member, William E. King of Chicago, George C. Dixon of Dixon, Thomas P. Gunning of Princeton, Richard J. Barr of Joliet, Clinton L. Ewing of Douglas, and Earl B. Searcy of Springfield. Two others, Senator Simon E. Lantz of Congerville and Senator R. G. Crisenberry of Murphysboro, are candidates for congress, Lantz for congressman-at-large and Crisenberry the nominee in the 25th district. Their good work for their constituents in the senatorial districts certainly recommends them to the voters of their congressional districts.

That the legislature passed several needed and desirable laws is to the credit of the Republican group in both senate and house, and probably an even greater advantage to the state is to be found in the fact that an attempt at a radical change of the Illinois constitution contrary to the best interests of every person living in it was defeated and that the attempt to find new and unjust methods of taxation, unneeded in an overtaxed state which has sufficient resources, was defeated. The voters will do themselves good by remembering favorably the candidates who worked for them.

Editorial of the Day

THE PRICES OF STEEL.

[Atlanta Constitution.]

It would be difficult to recall any economic development within the last couple of decades that holds greater potentiality of good for the south than the reduction in the prices of steel. For that reduction also wiped out the price differentials between Pittsburgh produced steel and Birmingham steel.

What this will mean to the south, in full, can only be demonstrated by the developments of the future. That it will bring an industrial expansion greater than any period of the past may be accepted as a foregone exclusion.

For many years steel was sold on what was known as the "Pittsburgh Plus" plan. That meant the cost to any purchaser was the price in Pittsburgh, plus freight charges from that point. It made no difference where the steel was made, the cost of transportation from Pittsburgh was added. The steel powers felt that, if they established steel mills in other parts of the country, they should benefit by the resultant savings in freight costs.

It was in 1924 that the Pittsburgh plus price system was ordered discontinued. However, since that date the differential against other parts of the country has been maintained by making the price higher at other points of steel manufacture, such as Birmingham and Chicago. The price cuts announced last week do away with that differential by the simple method of making larger reductions on Birmingham and Chicago prices than on the Pittsburgh price.

Thus, for the first time in several decades, southern purchasers of fabricated steel can buy at Birmingham for the same basic price as at Pittsburgh and, if they are nearer the former point, themselves enjoy the benefit of the lowered delivery cost.

There is, of course, the differential in freight rates still to be overcome, but it is believed, and hoped, that the present hearings before the interstate commerce commission, directed by the southeastern governors' conference, will result in doing away with this long standing economic injustice against this section.

Certainly, if the industrial growth expected in the south as a result of the passing of the steel price differentials comes to pass, the steel mills in this section of the country will enjoy a prosperity unknown for many years.

It Can Happen Here.

A girl named Sylvia Campbell Vermillion, who used to live in Topeka, Kas., received a telephone call from a friend from her home city yesterday. The friend said she had arrived in town from Topeka that day and had gone to a west side department store to match some dress material. The material had not been bought in Chicago, but in Topeka, she had told the saleslady.

"Topeka? I knew a girl from Topeka. Her name was Sylvia," said the saleswoman.

"Sylvia Campbell?" inquired the shopper. "That's it," said the saleslady. "I used to work in an office with her."

The saleslady doesn't know another person from the state of Kansas; the girl from Kansas doesn't know any one else in Chicago.

The Boat to the City in the '80s.

Can you imagine an up to the minute Evanstonian dashing madly for the morning boat to the city, a boat leaving Davis street before 7 o'clock in order that it might land him in our river at the Clark street bridge in time to walk downtown to his office before eight?

Yet that was the most favored means of commuting in the '80s. Evanston was no mean lake port then. Two great piers were built out from the shore, one at Davis street and one at Greenleaf. They ran well out to deep water, and all the coal, lumber, building material, and bulk freight needed by the village was delivered to them. Steamers and schooners lay unloading at these wharves; tugs fussed about bringing in barges or towing outbound schooners off shore where they might pick up a working breeze. It was a busy water front and it must have been fun to be a part of it as these ferry patrons were twice a day. The passenger boats left from Davis street, weather permitting.

The Chief Justice Waite was the queen of the line, an old side wheeler of considerable size and dignity of appearance. Young Evanstonians of those days loved it and thronged the lake front to watch it going and coming. It was around the lakes until after the Fair of '93.

* * *

Clark street bridge was the city terminal as it was the focal point of all the lake borne passenger trafic at Chicago. The respectable retail district ran farther down toward the river on Clark street than it did anywhere else and the river was more accessible. Elsewhere it was shut in by a double or triple wall of masts and smokestacks and was bordered by warehouses and crowded alleys that only the initiated could find their way about in.

Railroad competition wasn't very serious. The trains took about an hour for the run, stopping everywhere and didn't land you any nearer to the business center than the boat did. What did time matter, anyhow, in those days? And could the trains compare with the comfort, the grandeur and the romance of the Chief Justice Waite? It must have been a sad day when navigation closed each fall and one had to fall back on the train.

HOW TO MAKE EXERCISE PAY DIVIDENDS.

MANY of us have remarked on numerous occasions how much better developed physically are girls in comparison with boys of the same age or even a year or two older. While girls mature earlier than their brothers, lads of 18 should be physically equal, on the average, to girls of 16. But are they? There is reason to believe that young men are lagging behind in muscular development, in color of the skin, in the amount of hemoglobin in the blood, and in many other factors which make for good health.

The answer seems to lie in a better understanding of the rôle of physical training, which has as its objective the rounding out of muscles and the preservation of the integrity of the circulation and the nerves. Exercise should be play, with the same zest as in childhood. Of course, as the duties of life multiply, not so much time can be allotted, and the type must be suited to the capacity of each individual. Furthermore, as one grows older, the skeleton tends to stiffen. While this can be delayed, we cannot expect to preserve for all time the flexibility of youth. In fact, too much activity in this direction is likely to lead to loosened ligaments, stretched tendons, and subsequent loss of stability.

One thing is forgotten frequently, namely, that in order to get the best effects from a "workout" a substantial portion of the body should be exposed, as it is the skin coming into contact with the air which aids elimination and permits it to breathe. Thus we get rid of excess heat as well as waste products, reducing the load upon the kidneys and the digestive tract.

Not the least of the advantages is better ventilation of the lungs. Under ordinary conditions the amount of air that passes in and out of these organs with each breath is only about one-seventh of their total capacity. In other words, six-sevenths—stale and contaminated—remains within the chest. True enough, the next inspiration brings new oxygen, which merely dilutes but does not remove this residue. With almost any form of exercise—even walking—accompanied by deep breathing, not only is a larger quantity drawn into the lungs but more used up air is cleared out.

We should watch closely for fatigue. Whenever a muscle becomes clogged with waste products—lactic acid, etc.—we recognize exhaustion, stiffness, and aching. Many trainers insist that feats of strength, including weight lifting, prolonged contraction of muscles, and breath holding stunts, are dangerous. Not only do they produce weakness rapidly but they are devoid of rhythm. Work, alternated with rest, makes for a gain in strength.

Every physician has been asked, "What can I do to become stronger?" Let us assume that a plan has been outlined, one that is reasonable and moderate. A man may start out enthusiastically on some particular kind of athletics, but will become less and less engrossed, finally developing a distinct antipathy. He is bored by sameness. This demands frequent modifications, so that enjoyment and coöperation shall not be lost. We always can start with walking. Then, if t e heart will permit, dogtrot for 50 to 100 yards, resuming a leisurely pace for another stretch.

No one should engage in a "build up" program too soon after a meal. An hour at least—better two—should elapse. Ten to fifteen minutes of calisthenics before breakfast and on retiring at night, followed by a warm bath, will leave the body in a soothing glow for a sound night's sleep.

The question has been raised, "Can't I go into a gymnasium and work off a cold—punch the bag, swing on the rings, and pull at the weights until I am in a lather?" The chances are that if the person is toxic—poisoned from a bacterial infection—he may scatter the disease throughout the system. Within a few hours after his activity he may be prostrated with a high temperature—a real illness in prospect.

But I have no patience with the one who says he is too busy for any body building régime. There is time if he will take it.

DON'T TREAT YOURSELF.

N. E. B. writes: I have a film or something over my left eye. Everything seems hazy. It bothers under a strong light. Is it an ulcer of the cornea and if so could I treat it myself?

REPLY.

Eyesight is too precious to jeopardize with home treatment. The chances are that you do not have an ulcer, as this condition is accompanied usually with a considerable amount of pain. Seek a skilled ophthalmologist without delay.

USE A STOOL.

M. A. F. writes: I work as an elevator operator—standing all day. At night my feet swell. I have been told that this is due to poor circulation. Is this true?

REPLY.

Poor circulation due to prolonged standing might very well cause the feet to swell. Why not use a stool when convenient? If this situation persists, consult a physician as to the condition of your heart, kidneys, and circulation.

SHOULD AVOID LAXATIVES.

S. J. S. writes: Is it possible for a person to make the bowels move regularly without taking pills? My husband can't have a movement unless he takes a laxative or an enema.

SCALP TREATMENT.

R. M. writes: My 4½ year old son often gets crusts on his scalp. I keep his hair very clean. What causes this?

REPLY.

Many conditions will need to be investigated, including psoriasis, ringworm, favus, eczema, etc. Inasmuch as treatment—other than cleanliness—varies with the cause, your physician should be consulted.

SINUS INFECTION.

WHO SHOULD BE THANKED?

Chicago, July 8.—I see Ald. Rowan has sponsored a testimonial letter of 462 names to President Roosevelt telling him how much the people in Trumbull park housing project like their quarters. I have written to Ald. Rowan asking:

"Why thank President Roosevelt? He is merely spending some one else's money. Why not thank the thousands of poor saps who pay taxes and who have got to dig a little harder to pay for it?"

Let's ruminate. Those 462 families will have a brighter outlook on life. Admittedly. But on each you have spent about ten thousand dollars of tax money. If you want to see how the average person feels about this sort of waste, close your eyes and pick any city block at random. Ask the people of that block:

"1. Do you own your home?

"2. Did some one give it to you or did you pay for it?

"3. There are poor people who don't have a place like yours. Will you mortgage your home for ten thousand dollars to buy them a place?

"I will wager that 99 out of every 100 will say no on question 3, and yet that is what you have presumed to do. You issued bonds and those are a lien [mortgage] on all property in the U. S. A.—a first mortgage on every home in the country. Do you believe people who pay taxes are in favor of this?

"Those projects don't even pay for the police, fire, etc., they get. They make a token payment. Of all ideas!

"First you tax people to give up to date buildings to a class of people. Then you let them be virtually tax free and the average household is taxed to pay for their upkeep.

"Again I ask—why thank Roosevelt?"

FIT FOR LIBERTY?

Chicago, July 8.—It will soon be necessary for the American people to appraise the accomplishments of the New Deal and ascertain if what has been done has been in conformity with promises made, and the assurances of a "more abundant life for all."

It would seem that 80 years ago John Stuart Mills hit the nail on the head when he made the following statement:

"A people may prefer a free government, but if from indolence or carelessness or cowardice, or want of public spirit they are unequal to the exertions necessary for preserving it; if they will not fight for it when directly attacked; if they can be deluded by the artifices used to cheat them out of it; if by monetary discouragement or temporary panic, or a fit of enthusiasm they can be induced to pay their liberties at the feet of even a great man, or trust him with powers which enable him to subvert their institutions, in all these cases they are more or less unfit for liberty."

HIGHER MATHEMATICS.

Chicago, July 8.—The hustle and bustle of so many men checking trafic on California, Kedzie, and Kimball avenues makes me wonder to whom these men [eight to each corner] report. Certainly it must take a higher education to handle such a job. I wonder if they will be out counting flies, bricks in the pavements. And why not measure the distance from east to west on California avenue?

BAKER IS FAT; WOULD REDUCE.

Chicago, July 8.—How would you like this idea? I am 48 years old and am too fat. I weigh 250 pounds and don't feel as I would if I weighed less. I ought to eat less and have more fresh air exercise. But as bakers are always indoors and around sweets and having a good appetite, we can't keep away from eats.

Couldn't we form an association for overweight men and women? We could have hiking routes; as a starting point a little house where refreshments could be bought, and every three miles farther would be another resting place. Every third resting place would be a hotel to eat and sleep, with a doctor calling at certain hours to see if the hikers need advice. The hotels would serve meals fit for reducing. With the membership dues the stations would be established. Possibly service could be had in established hotels and restaurants. The more members, the longer the routes, and it might get so popular that even people not overweight would want to join. I believe a good healthy hiking sport would be started that way.

Roads not so frequented by automobiles would suit the hiking better than highways.

If you like the idea, do something about it. You have me as a member from now on.

A CARPENTER'S PROBLEM.

Chicago, July 9.—I am a carpenter willing to work under the Landis award at $1 an hour.

This is a fair wage scale to owners and mechanics who work. But the Building Trades council of Du Page county does not want business to progress. The wage scale under union regulations is from $1.50 to $1.75 an hour, which, without question, is discouraging to the building of homes, etc.

As a result of this condition I and many others cannot go to work at our trades. The police of Lombard, the sherif of Du Page county, and the governor have been asked to restrain the Building Trades council from hindering and stopping material delivery and keeping men from working at a job in Lombard. But so far the said agencies of government and law have failed to help the men who are willing to work. What shall we do, go on relief or something of that kind, or on WPA?

1. Section 135 of chapter 3 of the Illinois Revised Statutes. The wording is "not exceeding."

2. The statute does not squarely pass upon the point whether the executor's compensation includes the attorney's fees. We have uniformly stated that this point is subject to differences of opinion. We base our opinion on the theory that the attorney is employed by the executor or administrator rather than by the estate, and that if the services are rendered entirely by an executor or administrator he gets no larger fee for performing both functions.

CAR LINES FIGHT 3 PCT. PAYMENT FOR STREET USE

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.

Street car company representatives clashed with city officials yesterday during a public hearing on a proposed franchise for the car lines. The hearing was held by the city council's local transportation committee to consider a temporary permit for the Chicago Surface Lines to replace the old 1907 ordinances which will lapse in three days.

City officials have said that the old franchises, which have been kept alive since 1927 by temporary extensions, will be allowed to die July 15. The proposed permit would require the companies to pay 3 per cent of their revenues to the city for use of the streets.

Denies Ability to Pay.

Guy A. Richardson, president of the surface lines, and Mayor Kelly, who sat through the hearing, engaged in a brief set-to in which Richardson said that the street car system is unable to pay compensation to the city.

"Compensation and taxes now take the entire receipts of the system for two months of the year," Richardson said. "It is going to be a question soon whether we are able to meet taxes and expenses."

"Is it your position that you cannot pay compensation to the city under the present rate of fare?" Mayor Kelly asked.

"That is so," Richardson replied.

In answer to assertions of city officials that the surface lines have not paid any compensation to the city since 1931, Richardson said that compensation provisions of the 1907 ordinances have added more than 20 million dollars to the expenses of the street car companies in the last eight years.

Explains Added Costs.

These expenses, he said, included paving costs, payments to the city for snow removal and street cleaning, and the carrying of uniformed city employés free.

"It has been said loosely," Richardson said, "that the surface lines have paid no compensation since 1930. The obligations of the 1907 ordinances carried compensation other than the 55 per cent of net receipts. [The ordinances required the company to pay to the city 55 per cent of profits in excess of 5 per cent on the book value. Under this provision the companies paid $47,500,000 from 1907 to 1931.]

"The other large item of compensation is street paving. The car rider is supporting 500 miles of paving 16 feet wide. The surface lines' paving expenses since 1930 exceeded $11,000,000. In addition we pay $1,000 a day for snow removal and street cleaning, totaling $2,533,000 over this period."

Bondholders' Lawyer Protests.

Attorney U. S. Schwartz, representing a surface lines bondholders' committee, said that the proposed permit is unfair to security holders and that they would oppose it in the courts.

William H. Sexton, special traction counsel for the city, told the committee that in his opinion, Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, who has jurisdiction over the surface lines receiverships, would order receivers for the company to accept the new terms.

At a court hearing earlier in the day, Judge Wilkerson criticized surface lines representatives for what he termed a short sighted policy in dealing with the franchise situation and advised them to "behave themselves like a public utility," instead of disputing the authority of the city and the Illinois commerce commission.

Mayor Kelly said yesterday that city officials are carrying on negotiations with the Public Works administration which would provide for the city raising locally its share of the cost of three downtown subways. The city's application is pending for a PWA grant of 45 per cent of the 31 million dollar cost of the projects.

Mayor Kelly said local banks have guaranteed to buy tax warants from the traction fund as money is needed during the construction period. He said the banks would take the warants at 3 per cent, whereas the alternative, a PWA loan, would require interest at 4 per cent.

PLAN A ROUSING RECEPTION FOR SWEDISH PRINCE

Gustav to Arrive in City on Thursday.

Chicago has more Swedes than any other city in the world except Stockholm. The Swedish royal family is one of the most democratic and popular in history. These facts explain why a rousing reception will be given to Crown Prince Gustav Adolphus, his wife, Princess Louise, and his son, Prince Bertil, who arrive here Thursday in the course of their American tour.

The royal party will remain in Chicago until Saturday night to help celebrate the 300th anniversary of the first Swedish settlement in this country. Just before they leave for Minneapolis the three days of festivities will reach a climax at a gathering of 100,000 Americans of Swedish descent in Soldiers' field.

Crown Prince Gustav was a visitor twelve years ago, when he spoke at the Swedish Old People's home in Evanston. Prince Bertil, who is 26 years old, once served as a machinist's apprentice in Rockford, Ill.

Reception Committee Named.

Receiving the royal party at the train on Thursday will be a committee including Gosta Oldenberg, Swedish consul general; Herbert Hedman, Gothard Dahlberg, Eric Thulin, Bernhard Johnson, and former Congressman Carl Chindblom.

After their arrival the party will do some sightseeing. Friday morning is reserved for more sightseeing, with the Adler planetarium and the Shedd aquarium at the top of the list.

Friday afternoon the party will view the special exhibit of Swedish art at the Art institute, dedicating several pictures on this occasion. The Swedish Choral club will sing there.

The crown prince will respond to Mayor Kelly's address of welcome at a banquet in the Palmer house Friday night. Gov. Horner has also been invited. About 1,000 are expected to attend.

Saturday noon there will be a breakfast in honor of Princess Louise at the Palmer house. This event, expected to attract 750, is under auspices of the Daughters of Sweden. At the same time there will be a luncheon for the crown prince and Prince Bertil at the Swedish club.

The royal party will be met downtown by the Black Horse troop and escorted to Soldiers' field. Troops from Fort Sheridan, American Legion drum and bugle corps, and other uniformed groups will be presented.

Eight hundred girls with banners will form patterns of the American and the Swedish flag—yellow St. George's cross on field of blue. There will also be a thousand trained singers. Dr. Joshua Oden, chairman of the Soldiers' field committee, will welcome the royal Swedes on behalf of Chicagoans of Swedish blood.

Mme. Sandler Honored.

Mme. Maja Sandler, wife of the Swedish foreign minister, was the guest of honor last night at a smorgasbord dinner given by clubwomen in the Swedish club, 1258 North La Salle street. She is the only official woman delegate to the Swedish-American tercentenary. She was presented by Mr. Oldenburg. Mme. Sandler described the adult education movement in Sweden which, she said, has an enrollment of 900,000 persons.

About 250 women attended the dinner, sponsored officially by the American Daughters of Sweden, the Ladies auxiliary of the Swedish club, the Zonta Loop club, and the Alliance of Business and Professional Women. Mrs. Ruth Mannow Olsson, president of the American Daughters, presided.

AFFIRM OUSTER OF HRUDKA FROM MORTON HIGH

The board of education of Morton high school in Cicero declined last night to rescind its action of last week in discharging Dr. L. H. Hrudka as superintendent. As a result the school found itself with two superintendents.

Dr. Hrudka continues to visit his office daily, and said he will sue for his full yearly salary of $9,000 if it is refused him. The majority of the board members, who voted to oust him, insist that the superintendent's pay will go to Dr. Hrudka's former assistant, J. R. McDonald, now acting as superintendent.

Both men attended the board meeting, along with 125 teachers, parents, and other townsmen.

HUNT FOR 20 INMATES, INCLUDING 6 GIRLS, WHO FLED TRAINING SCHOOL

Plankinton, S. D., July 11—(AP)—A general state alarm was sent out today for twenty inmates of the South Dakota State Training school, six of them girls, who escaped in a truck belonging to the institution.

Sheriff Bert Morgan of Aurora county was wounded in the ear by a bullet fired from the truck in which the incorrigibles fled from the school playgrounds last night. A second bullet went through the trouser leg of C. A. Roddy, school superintendent, but did not touch him.

FIGHT NAZI, FASCIST PROPAGANDA, PLEA TO 500,000 ELKS IN U. S.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 11.—(AP)—The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks began its seventy-fourth annual convention tonight and heard its grand exalted ruler, Maj. Charles Spencer Hart of New York, urge that the 500,000 Elks in the United States join in a movement to stamp out Nazi and Fascist propaganda.

Charles Edison, assistant secretary of the navy, told the Elks a strong navy was the best means of preserving peace.

President Roosevelt sent Hart a letter commending the Elks' stand for adequate national defense.

"We," read the President's letter, "have no imperial designs—we seek no territorial expansion. Our desire is to live on terms of good will and amity with all people and to maintain within our own borders those free institutions upon which our democracy and all of our happiness are founded."

CONTINUE SALES TAX FRAUD CASES; SEEK CAPONE AIDS

Continuances until July 19 were granted yesterday to two officials of the United Liquor Stores, Inc., when they were arraigned in the Felony court on charges of conspiracy to defraud the state of $14,000 in sales taxes. They are Rocco De Stefano, 8000 Langley avenue, listed as president, and Pasquale Trella, 5046 Federal street, general manager. Investigator Gus Bartels of the state's attorney's office told Judge John J. Rooney that a search still is being made for Ralph Buglio and Joe Fusco, former henchmen of Al Capone. Bartels said they are the owners of a wholesale liquor company which supplies the ten United Liquor stores in the city with their stock.

DICE GIRL TAKES POISON.

Miss Mildred Bradley, who said she is a dice girl in a restaurant at 123 North Pulaski road, was taken to the Garfield Park hospital in serious condition yesterday after she had swallowed poison in her room at 4114 Washington boulevard. Miss Bradley, who is 26 years old, will recover.

IT'S A CRISIS!"

JEEVES is back! Lucky thing, too, for crisis is a pale word indeed to describe the plight which faces Bertie Wooster. Yesterday, a free man; today, tabbed as a bag-and-umbrella snatcher, and plunged into a predicament that is to test the Wooster soul as it has never been tested before. Thus begins the amazing affair of Gussie Fink-Nottle and his bride-to-be, Madeline Bassett; of Miss Stiffy Byng, the Rev. H. P. (Stinker) Pinker, and Roderick Spode, a breath-taking cove with an eye that could open an oyster at sixty paces. The affair, more especially, of a silver cow creamer and a horrid little leather-covered notebook. Turn to page 5 of your Post and you'll find a new novel by Mr. Wodehouse in his top fettle. DOUBLE HORLICK FUNERAL RITES HELD IN RACINE Daughter's Will Is to Be Read in Toronto.

Racine, Wis., July 11.—[Special.]—Double funeral services for Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley, malted milk fortune heiress, and her mother, Mrs. Arabella Horlick, were held here this afternoon behind locked and guarded gates at the Horlick estate.

Meantime, dispatches from Toronto, Ontario, where Mrs. Sidley died last Wednesday at the home of W. Perkins Bull, said her will would be probated in Racine. Executors of the will were expected to meet tomorrow in Toronoto, where the will was drawn three months before Mrs. Sidley's death. It is expected that the terms of the instrument will become known to the family for the first time.

About 200 persons attended the funeral services in the Horlick home, which adjoins the grounds of the malted milk plant that brought many millions of dollars to the Horlick family. In addition to relatives only very close friends and long time employés of the factory were present.

Among the pall bearers were several former associates of Mrs. Sidley when she was active in the operation of the plant in her capacity as vice president.

Bishop Conducts Services.

Bishop J. Harwood Sturtevant, bishop of the Fond du Lac diocese and a friend of the Horlick family, officiated at the services. He formerly was rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church in Racine.

A crowd of about 500 persons stood outside the iron fence around the grounds during the services. Racine policemen kept trafic moving and nearly a dozen private watchmen guarded the gates.

After the rites in the Horlick mansion, the bodies were taken to Mound cemetery, where brief outdoor services were held. About 2,000 persons assembled at the cemetery and were held back by ropes from pressing too close to the mourners.

The bodies were placed in a crypt at the cemetery where they will remain until completion of a $50,000 mausoleum on which work was started two years ago. Provisions are being made for all immediate members of the Horlick family.

Mrs. Sidley's only son, William, 25 years old, said today he hasn't seen a copy of his mother's will.

"I assume the Toronto lawyers who drew it were just waiting until the funeral was over before filing it," he said. "I expect it will be filed here this week."

Legal Resident of Racine.

Asked about reports his mother had cashed checks for large sums of money shortly before her death, Sidley said he knew some large checks had been cashed but asserted he did not know the amounts.

"The matter is now in the hands of my attorney," he added. "My mother had cash accounts in two Toronto banks and had closed them out, but neither account was unduly large. Each account was probably around $5,000."

The executors of Mrs. Sidley's will or their representatives had been expected to meet in Toronto today but the sudden death of her mother, who died Monday only three days after her 88th birthday, caused a postponement.

In connection with plans to probate the will in Racine it was pointed out that Mrs. Sidley always had maintained her legal residence here and that she owned no property in Canada. All the executors of the will, whose names have not been made public, are citizens of the United States, it was said at Toronto by the attorney who drew the will.

Previously he had taught at Upper Iowa university, Fayette, Ia., and in public schools in Ohio. The funeral will be held today at Mount Vernon, O.

Paul Rosyath.

Paul Rosyath, who was in the meat business on the north side for 45 years, died yesterday in his home at 1853 Estes avenue. He was 68 years old and a leader in Masonic circles. Funeral services will be at 3 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 7066 North Clark street.

Arthur Barclay.

MONROVIA, Liberia, July 11.—(AP)—Arthur Barclay, 86 years old, former president of Liberia, died today. He will be given a state funeral Wednesday. Barclay, born in Barbados of Negro parentage, became president of Liberia in 1904 and guided the west African republic through a troubled period before the world war. Financial and political aid of the United States had been invoked against territorial and financial pressure by Germany and France, during which for a month the German gunboat Panther anchored off Monrovia with her guns trained on the presidential palace.

Charles H. Richards.

Charles H. Richards, 63 years old, an official of the All Steel Equipment company of Aurora, died yesterday in the Copley hospital there. He lived at 202 Gladstone avenue, Aurora. Mr. Richards, a resident of Aurora for fifty years, formerly was superintendent of the Knapp Brothers Manufacturing company here. Surviving are his widow, Rose M., and two children. Funeral services will be tomorrow at 10 a. m. in the chapel at 336 Downer place, Aurora.

Mrs. Ann Foster Noonan.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ann Foster Noonan, 93 years old, an early resident of Chicago, will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. in St. Malachy church, with burial in Mount Carmel cemetery. Mrs. Noonan died Sunday in her home at 2233 Superior street. Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Margaret E. Meyers, Mrs. Daniel Hayes, and Mrs. William Hogan.

Mrs. Anna Kustner Smith.

Mrs. Anna Kustner Smith, a retired Chicago school teacher, died yesterday at her home in Los Angeles, Cal., where she had lived for five years. Mrs. Smith was 65 years old. Surviving are her husband, Judson G. R. Smith, a retired real estate broker, and a son, Carl G. Kustner, of 6440 Bosworth avenue. Interment will be in Dowagiac, Mich.

ILLINOIS ARTIST WINS A YEAR'S STUDY IN PARIS

A studio in Paris and a year's study there are Miss Margaret McKee Walker's reward for submitting photographs of a dozen of her paintings to a committee in Paris. The award is one of the Harriet Hale Woolley fellowships, three of which go each year to American students in painting, music and psychiatry.

Margaret Walker.

Miss Walker is 24 years old and lives at 1315 Elmwood avenue, Wilmette. She was graduated from Northwestern university with honors in 1937 and studied nights and summers at the Art institute. For the last year she has headed the art department of the De Kalb Township High school.

She will depart for New York in September, where she will paint an oil portrait of Julius Huehn, Metropolitan opera baritone. When Huehn was here last May, rehersing for the Evanston festival, she was a member of the chorus, and she sketched him. He liked Miss Walker's sketch so well that he ordered the portrait. She was a mezzo-soprano in the festival.

Jim Early, 30 Years Head Waiter at Auditorium, Dies

News of the death of James Early, colored head waiter at the Auditorium hotel for more than 30 years, was received here yesterday. Early, known to many Chicagoans as Jim, died Saturday at his farm near English Lake, Ind. He was at the Auditorium the first three decades of the century.

BOBBY FRANKS' BROTHER FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL

Jack M. Franks, brother of Bobby Franks who was murdered by Leopold and Loeb, was found dead of a heart attack yesterday in his room in the De Witt hotel, 244 East Pearson street. He was 35 years old. His sister, Mrs. Josephine Glaser of New York City, was notified and is on her way here to make funeral arrangements. He formerly attended the University of Chicago, where he was active in fraternity affairs and a member of the staf of the Daily Maroon, student newspaper. At the time of his death he was a partner in the firm of Franks & Cooke, real estate dealers at 319 South Clark street.

Gay Parties Planned for Miss Thorne

BY JUDITH CASS.

THERE are not many large weddings to enliven the quiest midsummer season, so Lake Forest is looking forward to the wedding on July 23 of Miss Narcissa Thorne and Charles L. Peet and to the round of gay parties that will precede it. The parties will be crowded into the three days just before the wedding, however, for Mr. Peet is not arriving from St. Paul until Wednesday next week, the night that Miss Florence Hermes is giving a dinner at the Saddle and Cycle club for him and his fiancée.

The next night Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson D. Currier are entertaining at cocktails before dinner that two of Miss Thorne's sisters, Mrs. G. Corson Ellis and Mrs. George Gillespie, will give at Mr. and Mrs. Ellis' home, followed by dancing at the Onwentsia. Miss Sylvia Peter, who is to be a bridesmaid, will give a cocktail party preceding the bridal dinner which Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Thorne, parents of the bride, are giving at the Shoreacres club on the eve of the wedding. The dinner will be a large one, as will be the reception following the wedding the next afternoon at the Thorne home in Lake Forest. The wedding itself will be small, with only the families and a few intimate friends present.

Miss Margot Reid, who is to be a bridesmaid, is entertaining at luncheon on the day of the wedding. Miss Gertrude Janeway of Los Angeles will be the third bridesmaid. Another of Miss Thorne's sisters, Mrs. Alexander B. Spence, will be the matron of honor.

Alfred Linley of St. Paul will be Mr. Peet's best man, and among the ushers will be Robert Pabst.

Miss Eleanor McClurg is planning a luncheon party for Miss Thorne, for which the date has not been set.

Gustavus F. Swifts Give Dance July 23.

A gay party planned for the night of the 23d, to which some of the young people at the Peet-Thorne wedding reception undoubtedly will be going, is a dance Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift are giving at their home on the grounds of the Shoreacres club for their children. Mr. and Mrs. A. Thomas Taylor [Geraldine Swift] are spending the summer with her parents. They and Miss Marie, Miss Jane, and Gustavus Swift Jr. will be hosts at the dance.

Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, who is at her summer home, Valmay, in Southampton, Long Island, is giving parties, too. She entertained there at cocktails on Saturday for her house guests, her sister, Mrs. William Vernon Booth of New York, and the Charles Fosters of Chicago, who are spending the season with Mrs. Valentine. Mrs. Valentine's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. P. Anderson Valentine, are at their cottage in Southampton for the season.

Added to the list of September debut teas is one Mr. and Mrs. Albert Harris Barber will give in their Hubbard Woods home on the 16th to present their daughter, Miss Maryphyllis Barber. Miss Barber will be a sophomore at Vassar in the fall. She prepared for college at the North Shore Country Day school.

Trevor Stamps to Visit Mrs. Bosworth in August.

Mrs. Charles H. Bosworth of Evanston is looking forward to a visit from her son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Trevor Stamp of London, and their baby, in August.

Mrs. William C. Free of Pasadena, Cal., is the guest this week of Mrs. Charles S. Reed. Mrs. Free is on her way to Chatauqua, N. Y.

The Charles Hull Ewings have with them as guests this summer their son-in-law and daughter and grandson, Mr. and Mrs. James Henry Breasted, and little James, who are here from Colorado Springs, Colo., until September. Mr. Breasted is on the faculty of Colorado college, of which Thurston Davies, who is a Princeton graduate, is the president. Mr. Breasted's brother and his wife, the Charles Breasteds, are living on Long Island. He is working on a biography of their father, the late Prof. James H. Breasted.

Mrs. Edmond Garesché, who arrived Friday to spend a month with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Benoist, missed seeing her grandson, William Jr., for he left on Thursday to spend two months in Nice, France.

George Stuart and his two daughters, the Misses Harriet and Elizabeth Stuart, will leave in a week or ten days for their annual "just for the ride" trip to England. They will be away four weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. George Voevodsky's two nephews, Larry and Edward Dawson are spending the summer abroad. Larry has gone to France with a group of boys and Edward is bicycling through England.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll H. Sudler Jr. have sailed for Europe to be away until the end of August.

Cousins Plan Double Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Shelley Miner of Glencoe have announced the engagement of their niece, Catherine Mansfield Dunshee, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chandler Dunshee of Cedar Rapids, Ia., to Frank Riley, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Riley of Wilmette. Both Miss Dunshee and

Fur Styles for New Season on Display

Got a Figure? New Fur Styles Will Accent It

Glamorous blondes and sympathetic brunettes became all the more glamorous and sympathetic last night as they paraded down a runway in the Palmer house wearing fur coats. The coats and models combined made even their sophisticated audience of persons whose business is furs—they just buy them—whistle, stamp their feet, and applaud with energy.

It was the eighth annual manufacturers' fur exhibit sponsored by the Associated Fur Industries of Chicago, and was attended by about 1,250 buyers. Forty-three exhibitors showed 172 coats worth $650,000.

The nontechnical aspect of the show was expressed by one wistful wife of a fur buyer, overheard to mutter, "Even I could look gorgeous if I had a mink evening cape like that." It cost $8,000.

No one rule of fashion prevails in winter furs, the show revealed. For women who want to show off their figures, there is the fitted coat, much stronger in fashion than for some years. The boxlike lines still predominate, however, with collars smaller, sleeves bigger and more intricate in detail, and skirts from three-quarters to seven-eighths.

Tuxedo fronts received concerted applause. Brown coats were shown in larger numbers than heretofore. Among the new dyes were: skunk, kolinsky, and raccoon resembling sable, and muskrat resembling mink.

One group of black Persian coats totaled three dreams of what every housewife would like to wear in her future life. One was almost quaint in its brand new but old fashioned effect. Its waist was fitted, its skirt full and tiered. Five tiers of soft smooth fur and a blouse back above the fitted waist gave the innocent platinum blonde who wore it a fragile quality.

Another was a fitted evening jacket, buttoned all the way up the front. A longer fitted coat displayed a full skirt in front, the supple fur plaited neatly, and a smooth skirt in back, with bloused effect above the waist.

Another group of three Persian lambs, worn by three lambs who won quite a hand on their own behalf, showed a swing back, rippling but not full, a plain back, and the newer fitted-in waistline. All had the correct small collars.

A swagger coat on a blonde who wouldn't think of swaggering, but just looked at the assembled buyers out of soulful blue eyes, was listed as "Safari Alaska seal, swagger body, 35 inches long, full shoulder treatment, and small plaited collar." Which description gave no idea of the effect tremendous stiff sleeves and almost no collar at all have on a girl with a soulful quality. She becomes almost disembodied—all eyes and sleeves, which seems to be the fashion.

The tuxedo has invaded even the evening coat, and two samples of it, in sable kolinsky jigger coat, and mink dyed kolinsky swagger, were received with hearty whistling and raising of eyebrows.

There were a lot of other intriguing numbers, including a white ermine fitted evening coat with brilliants clasping the slim waistline, and a fitted evening coat of silver fox, and a form fitting slim back broadtail coat, and a Safari seal with bloused bodice. But for a coat with no waste effort about it, slim, trim, and debonair, a pencil silhouette coat of let-out Jap mink was exceedingly noticeable.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Take the Stand, Bette Davis

Hollywood, Cal., July 11.

Q.—Is it true, Bette, that when you first came to Hollywood they believed you were hopeless as a screen prospect.

Bette Davis likes nasty roles.

A.—That's putting it mildly, Ed. In the first place I was at fault. I came out on a $350 contract, and although that sounds like good money in some other business, it's not important money in this business, as you know. So from the time I arrived they treated me like a poor cousin. No youngster should come to this town without a big contract, for big money, because they treat you according to your salary scale.

Q.—Why were they so certain that you wouldn't click?

A.—My face. They said that I was too homely.

Q.—As tactless as that?

A.—Junior Laemmle went beyond that. He told my agent: "We can't do very much with her, because of her face. We have exactly the same trouble finding parts for Slim Summerville."

Q.—Slim Summerville!

A.—Not his uncle. They felt that the people wouldn't believe Slim Summerville as a love interest. So I told my agent to tell them to write a story in which Slim would make love to me.

Q.—You proved they were wrong, huh?

A.—I met Junior Laemmle one night, not long ago, and teased him about it. He's really a nice kid, so after I'd tormented him a bit I stopped. He looked so embarrassed.

Q.—Then you've really had your share of discouragements?

A.—No more so than other performers. You've got to expect to get bumped around. The only time I ever felt bad was when I met Eva Le Gallienne.

Q.—In what way?

A.—She was running sort of a school for actresses down on 14th street and, filled with high hopes, down I went to enroll in the course. She was a great idol to me, because of the things she'd accomplished on the stage.

Q.—What happened?

A.—The first question she asked me was why should actors and actresses study the movements of wild animals? I told her that I didn't know, but that's why I had gone to her, to learn those things. Then they gave me the part of a Dutch woman to read and I read it, but I said again that I'd probably done it badly because I had to learn the right way.

Q.—Naturally.

A.—They were surveying me more coldly all the time. Then a very brusque, mannish sort of woman told me to follow her. We went upstairs to the office, where I filled out some papers. From that day on I never heard from them. I suppose they were overrun with applicants—but my first experience certainly was heart-breaking. I've tried to be extra nice to hopeful youngsters, because I know what it is to have cold water thrown on your hopes.

Q.—What were you using for money all this time?

A.—My mother had a great gift for photography, so we got along. We had been living in Norwalk, Conn. I was engaged to a boy going to Yale. One day my mother decided to take me to New York again. She walked me into John Murray Anderson's office, and she was so nervous that she almost shouted at him: "I haven't any money, but you've GOT to give my daughter a chance. I'll pay you just as soon as I get some money together." We probably both were wild-eyed. I think John Murray was too scared to refuse.

Q.—Then you played in a road company of "Broadway?"

A.—That's right. Wally Ford and Frank McHugh were in the company. Then with Blanche Yurka. One night Eva Le Gallienne came backstage to visit Miss Yurka. If I'd had nerve enough I'd have gone up to her and told her she had been wrong. But I didn't.

Q.—When you were a youngster you were badly burned, weren't you?

A.—A Christmas tree burned my face terribly at school. It's queer. The only scar is a tiny mark under my right ear. In cold weather it shows clearly. It was that accident that made my eyes so big and popeyed.

Q.—What was your first important part?

A.—With George Arliss. It was because of that picture that Pandro Berman and John Cromwell took a chance with me, I guess, in "Of Human Bondage," as Mildred. Some day I'm going to erect a statue to Mildred.

Q.—What's your nationality?

A.—French and Welsh. The French side of the family was prolific in actors. I have an uncle, a minister, who would have been a great dramatic actor.

Q.—Do you like to play those Mildred parts or the type of thing you did in "Jezebel?"

A.—I love 'em. They've got bite to them. I've always lived such a proper life that it's fun to be the meanest girl in town, on celluloid. My schoolgirl friends back in Lowell, Mass., probably are shocked to death, but if you hear of a nice, nasty part, you call me up right away, and some day I'll do something for you, Edward, y'hear?

The Handsome Feller Loses in This Movie

"PORT OF SEVEN SEAS."

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

One different angle this "Adults Only" picture has. The handsome young feller [John Beal] doesn't win out in the end. No, siree! That good, devoted, old family friend [Frank Morgan], who marries John's girl friend [Maureen O'Sullivan] and gives her child [and John's] his name and a happy and wealthy home, is finally amply repaid for his perpetually gushing nobility.

Marseilles is the "port," and here the action transpires, though it might just as easily have occurred in any burg near a large body of water [for John to sail away on].

If you can take the first part of the film, which is tiresomely talky and draggy, you'll be repaid by some fairly interesting later episodes and a satisfying finale.

The acting is all aces. And that little, original twist to the story, which I mentioned, sends you from the theater feeling that, after all, "Port of Seven Seas" wasn't so bad.

See you tomorrow.

Dance Dresses of Linen Crisp, Cool, Romantic

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Linen dance dresses are summer successes priced for every allowance. They're short, snappy, wide of skirt, crisp and clean in outline, and colorful enough to make a picture outfit under any moon.

Delft blue linen is used for one beauty, a star attraction for blondes or coppertops because the skirt is gored to flare widely at the lower edge, trimmed with a finely fluted frill about two inches deep, and the bodice is cut with a sophisticated heart-shaped outline and held over the shoulder with shoestring straps.

Flower printed linen displays typical garden blooms, poppies, cornflowers, daisies, and green leaves. Dotted linens are tailored and trim, usually with flared gored skirts and the merest scrap of bodice. Snow white linens have brief bolero jackets, some have scalloped edges around the skirt as well as the bolero. Pink linen, as cool and fresh as strawberry ice, can be worn with raspberry red linen jackets or French blue linen fitted coat down to the hipline and buttoned with gold or silver metal buttons.

Striped linen is used for both dance dresses and daytime outfits. Whether you make your own or buy such cool smooth dresses ready to wear out, you can find definitly different dresses for sultry summer nights.

Linen is cool, tailors impeccably, takes frequent tubbing without any disastrous results, wears amazingly well, and makes a good relief from the too many overfrilled dotted Swisses, or the too many overcloying chiffons.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

There would be a lot less weeping about dry skin in winter time if we women were consistent about our choice of soaps all the year round. The woman with delicate, paper-thin skin owes it to herself to be positively fussy about the soap she uses on it.

We know that in summer there are fewer complaints about dry skin; it is because in hot weather we are not made conscious of need for oiling as we are in winter. But just the same we are going to tip you off right now to a new soap, a cold cream soap, that all dry skinned women should become acquainted with. Use it now, and all summer, and on into the winter and we'll bet your irritating and somewhat embarrassing "winter itch" won't be what it used to be!

The creator of this soap probably knows more about soaps and perfumes than nine experts out of ten. And when he focused his genius on one particular kind of soap he really got something.

The soap itself is bland as butter. It makes a lovely lather, cleanses wonderfully, and is so mild, creamy, and soothing to the skin it is practically a beauty treatment in itself. It comes in two sizes—the toilet size and the bath size—and isn't so expensive as you'd expect such quality to make it.

It has a special perfume, too—the sweet, fresh fragrance of the English bluebell. It isn't over perfumed; it's just right, scenting the skin to exactly the right degree. The perfume is one we recommend highly. It is different and charming. And we noticed that the perfume clung to the sturdy, well made cake of this white soap down to the last thin wafer.

Harold Lloyd May Become Producer of W. C. Fields Films

Hollywood, Cal., July 11.—(AP)—An alliance between two of the big comedy names in the movies—Harold Lloyd and W. C. Fields—is in the talking stage.

The two, close personal friends, have discussed the possibility of Lloyd turning producer to make Fields' pictures.

One of the reasons for Lloyd's presence in New York now is to determine what arrangements can be made for releasing Fields' films.

Lloyd would not give up his own career to become the producer. He would use his organization, set up solely for feature comedy production, while he, as the comedy minded executive, would function as general overseer.

Since leaving Paramount several months ago, Fields has had offers.

Good Natured Bridegroom

The following telegram was received yesterday by THE TRIBUNE:

"When it's not editorial or news would think you wouldn't mind being accurate. Your society editor writes Beatrice Short engaged to Mr. James. I happened to be engaged to her and my name isn't James nor was my father's, nor am I living with Dr. Briggs. It's Biggs. These are stupid and careless mistakes. Print a correction. CHRISTOPHER JANUS."

The telegram refers to the announcement in Monday's TRIBUNE of the engagement of Miss Beatrice Short and Christopher George "James." THE TRIBUNE regrets the error in Mr. Janus' name. The handwriting in the letter announcing the engagement with the request it be printed was rather illegible. In verifying the announcement by telephone the society reporter spoke to a sister of Miss Short and referred four times by name to Mr. "James," but was not corrected.

Teachers Gather at Urbana to Study Better Methods

Urbana, Ill., July 11.—[Special.]—Hundreds of teachers from Illinois and adjoining states arrived today for the third summer session conference on the improvement of instruction which opens tomorrow and continues through Friday. "Educational conferences are becoming an integral part of the summer sessions of institutions of higher learning," said Dr. Arthur Cutts Willard, president of the University of Illinois, under whose auspices the conference is to be held.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Burnham Nelson of Evanston announce the engagement and approaching marriage on Aug. 27 of their daughter, Margaret Leah, to Clarence Harold Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Morris of Evanston. The wedding will take place at 8 o'clock in the evening in the auditorium of the First Congregational Church of Evanston, the Rev. Clark Walker Cummings of St. Louis officiating. A reception will follow at the Nelson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome B. Ehrich of 5032 Woodlawn avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Hattie Belle, to Robert Starr Loewenstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Loewenstein of the Chicago Beach hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Ehrich will give a reception for their daughter and Mr. Loewenstein Sunday evening in the ballroom of the Chicago Beach hotel.

Sally Promises Sea Thrills to Young Guests

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.]

If any of you boys have an idea 'way in the back of your mind that you'd some day like to be the captain of one of the big liners ploughing back and forth across the ocean, better see if you can't win an invitation to my party on July 21. We're going to see "Lord Jeff," you know, which is a story about little boys who do grow up to do such wonderful things and the school that helps them do it.

We're to have a private showing of the picture, just for us, arranged by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. We'll have the theater all to ourselves and no one can even pay to come in. Mickey Rooney and Freddy Bartholomew are at their very best in this film, and they have a bang-up fight in it, too.

My purpose in having these parties is to see that you boys and girls have a good time, and when I'm having a movie party I naturally want to take youngsters who like movies and who will have a lot of fun seeing "Lord Jeff."

If you'd like to come to this private screening with me, write a letter and tell me all about it. I have room for 50 boys and 50 girls and if you'd like to be one of them, better get busy. You must write your own letter—if your mother or father or sister write it for you it'll go in the waste basket. Be sure to tell me your full name, address, and age, and mail your note so that it will reach me by next Thursday morning. That's the deadline, and if it comes after that, you're out!

The address is Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

SYNOPSIS.

On board the S. S. Panama Queen, sailing from Los Angeles to New York via Panama, are Anne Sydney, who has a part in a Broadway play, and her crippled and embittered sister, Mena; Arnold Vernon, rich English motion picture producer, and his coldly beautiful wife, Claire; Isobel Butler, who has a stateroom next to the Vernon suite and hopes to get in pictures through him; Alex Reed, young surgeon returning to work after two years' illness, and gossipy Mrs. Panting. Isobel meets and arouses Vernon's interest. Anne and Alex are mutually attracted. Mena spitefully tells Alex that Anne is a heartless flirt. Pride causes Anne to hold aloof from him. Dr. Neil Andrews, a friend of Alex's, joins the ship in Mexico. He wants to get married and thinks Anne meets his ideals. Alex's efforts to help Mena inspire her with a neurotic passion. Vernon has a heart attack in Isobel's room. She calls Alex away from Anne to help her get Vernon secretly to his own suite. Misunderstanding Alex's interest in Isobel, Anne allows Neil to kiss her. Mena sees them. A quarrel ensues and Anne moves to another room.

INSTALMENT XX.

DISILLUSIONED.

THE SEVENTH DAY.

Alex slept fitfully in the small hours and woke before seven. He was conscious of the coolness of the atmosphere before he opened his eyes. The ports were filled with low cloud. It was raining.

He dressed quickly and went up on deck. He saw Anne at the rail holding out her hands to let the beating water flow over them. He saw she had not slept as soon as he came up to her. There were shadows like little bruises under her eyes.

"Hello, stranger" she said with her vivid smile, "you should come dashing up after forgetting our walk last night!"

Alex was stunned. How could he have forgotten that walk when all his thoughts resolved round Anne! She fell into step beside him and they began to walk round the deck.

"Why, Anne, I must have been more upset than I thought I was. Something happened last night. I wish I could tell you, but it isn't my secret. Everything else went out of my head."

That settles it, she thought miserably. A man couldn't forget the tiniest trifle about a girl if he were falling in love with her.

She said: "I thought it was something like that."

She fell silent and he noticed there was an air of defeat about her now that her smile was gone. That odious appalling sister.

He said: "The high spirits seem to have sunk to a record low. What's on your mind, my dear? Sorry—I mean Anne."

The faint ghost of a smile and a quick lift of her chin. "Nothing, Alex. I mean nothing that would interest you."

"But everything that happens to you interests me. And, Anne, I happen to know what's the matter. I saw Flagg last night and he told me you'd moved. This time I shall adopt more drastic methods with Mena."

He saw a look of implacable obstinacy tighten the lines of her face. "No, Alex. I've given it up as a bad job. She was impossible. She is not fond of me underneath. Her jealousy and hatred go clear through to the very core of her soul. You couldn't change that by talking if you talked to her for a million years."

"My dear Anne! She must have been beyond everything."

"So you see it's no good. I don't mind her hating me. I only mind because she makes herself unhappy. I'd like to have helped her to learn to enjoy her life. I'd like to have shared with her every lovely thing I have. She's my only sister. No brothers. My parents are desperate about her. They've tried everything. It wasn't easy for them to spare the money for her to make the round trip with me. I hate to send her back to them the same girl who went away, only more so. They've tried so hard. They've been so good to both of us."

Her rich voice was well modulated, but he felt in her the hidden hysteria of a deeply painful wound. Alex conquered the impulse to put his arm round her to comfort her. "Leave it to me," he said firmly. "I will deal with her."

"No." Anne clutched his arm, and the involuntary contact stabbed him with suffering and pleasure. "It was my fault she was so bad. I let myself go. My violent redhot temper. It's all gone in a minute, but it does murder while it lasts."

"I shall deal with her just the same. Now, Anne, tell me what she said."

Anne laughed—a hurt, forlorn sound without mirth. "That's something best forgotten as quickly as possible. You leave her alone, Alex. Ah—see who's coming——"

Neil Andrews. Tall, swaggering, boldly handsome in his crisp white ducks, smiling, debonair. "Well, Alex, so you stole a march on me this morning. Why don't you get a girl of your own to help you take the air?"

"So I'm your girl, am I?" inquired Anne, almost glad of the timely interruption.

Anne said: "Well, it doesn't affect my appetite. Let's all go down to breakfast."

They went down. Alex glanced at the purser's table from time to time. Mena was not there.

He saw her later in the drawing room writing at one of the secluded window tables. He went in, drew up a chair, and sat beside her.

"Mena, I'm very disappointed in you. I thought you were impressed by what I said to you yesterday. Now, what have you been doing to your sister?"

She gave him a queer, cunning sidelong look. "Why do you want to know? Has she been complaining to you?"

"She has not. In fact, she refused to discuss it with me."

"I see. Poisonous suspicion. Or the pretense of it. For you know very well your sister wouldn't do such a thing."

He could not have wounded Mena more deeply had he stabbed her with the paper cutter on the table. "You know nothing about my sister. But I've lived with her all her life. She's man crazy. That's why the family didn't want her to work in New York. They know she'll soon get herself into some kind of man trouble."

Alex breathed deeply and waited till his fury died before he spoke. He did not have to deal with a normal human being. "Now, Mena, suspicion is one thing and facts are another. Will you be advised by me and go and apologize to Anne? And hereafter believe nothing but what you see with your own eyes."

Mena gleamed with her imminent triumph. It was all she could do to keep the smile from her face. "But I did see her with my own eyes. Late last night I got up to look for her. I found her in the dark at the end of the deck over the swimming pool. She was kissing Dr. Andrews as if she were married to him. They stood there without moving for about five minutes locked in each other's arms."

Alex felt as if he had been whisked down in an elevator leaving his inner machinery behind.

"You're sure it was Anne?"

"Naturally. I waited till they stopped and he walked away. Then I joined her and she came down to bed with me." She added as he remained silent—"so you see."

"No, I don't see. I don't see that this proves that Anne is anything she shouldn't be. Love is a natural thing, and you are a selfish, jealous young woman to try to spoil it. No wonder she left you to be by herself and get some peace. Now will you be civilized and go and apologize to her?"

"No," said Mena, decisively.

Alex rose from the chair. "Well, you baffle me. I admit it. But one thing I'd like you to understand. I don't want you to speak to me till you have apologized to Anne. Now, what's your answer?"

She looked away from him.

He had to bend down to hear her.

"No," she said.

She Loves Him, She Loves Him Not; Which?

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I have loved a man for a year and a half, but broke up with him some time ago, for no reason at all. No quarrel, nothing happened.

"Recently, I met him accidentally and he asked if we couldn't get back on the old footing. I told him not to try to see me again. But still I can't overcome that old feeling for him. I have tried to steel myself against him. I have insulted him in many ways. But it is no use. He keeps crossing my path, my heart, I mean. He was my first love and I can't forget him. What do you advise? SISTER."

Our advice would be for you to make up your mind, Sister, if you have one. You sound as though you might have mislaid it somewhere, temporarily, at least. You say you love the man, but you insult and discourage him and you want him back because he was your first love, etc. Sounds like a squirrel cage inhabitant.

What's wrong with the fellow? Is he not of good reputation, or what? If he is not a person you would be proud to have go around with you you'd better extend him one final insult and proceed to forget he ever was on earth. We can't help but suspect that you are either very, very young, or that this man with the hold on you is outside the pale and that you are fighting a temptation to pick up an acquaintance that were better forgotten.

We would dismiss your correspondence lightly, Sister, except that we see in your wobbling back and forth a fault that is fairly common and one that stands in the way of a really successful romance. Girls will insult but not drop a man with whom they should not be seen because they want him on reserve for the hours when nothing better appears. Before they know it, they have their names linked with the undesirable and find it hard climbing back up on the road where better men may be found.

We are only assuming, in this case, that the chap is numbered among the undesirables. If he weren't, why would a girl spend time nursing a feeling without encouraging the man? Normal behavior would be to accept the chap's attentions if he is all right and you suffer heart tremors over him.

And why get the "insulting" habit, Sister? It isn't becoming one of your sex. All you have to do to dismiss a suitor is to tell him your time is all occupied.

BLAKE ANSWERS

Step Aside for Your Sister.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a boy, but I think he likes my sister. Should I try to win him? BLUE EYES."

Apparently you feel that he favors your sister, so step aside in her favor.

Baby Swallows Anything That Comes to Hand

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

We mentioned yesterday that Dr. Chevalier Jackson, the noted specialist in bronchoscopy, was going to devote the rest of his life to the prevention of certain accidents among children, which he has spent the greater part of his years in treating.

He is quoted as saying, "All these cases that come to me—babies swallowing pins, coins, and other things, children tasting lye and caustics—they are the result of negligence and carelessness and can all be prevented.

"I have studied these cases," he said. "Children swallowing pins, for instance. Children couldn't swallow open pins if they weren't left open by some careless adult. Closed pins are not necessarily dangerous. They usually pass out without harm. But parents and nurses do not realize that children are most imitative.

"A mother will dress or undress a child and unclasp a pin and put it in her mouth. The child is watching. When that child dresses or undresses its doll it puts the pin in its mouth, just as the mother did.

"Another thing. A father or mother will have to make change, say, at a subway station or in a trolley. The parent puts the coin in his or her mouth while fumbling with the rest of the money. The child watches—and at the first opportunity does the same thing.

"All these things mean the steady stream of children and infants brought into our clinics with strange and dangerous objects in the bronchial tubes, stomach, or esophagus."

Dr. Jackson has removed pins, hairpins, small crucifixes, jacks, buttons, staples, stones. One child even swallowed an unfired cartridge!

Unceasing vigilance is the price of the safety of your young children. If they must be out of your sight for a while, let it be in a spot that is as "foolproof" as possible.

Summer danger prevention will be discussed tomorrow.

"Traveling with the Baby in Summer?" is a leaflet of interest to parents. It will be sent on receipt of a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

The Housewife

So many women have peasant pottery in gay, vivid colors in their kitchens these days that linen manufacturers have decided to devote their attention to it. They have made good looking dish towels with borders in ombre effect in the range of colors most popular in the pottery.

Thus you can get towels of excellent quality with shadowy striped edges in blue or yellow, red or green. They're woven in Ireland, but they match the brilliant hues of the pottery perfectly. They measure 16 by 33 inches, already made up, and a dozen of these handsome towels will not set back your budget much.

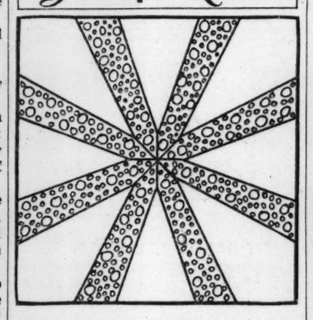
TODAY'S QUILT



Northern Lights.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Northern Lights" is one of the old quilt patterns which look so simple to piece. In reality it is, but extreme caution must be used in setting those center points together in such a way as to have them all lie flat when the block is pieced. This is one of the important features beginning quilt makers must consider. With imagination one can readily visualize the "Northern Lights" playing across the skies when looking at the beautiful coverlet formed with the quilt pattern of the same name. This fifteen inch block is set together to form an all-over design, and 42 pieced squares are required for a coverlet measuring 90 by 105 inches.

For a limited period Nancy Cabot offers ten quilt patterns of her own choice at a price of 10 cents for the group (12 cents by mail). Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

Ever Wonder Why You're Constipated?

Do you ever have days when you just have to drag yourself along, when you feel tired, sunk—because of that constipation? Then why not find out the real cause of your trouble?

What have you had to eat lately? Just things like meat, bread and potatoes? If that's it, you may not have to look any farther. It's likely your trouble is you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and aids elimination.

If "bulk" is what you lack, your ticket is a dish of crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. It contains the "bulk" you need plus Nature's great intestinal tonic, vitamin B_1.

Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and join the "regulars"! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

A summer "tea" party is more likely to be a punch or lemonade party than a tea, although iced tea isn't barred, of course. And neither is iced coffee.

Afternoon tea is a convenient label for that quiet hour after 4 when refreshment is offered on the porch, in the garden or yard, or in the living room. If the beverage served really is tea, then more often than not it will be blended and flavored with cooling fruit juices. Iced tea to which orange and lemon juice have been added is one of the most refreshing summertime drinks.

Refrigerator cookies, tiny cakes, simple sandwiches, and the like are the only needed accompaniments. This afternoon sip and bite isn't meant to do more than quench thirst and give one a new supply of energy.

MIDAFTERNOON REFRESHMENTS

1. Cinnamon toast strips with orange iced tea. To make the toast strips cut slices of bread into narrow strips, brush all over with butter, and roll in a mixture of sugar and cinnamon. Toast in the oven and serve warm with the cold drink. To make the drink combine equal parts of iced tea and orange juice.

2. Rolled cheese sandwiches with grapeade. Cut off crusts of an unsliced loaf of bread and slice it the long way for sandwiches. Spread with butter and softened cream cheese or with grated Parmesan cheese mixed with softened butter, a dash of cayenne pepper, and a drop or two of Worcestershire sauce. Roll up, wrap in a slightly dampened napkin, and chill until ready to serve. Then cut each roll into jelly roll slices to serve. Rolled sandwiches may be made from sliced bread, too, by removing the crusts, spreading with filling, rolling, and securing with wood pins or cocktail picks.

3. Nut bread sandwiches and ginger ale punch. Nut and fruit quick breads are easily made at home. We have some excellent recipes which have been published in the column, but are available in mimeographed form to any one who failed to clip them. Please send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for the sheet of recipes. There are canned date and nut breads, and canned brown breads which are excellent for use in this way, too.

4. Graham cracker sandwiches and orange float. To make the graham cracker sandwiches put crackers together with flavored, uncooked icing, and cut each sandwich in two for the sake of daintiness. For the drink float orange ice in tall glasses of lemon or grapeade.

5. Butterscotch refrigerator cookies and iceberg chocolate. This drink is simply iced chocolate with coffee ice cubes upon which float small fluffs of whipped cream.

Our booklets, "The New Sandwichmaker" and "Thirst Quenchers" have many more ideas for afternoon refreshment. Each is 5 cents [in stamps] by mail.

Mr. Riley were graduated from Northwestern university.

Miss Dunshee and Mr. and Mrs. Miner's daughter, Barbara, whose engagement to Charles Oliver Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don V. Parker of Ashtabula, O., was announced recently, will have a double wedding. The ceremony will take place at 5:30 o'clock on Aug. 11 at Mr. and Mrs. Miner's home with a reception following. Both the wedding and reception will be small with only relatives and a few close friends present.

Miss Miner was graduated from Vassar and studied at the University of Ohio. Mr. Parker also studied at the University of Ohio and it was there that he met Miss Miner.

Mr. Parker will take his bride to Kansas City to live. Mr. Riley and his bride will live in Evanston.

Dr. Francis M. Yager to Wed New Yorker.

The wedding of Miss Helen Genevieve Smith, daughter of Mrs. James A. Smith of 390 Riverside drive, N. Y., formerly of Yonkers, N. Y., and the late Mr. Smith, to Dr. Francis Montgomery Yager of Evanston, son of Frank S. Yager of Chicago, and the late Mrs. Yager, will take place at 8 o'clock the evening of Aug. 8 at the Broadway Presbyterian church in New York. Following the ceremony there will be a reception at the Ambassador hotel.

Dr. William Waxill of Chicago will be best man for Dr. Yager. After a short honeymoon Dr. Yager and his bride will live in Evanston.

The marriage of Miss Helen Alice Heissler, daughter of Edward R. Heissler of Chicago and of Mrs. Orthwein Heissler of St. Louis, to Byron K. Elliott of Boston will take place on Friday in New York. The ceremony will take place in the chapel of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church. The bride is a member of the St. Louis Junior league. Mr. Elliott formerly was a judge in the Superior court in Indianapolis.

Horse Show Earns $10,000 for Charity.

Taking their places as big money makers in the field of raising money for charity are the members of the three Infant Welfare society centers that sponsored the horse show at the South Shore Country club early in June. In spite of having rainy weather on the opening day of the two day show, the centers cleared $10,000 on the venture.

A party that all members of the various committees of the Arden Shore association enjoy is the annual picnic given by the board of directors. This year's party is to be held next Monday. Following a box luncheon out of doors, if the weather is fair, the Arden Shore campers will give a program to demonstrate the work of the camp.

The summer camp, which opened June 29, provides a two weeks' outing for about 2,000 mothers, children and grandmothers from Chicago's crowded districts. Mrs. Robert B. Gregory is honorary president of the board, of which Mrs. Herbert S. Nock is president. Mrs. Richard Gambrill Jr. and Mrs. Harry A. Sellery are vice presidents.

Mrs. Marcy Weeks has joined her mother, Mrs. Melvin A. Traylor, at the Wausaukee club in Wisconsin. Mrs. Traylor is expected back in town in two weeks.

Mrs. Edwin C. Austin and her daughters have gone to the Wausaukee club. Mrs. Austin is returning to Glencoe for a few days the end of the month.

Miss Marguerite Mersman, who has been visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Seaverns Jr., in Lake Forest, had planned to leave for her home in Tahiti in July, but she has deferred her sailing until the fall. Mr. and Mrs. Seaverns and their children and Miss Mersman will go to the senior Mr. and Mrs. Seaverns' camp at Land o' Lakes, Wis., for August.

Sun Dress a Versatile One

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' FROCK.

Here's an attractive sun dress that has its practical side, too, for you can don the bolero jacket and wear the frock to all sorts of daytime events this summer. The jacket has brief sleeves, but no collar. This allows the pretty one on the dress to show at all times. It matches the contrasting belt. Polka dotted prints are especially nice choices for use with white or pastels. Select any sturdy cotton or a linen for this model. The armholes are cut in raglan fashion, and the bodice fits rather snugly. The waistline is fitted, too, although the many gores of the skirt create desired swing, the extra skirt room so desirable for active sports.

Remember that the little bolero is variously useful. It may be worn with all your other summer dresses.

Style No. 2797 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, and 38 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 4⅝ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅝ yard of 35 inch contrasting for the dress and ¾ yard of 39 inch fabric for the bolero.

W-G-N Builds Good Program on "Pagliacci"

W-G-N chose one of the shortest of standard musico-dramatic works for the third item in its current series of streamlined operas. Leoncavallo's "I Pagliacci," which runs only about eighty minutes net anyway, was hewed down into a one hour show and presented last evening before a more than capacity audience in W-G-N's public studio.

Virtually none of the important music was omitted. "Pagliacci's" fulsome Latin melodies, built in simple diatonic style around such standard topics as love and jealousy and spring, make excellent radio fare. So do the exquisite, quasi-antique tunes of the play scene.

Continuing the system used so successfully in "Martha," the first opera in this series, the presentation boasted a separate cast of characters for certain passages which were spoken instead of sung. Thus a valuable condensation was effected and the singers were spared the possible embarrassment of having to display their abilities as radio actors and actresses as well.

Nedda, Canio, Tonio, Silvio, and Peppe were sung by Kathryn Witwer, Attilio Baggiore, Mark Love, Richard Schreiber, and Gunther Decker, respectively. Henry Weber conducted. The radio version was the work of Fran Coughlin. The studio throng played the part of the stage audience in the play scene.

For reasons which elude the uninitiated, the same saccharine theme song which is used on nonoperatic Mondays, retained its place at the beginning and end of this "Pagliacci" broadcast.

Care of Eyes Is Essential to Health, Sight

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Flying dust, a splinter, a bit of steel or any other fine particle in the eye calls for prompt, clean removal. Rubbing the eye makes matters worse. Go to a physician if the foreign body does not come out at once. Never touch your eyes with dirty hands, a dirty wash cloth, a dirty towel or dirty handkerchief. And never rub your eyes.

When reading or writing or doing close work, do not have light that shines into the eyes, or that reflects from a table or desk and dazzles. The light should come over your left shoulder. Thus it does not make troublesome shadows.

If your eye is inflamed, consult a physician at once. Blurring, swelling, puffing are warnings that should be heeded at once. To obtain better light from floor, table, and desk lamps, it is recommended that a 100 watt bulb be used in a one socket lamp; in a two socket lamp use two 60 watt bulbs; in a three socket lamp use three 40 watt bulbs.

Defective vision is conducive to ill health. When eyes are dull, bloodshot, or watery, it is a bad sign. By straining your eyes you put a strain on your body. You tire body and brain, with nervousness, headache, and indigestion as symptoms of exhaustion. Eyestrain detracts from appearance and personality, as seen in squinting, scowling, frowning, lack of poise, and irritability.

The first symptom of eye trouble should be accepted as a warning. The most common optical defects usually lend themselves to correction by the proper fitting and using of glasses. Among these are hyperopia or farsightedness, myopia or nearsightedness, astigmatism, presbyopia or lessening of accommodation. Evidences of the presence of these optical defects are blurred vision, headaches, eyeaches, digestive disturbances, and other symptoms.

Flabby lids are due to a lack of physical tone, the same principle that applies to flabby cheeks or flabby skin on any part of the body. The remedy, naturally, is toning up the entire system.

An eye rest that should be practiced by everybody several times daily is long distance gazing. Go to the window and look out toward the horizon for a minute or two every little while during the day.

According to CULBERTSON

The bidding at both tables was the same, i. e., South started with one club. West passed. North bid one diamond. East passed. South jumped to two no trump, and North went to three no trump. The opening lead, also, was the same, namely, the heart five.

"At the table at which I played as declarer, I won with the heart queen and immediately led a diamond. West ducked and the ten held. Now, hoping that the defender with the ace would be able to hold off and would choose to do so out of fear that I held three diamonds, I led the diamond king. After a long huddle, however [during which I could see him mentally tossing a coin], West took his ace, and after that I was finished. I never could return to dummy and, since West cleared his heart suit immediately, I finally wound up by going down three tricks.

"At the other table the first plays were exactly the same, and this similarity went even as far as West's huddle on the second diamond play. This West, our teammate, guessed wrong; that is, he thought declarer had three diamonds, hence was afraid to take the second round. Having attained his objective of two diamond tricks, declarer then shifted to a club and took the finesse. It worked, and he established his fifth club while retaining heart control, winning, in all, four club tricks, two diamonds, two hearts, and one spade. The resultant swing of 900 points was our Waterloo.

"What we would like to know is just this: Was it luck, pure and simple, that at my table West took the second diamond, while at the other table our teammate held off until the third round? Was there any way of knowing which trick to take? Yours truly,

"W. S. Y., Albany."

I cannot say whether or not it was luck that led one defender to the right play while the other was going astray. But there most definitly is a method whereby the correct play can be determined. There is a standard playing convention that meets this precise situation. When the dummy has a long suit and no outside entry, and when it is important for the defender who holds the stopper in that suit to know exactly what trick to take, so that declarer will be out of the suit and cannot reach dummy, the cards played by the other defender can give a clear message. As applied to this hand, the convention works like this:

When the first diamond is led to dummy, the ace-holding defender must, of course, concede the first trick. It is the other defender's duty to signal whether he holds two or three cards in that suit. With three, he plays the lowest; with a doubleton he begins an echo. In this case, had East used the convention, playing the deuce [obviously the lowest], West immediately would know that East had three diamonds, which would leave declarer with only two. West then would hop on the second diamond play and, thus, hold declarer's diamond winners to one instead of two. If East's diamond holding had been the 7-5 or 7-2 his proper play on the first diamond would be the seven spot. West then could assume that this was the start of a high-low and immediately place declarer with three rather than two diamonds. This would mean that West had to hold off until the third round. It is an extremely valuable convention for use in hands of this nature.

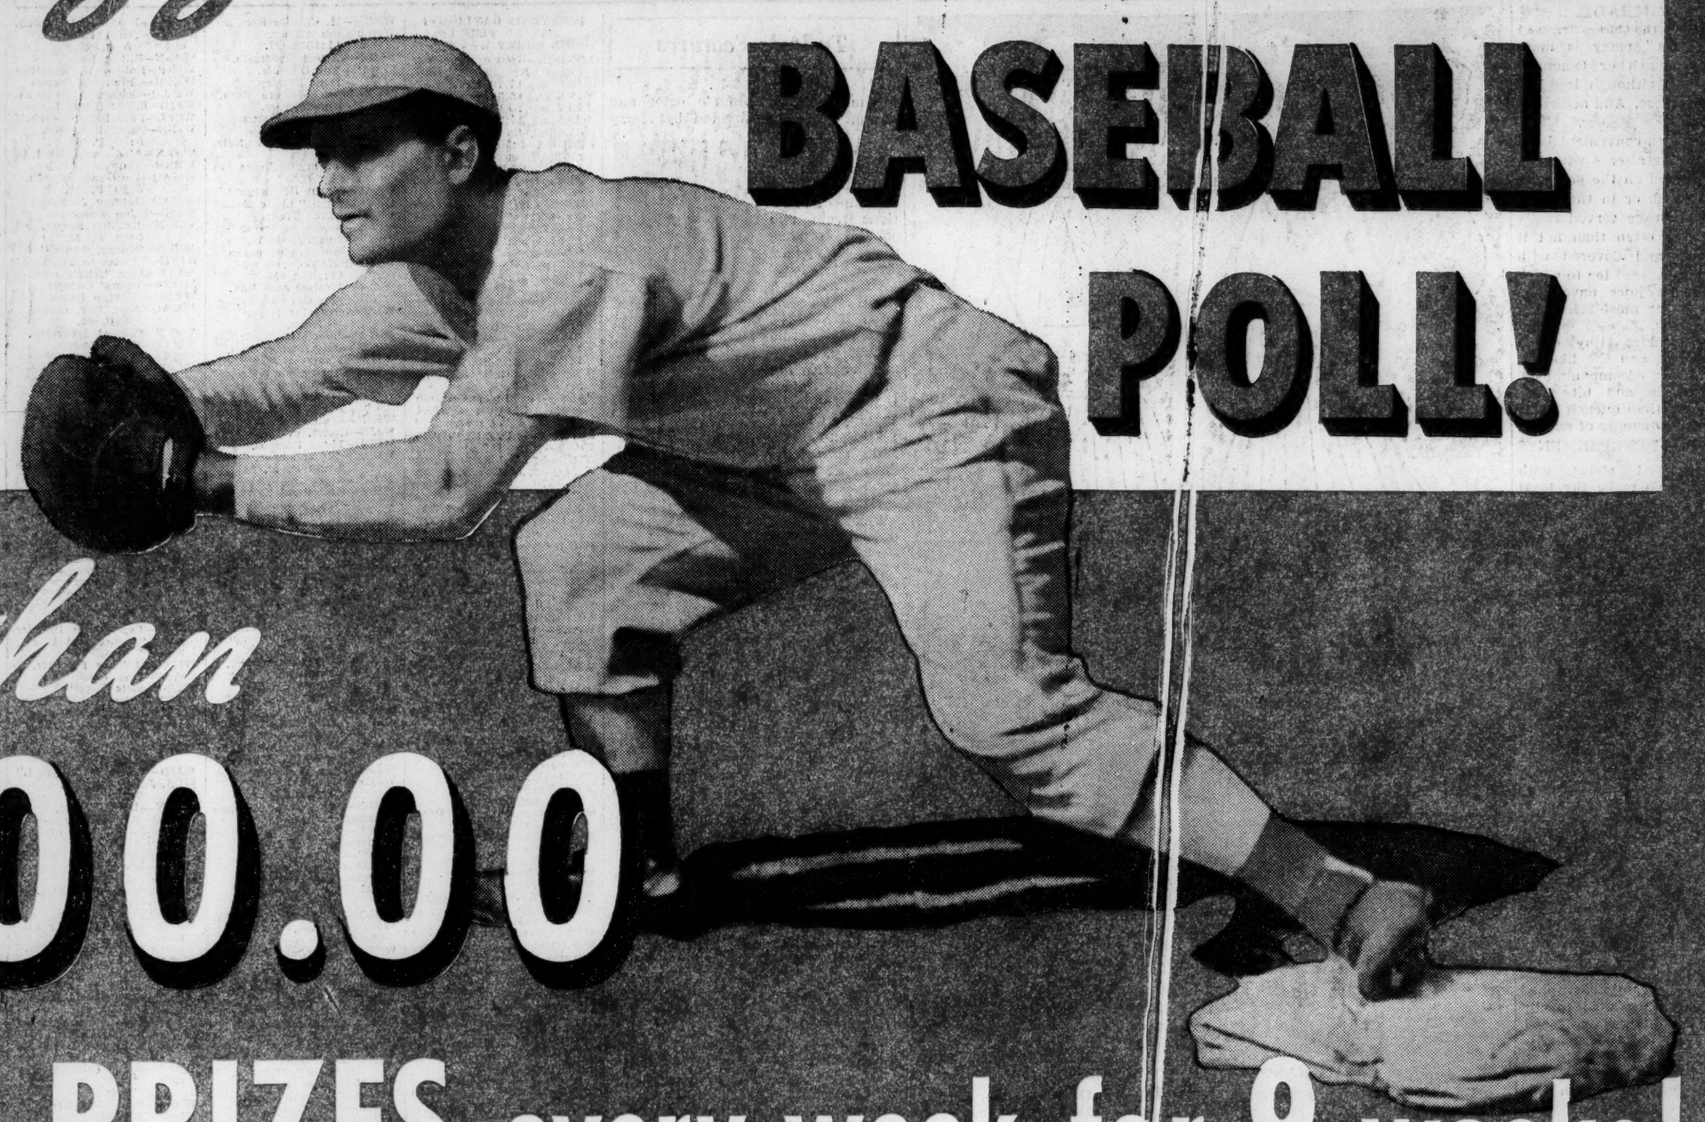
FANS! Vote for your favorite players in

Kellogg's ALL-AMERICAN BASEBALL POLL!



More than $5,000.00 IN CASH PRIZES every week for 9 weeks!

Voting on FIRST BASEMAN starts Sunday! Who's your favorite? Easy to answer. Easy to win! You don't have to be a baseball expert. VOTE EARLY NEXT WEEK!

Who's your favorite First Baseman? Is he in the majors or the minors? Is he a veteran or a rookie? Is he left handed? Does he argue with the umpire? Is he handsome or homely? Is he a home-run king? Or just the kind of ball player you get a kick out of watching and hearing about?

To win new friends, Kellogg wants to give baseball fans a chance to pick their own All-American baseball team. Every week for 9 weeks you have a chance to win part of more than $5000.00 in weekly Cash Prizes by voting for your favorite players in Kellogg's nation-wide All-American Baseball Poll.

Next week, vote for your favorite First Baseman. The following week, for Second Baseman. And so on, until the entire line-up has been decided.

Sounds easy, doesn't it? And it is easy! You don't have to be a baseball expert. Just do this. Get an entry ballot from your grocer. Or write on plain paper. Name your favorite First Baseman. He can be any professional player playing in any league today. Then complete this statement in 30 additional words or less: "I like him because . . .". Fancy writing doesn't count. Just give us your own personal reasons for voting for a particular player.

Send your entry, with the tops from two packages of Kellogg's Corn Flakes, your name and address, and the name and address of your grocer, to the Kellogg All-American Committee, Howard-Clark Building, Chicago, Ill. Further information and complete rules are contained in the official entry ballot, which your grocer will be glad to give you.

The ball player receiving the largest number of votes each week wins a brand new Buick and a position on Kellogg's All-American Team. Each week, fans and grocers share in the big cash prizes as shown at the right. And you don't have to vote for the winning player to receive any one of the awards.

But be sure to vote early next week! Vote as often as you like. Your entries must be postmarked not later than midnight, Saturday, July 23.

Plan to vote every week for the next nine weeks to help put your favorite players on the team! Remember—you have 1,004 chances to win a cash prize every week for nine weeks!

TUNE IN! Every week one of your favorite radio stations will broadcast the ball games you want most to hear, as well as hot news about the Kellogg All-American Baseball Poll. There will also be exciting "Sports Interviews" of all-time baseball heroes by famous sports authorities. Don't miss them! Millions of other fans will be listening.

EARLY BALLOTS INSURE RECORD ALL-STAR POLL

4 Ex-All-American Coaches Vote.

America's football fans are swamping the polls. Voting in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S fifth annual nation-wide contest to select the College All-Star squad which will oppose the world professional champion Washington Redskins on Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 31 will reach a new high if early returns from 150 associated newspapers are an indication.

Tabulators in THE TRIBUNE'S contest department reported yesterday's mail the heaviest opening day return since the All-Star contest was conceived four years ago. Voting will continue for two weeks, after which the coaches' poll will open. All that is necessary if you want to cast a ballot is to send in the names of eleven college football players, one for each position, who completed their collegiate eligibility last fall, to the All-Star editor, care of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Each ballot must bear the signature and address of the sender.

Former All-Star Coaches Vote.

Two former head coaches of All-Star squads, Charles [Gus] Dorais of Detroit and Frank Thomas of Alabama, cast ballots yesterday. Dorais led the All-Stars to their first victory in the series last year when Sammy Baugh's pass to Gaynell Tinsley beat the Green Bay Packers, 6 to 0. Thomas was head coach in 1936 when the Detroit Lions, rallying behind their great quarter back, Earl [Dutch] Clark, scored a touchdown to earn a 7 to 7 tie against the All-Stars.

Dorais named two Notre Dame men and his own sensational ball carrier, Andy Farkas, on the team he would like to see start the game against the Redskins. His selections:

Ends—Charles Sweeney, Notre Dame; Ray King, Minnesota.
Tackles—Ed Franco, Fordham; Buck Mellus, Villanova.
Guards—Gus Zarnas, Ohio State; Joe Routt, Texas A. & M.
Center—Alex Wojciechowicz, Fordham.
Quarter back—Andy Puplis, Notre Dame.
Full back—Corby Davis, Indiana.

Picks Two Big Ten Stars.

Thomas selected two backs from the Big Ten, naming Corby Davis at full back and Don Heap at half back. Like every other coach who has cast a ballot to date and most of the fans whose votes have reached tabulators, Thomas wants Clint Frank, Yale's all round star, in the starting lineup. His team:

Ends—Charley Sweeney, Notre Dame; Perry Schwartz, California.
Tackles—Fred Shirey, Nebraska; Ed Matisi, Pittsburgh.
Guards—Leroy Monsky, Alabama; Gus Zarnas, Ohio State.
Center—Alex Wojciechowicz, Fordham.
Full back—Corby Davis, Indiana.

Three of Four Horsemen Vote.

Three of Notre Dame's famous Four Horsemen, Jimmy Crowley, Harry Stuhldreher, and Elmer Layden, dispatched their ballots to THE TRIBUNE yesterday. Crowley's came from Green Bay, where the Fordham coach is vacationing. Crowley and Layden, now head coach and athletic director at Notre Dame, have been members of the All-Star coaching staf. Crowley assisted Noble Kizer with the first squad in 1934 and Layden helped Bernie Bierman in 1936 and Dorais last year. Both know from experience what it takes to compete with the professional champions. Crowley would open up against the Redskins with the following lineup:

Tackles—Ed Franco, Fordham; Vic Markov, Washington.
Center—Alex Wojciechowicz, Fordham.
Full back—Sam Chapman, California.

PIRATES RALLY IN NINTH TO WIN TWELFTH IN ROW

Make 3 Runs Off of French.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs, much against their wishes, contributed to the perpetuation of the Pittsburgh Pirates' winning streak yesterday. The Pirates, of course, helped themselves some by rallying in the ninth inning when the Cubs were leading, 3 to 2. Three runs against Larry French gave the Pirates a 5 to 3 victory and their twelfth consecutive triumph. It was the Cubs' fifth successive defeat.

The Pirates, often charged with being a listless outfit, did more than battle the Cubs. They also battled Umpire George Barr. A half dozen of them almost pushed the wee guesser out of his clothes in the seventh inning because he called a runner out at the plate. The ruckus resulted in the banishment of Coach Jewel Ens. In the Cubs' half of the inning Catcher Al Todd renewed the warfare by kicking dirt on the plate as fast as Barr could clean it off. So Todd was ordered to leave, but he refused until Umpire George Magerkurth rushed to Barr's defense.

French Wears Down.

French, judging by the way in which the Pirates hit, simply wore himself ragged trying to hold his own in a duel with Bill Swift. Lefty Larry gave up only two hits in the first six innings. In the seventh he yielded three and the Pirates scored once to offset a run picked up by the Cubs in the fourth. Two more hits in the eighth gave the Pirates a one run edge, but the Cubs popped up with a shower in their half and scored a pair, Swift meanwhile vanishing in favor of Jim Tobin. Then French was flogged with four hits in the ninth and the decision was gone.

In another attempt to discover some run producing power, the Cubs employed an entirely new batting front. Jurges was moved into the lead-off rôle. Hack was installed in fifth place. Demaree was dropped to eighth. Galan, out for a long stretch because of a bad knee, was returned to left field despite his ailment. The shifting didn't do much good. Timely hits appeared in only two instances. Reynolds and Hack collaborated for a run in the fourth. In the eighth Herman, O'Dea, and Hack came through for the two runs that had a victory flavor until French went to pieces.

Cubs Take Lead.

The fourth, in which the Cubs developed enough power to get a run, opened with Reynolds lining a single past Swift's ears. O'Dea bunted and was thrown out by Swift. Hack banged a single into center and Reynolds scored. Hack went to second on the throw and to third on Galan's tap to Suhr. Cavarretta was hit by a pitched ball. Then Demaree, who throughout the first three innings was the only Cub unable to hit a ball to the outfield, popped to Suhr.

French disposed of the two Waner boys in the seventh before the Pirates touched off the explosion that produced the tying run and a torrent of abuse for Umpire Barr. Suhr singled to center and stopped at third on Rizzo's double against the left center field wall. Vaughan walked, loading the bases. Todd then singled to center and Suhr scored, but Rizzo was nailed at the plate on Reynolds' throw, arousing the Pirates' ire that resulted in the banishment of Todd and Coach Ens.

With one gone in the eighth, Swift

Moore Leads Pro Qualifiers with 136; Match Play Today

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., July 11.—Frank Moore, 29 year Mamaroneck, N. Y., star, today won the qualifying medal in the 21st annual National Professional Golf tournament at the Shawnee Country club with a 36 hole score of 136. His card was eight strokes under par for the distance and equaled the all-time qualifying record of the tournament set by Fred Morrison of California in the 1929 meet in Los Angeles.

Moore is a comparative newcomer to big time professional golf, having qualified sectionally for only one other P. G. A. national, that being the 1936 at Pinehurst. He has been a contender in the last three national opens.

Stahl Two Strokes Back.

Moore's card left him two shots in front of another dark horse, 28 year old Marvin Stahl of Lansing, Mich., also making his P. G. A. debut, and Harry Nettelbladt of Framingham, Mass. After Stahl had added a 68 to his first round 70 of yesterday, Moore came dashing up with his second 68 of the tournament to take the lead and the medal. Nettelbladt then finished with a 67 to tie Stahl.

The medalist and sixty-three other low scores will set out tomorrow to battle Denny Shute of Boston, the defending champion, who has held the title the last two years. Shute, automatically exempt from the medal play test by reason of his title, yesterday shot a 74, but took a rest today.

Snead Is Close Behind.

Following Moore, Stahl and Nettelbladt home was Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., with a 70 for a total of 139. Tied at 140 were Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa., Ray Mangrum of Pittsburgh, and Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa.

Harry Cooper of Chicago, who led the field through yesterday's first round with a 67, went out through the oppressive heat of the morning and took a 40 on a front nine, but fought back with a great 34 for a 74 and 141. There he was joined by Dick Metz, also of Chicago; Jimmy Thomson of the home club, Ed Dudley of Philadelphia, and Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y.; Ralph Guldahl, national and western open champion from Madison, N. J., equaled the 36 hole par of 144.

Open Match Play Today.

The match play bracket will open tomorrow with two eighteen hole matches, reducing the field of sixty-four qualifiers to sixteen by tomorrow night. These will meet at thirty-six holes daily through Saturday's championship match.

The qualifying limit was 151, with seven players who equaled that figure going into a twilight playoff for the last four places.

The four winners of the playoff were Clarence Clark of Bloomfield, N. J.; Clyde Usina Jr. of Stoneham, Mass.; Errie Ball of University, Va., and John Kinder of Plainfield, N. J. All got their par fours on the first hole, while Charles Sheppard of Alameda, Cal., Al Alcroft of Youngstown, and Maurie O'Connor of Belleville, N. J. needed fives.

Lightspur Gallops to Easy Victory in Arlington Stake

BY FRENCH LANE.

John Marsch of Chicago last night fancied his chances of winning the $50,000 Arlington Futurity this year. He had leaned back comfortably at the fashionable northwest side course yesterday and watched his fast stepping, long striding Lightspur easily conquer a band of Futurity eligibles in the Fort Sheridan purse.

It was a romp for the son of Blue Larkspur-Chicleight, although he raced a bit differently in the Fort Sheridan than he has in some of his previous engagements. Sometimes he quit in the final strides.

He was ridden yesterday by Jocky Basil James. The latter did not permit him to open up the customary long lead of a half dozen lengths, which he could have accomplished easily.

He Might Have Done Better.

James was content to rate him. He made the pace, but all through the early stages he was but a short distance in front of Range Dust, Banner Man, Busy Man, and Stockboard.

When the field hit the turn at the top of the stretch, James still had Lightspur under restraint. He was two length in front. Range Dust from Texas was second and Stockboard from Kentucky was third.

All the others were completely whipped by this time. Lightspur had run the first quarter in :24 2-5, the half in :46 2-5, and could have done better. He rounded out the five furlongs in :59 to enjoy a comfortable lead. He could have gone faster, but there was no need of it.

In the final strides Lightspur drew away steadily and wound up the winner by four lengths with Range Dust second and Stockboard third. The time was 1:06. Lightspur was almost a prohibitive favorite and paid only $3.20.

C.Y.O. PICKS TEAM TO BATTLE IRISH STARS TOMORROW

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Catholic Youth organization's boxing teams have a remarkable seven year record. In that time they have won twenty of their twenty-three intercity and international matches. Three were tied. Tomorrow night, in their second international show, the C. Y. O. boys place this record at stake in ten bouts against the best amateur boxers from Ireland.

The C. Y. O. boxers, chosen by Coaches Paddy Kane and Dick Fitzpatrick, and their Irish foemen were paired as follows for the bouts in Soldiers' field:

Four preliminary bouts will bring together picked C. Y. O. fighters.

Tomorrow night's bouts easily are the most colorful the C. Y. O. has arranged. The Irish team is strong in practically every division and has more experience.

Six Champions Listed.

The C. Y. O. squad includes six of the eight champions in the last C. Y. O. city tournament. Embery Adkins, light heavyweight champion, was displaced when Cornelius Young, 1938 Golden Gloves middleweight champion, moved up to that weight. Curtis McDaniel, 1938 middleweight champion, was displaced by Chester Rutecki, C. Y. O. veteran, who also has been named to captain the local squad.

Rutecki, 21 years old, nas been boxing since 1933, when he won the C. Y. O. novice title and then advanced to the open division and won that championship. He was the 147 pound champion in 1936 in the Golden Gloves tournament, won a place on the United States Olympic boxing team, and reached the quarter-finals of the Olympic tournament in Berlin.

You'll Remember These.

Three of the C. Y. O. boys won Golden Gloves championships last March, Kainrath, O'Malley, and Young.

Jimmy O'Malley, in the 147 pound class, is seeking to regain prestige lost when he was knocked out two months ago by Antoni Kolczynski of Poland.

DIZZY EXPECTS TO LEND HAND WITHIN 10 DAYS

Dizzy Dean, the famous $185,000 cripple, is going to pitch. His vacation, which started May 4 and during which he has been given more attention than a sacred white elephant, is a thing of the past.

This was the decision reached yesterday when Manager Charley Grimm and P. K. Wrigley, the Cub owner, conferred on how to get out of the embarrassing situation which resulted from the purchase of the wonder man from the Cardinals in mid-April. It was a sort of compromise verdict between retiring the costly chattel for the season or permitting him to continue on an unproductive basis.

Allowed Ten Days.

Grimm, who for several weeks had indicated by his actions that he was more or less out of patience over Dean's infirmities, real or alleged, immediately announced that the prize invalid will be given a week or ten days in which to toughen up his arm.

If after he has pitched Dean develops fresh ailments, the ailing arm will be placed in a cast which will restrict its movements and he'll be retired for the season. Dr. Hub Pruett, the former Browns' southpaw, placed the arm in a cast last winter, advising that it remain there for five weeks. After two weeks Diz removed the harness and started throwing.

Dizzy Welcomes Order.

As soon as Dizzy heard what was to be done, he went to work on about fifteen minutes of serious throwing, which he will continue daily. He said, of course, his arm is perfect and that he could pitch today if permitted. But Grimm finally has become boss man in the case, and he'll issue all future orders.

TUNNEY TELLS FIGHT FANS WHO WON AND WHY!

New Haven, Conn., July 11.—(AP)—Referee Gene Tunney gave George Fitch, New Haven colored light heavyweight, a ten round decision over Steve Carr of Meriden tonight and talked to the crowd of 4,500 fans for two minutes explaining why.

The former world's heavyweight champion said he would like to call the bout a draw, but that Connecticut boxing rules forced him to be governed by his round by round point scoring, which gave Fitch a 44 to 34 edge.

He gave Fitch five rounds, Carr three, and called two even.

"And if anybody disagrees I will challenge him," Tunney said.

PAST WINNERS IN TRIBUNE'S SWIM DERBIES ADVANCE

All Qualifiers to Receive Gold Badges.

Any swimmer who has won a championship in the annual 100 yard free style swimming races sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., may compete again this year, but he or she must enter in the next higher age classification.

This is the only restriction other than that all swimmers must be amateurs and those 16 and over must register with the Central association of the A. A. U. This ruling automatically bars the two champions each year in class E for boys and girls 19 years old and over. The other champions may enter, but they must compete in an older age division, regardless of their ages.

Register on Day of Reporting.

Swimmers under 16 years old do not register with the A. A. U. Others must register and this can be done on the day they report for trials in the preliminaries, which will be held in four pools on July 23 and 24. A. A. U. clerks will be on hand to register entrants for these races and the registration fee will be paid by THE TRIBUNE. Since there is no other fee, the most it can cost to enter the 100 yard races is the postage to submit an entry.

Entries must be mailed before midnight Monday. No swimmer will be permitted to compete who does not follow this instruction and who does not receive a postcard of acceptance from THE TRIBUNE.

The committee in charge of entries urges that those in charge of teams from the park pools, the beaches, Y. M. C. A., and high schools and clubs, send in their lists as soon as possible to make the work of forwarding acceptance cards easier. These will be sent as soon as possible and the last of them must be mailed not later than a week from Thursday so that contestants will have them in time to report at Cermak pool, Sherman park, California park, and Whealan pool.

Qualifiers Receive Badges.

The names of the qualifiers in these four section meets [each of these swimmers will receive a gold qualifying badge] will be printed in the program for the championship races on July 31 in the Diversey beach lagoon, Lincoln park.

These programs will be distributed without charge to the crowd. With at least 160 qualifiers in the finals, there will be thirty races that afternoon, two semi-finals in each of the ten age divisions, and the ten championship events.

Warren Wright's consistent sprinter, Talked About, finally tried to pick up too much of a weight package yesterday. With 119 pounds on his back he again was made the favorite and turned in a creditable performance. But he could not give the fleet Silverette 11 pounds and a beating.

Runs Second All the Way.

The result was that Silverette, ridden by Jocky C. Perkins, was in front from end to end and Talked About was second all the way. Millie M. finished third. Talked About made a game challenge half way down the stretch but the weight impost was too much for him. He had nothing left after the challenge. Silverette won by a length and a quarter. She paid $11.20.

She skipped the six furlongs in 1:11, one of the fastest races at that distance run this year in Chicago.

There's No Set Time for Bass, Trout to Strike

BY BOB BECKER.

The manner in which trout and black bass will go on a feeding schedule for a few hours, eagerly swat lures, and generally show that they are active always has been to us one of the most intriguing factors in fishing. And it is evident that just as fish will show a lot of activity for a short time to give a fellow a lot of fun, so they also will refuse to hit anything, utterly ignoring every kind of live or artificial lure.

On our recent trip to Forest county, Wisconsin, where we fished for both trout and black bass, we again were impressed by these obvious characteristics of fresh water game fish.

And Still They Hit!

We were fishing the Peshtigo river one day with Dr. E. Ovitz of Laona and Paul H. Davis of Kenilworth, Ill. The temperature was in the 90's, the sun about as bright and hot as one ever will see it during midsummer and there was absolutely no wind. Under such conditions one wouldn't expect a trout to do anything but remain quiet way down deep in a pool. Yet for something like an hour on this hot, breathless day the trout were rising and feeding as if it were around 8 o'clock in the evening.

Two days later we went out on a bass lake around 3:25 in the afternoon. It again was hot and bright with a very light breeze blowing. Compared to the quiet evening sunset hours when the fish are apt to start feeding, this afternoon fishing period in the sun looked rather hopeless.

Sun or Not, They Bite.

But sun or no sun, the fish had a feeding period. We had three hits from bass and crappies—big ones—around 3:30 p. m. A couple of minutes later we set the hook [with our fly rod] into some fish that just ran away with everything. At 4 o'clock Davis and Joe Sturzel joined us on the bar for the fishing. We registered seven strikes between 4 p. m. and 4:15 and caught some dandy bass.

Silverstein Pins Mansor; Stecklin Defeats Meeker

Ruffy Silverstein tossed George Mansor after twenty-seven minutes of wrestling last night in White City. Lem Stecklin used a body slam to beat Jerry Meeker in nineteen minutes and three seconds in the second half of the double windup. Ralph Garibaldi and Rudy Kay wrestled to a thirty minute draw, Stanley Pulaski tossed Phil Malloy, 16:38, and Jimmy Heffner pinned Kid Chapman, 15:02.

Time, :23 1-5, :46 3-5, 1:12 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Mohac, $7.80 straight, $5.20 place, $3.40 show; Grey Squaw, $18.80 place, $12.20 show; Gray Ethel, $7.40 show. Winner trained by L. Copenhaver. Went to post at 2:16½. At post 1 minute. Start good from Bahr gate. Won easily; place driving.

MOHAC forced the early pace under restraint, took command when called upon and continued to draw out when again under restraint in the last eighth. GREY SQUAW, on inside throughout, had speed from the start, readily gave way to the winner, yet only weakened in the final sixteenth. GRAY ETHEL, forced to race wide throughout, closed resolutely in her good effort.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Time, :23. :46 2-5, 1:12 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Par Queen, $17.60 straight, $11.40 place, $6.40 show; Happy Helen, $12.00 place, $10.40 show; Chinese Indian, $10.40 show. Daily double paid $121.20. Winner trained by A. F. Lloyd. Went to post at 2:48. At post 1 minute. Start good from Bahr gate. Won ridden out; place driving.

PAR QUEEN, lightly shaken up several times while making the early pace, increased her advantage under greater pressure after reaching the final quarter and weakened in the late stages but held HAPPY HELEN safe. Latter, away slowly and badly outrun the first half, was in a rush with the inside three. CHINESE INDIAN also sluggish in early part, came to the outside in stretch and, rallying to strong urging, overtook OUR DAVID in the closing strides.

THIRD RACE—Seven furlongs, out of chute. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Weather cloudy; track still fast.

Time, :23, :46, 1:12, 1:25 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Woodsia, $12.80 straight, $6.40 place, $4.20 show; Chubbins, $5.40 place, $4.00 show; Dusky Maid, $4.40 show. Winner trained by J. G. Goode. Went to post at 3:19. At post 1 minute. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving; place same.

WOODSIA worked her way up fast in the first quarter, secured room on the inside when taking the lead, swerved out slightly when entering the stretch and stood mild pressure gamely the last three-sixteenths, but just lasted. CHUBBINS had speed from the start, drifted out slightly when approaching the turn, also held on with determination in the drive and barely missed getting up. DUSKY MAID began to move up after about three-eighths but hung in the late stages.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Time, :23, :47, :59 3-5, 1:06 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Wiskover, $7.40 straight, $4.20 place, $3.40 show; Blue Su, $4.80 place, $4.20 show; Lagata, $4.80 show. Winner trained by V. Porter. Went to post at 3:46. At post 1 minute. Start good from gate. Won driving; place same.

WISKOVER, a sharp factor from the start and benefitted by strong handling, raced very wide on the turn, took command quickly and under stout pressure when straight in the stretch was ridden out. BLUE SU had speed from start, saved considerable ground and held on courageously. LAGATA, away slowly and badly outrun for almost a half mile, came with fine belated speed and on the outside thereafter.

FIFTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

*J. Klein, Mrs. E. Marsch, and John Marsch entry. Time, :22 4-5, :46 2-5, :59, 1:06. Two dollar mutuels paid: Light Spur, $3.20 straight, $2.20 place, $2.20 show; Range Dust, $3.80 place, $2.80 show; Stockboard, $3.40 show. Winner trained by R. Goose. Went to post at 4:13. At post 1 minute. Start good from gate. Won easily; place driving.

LIGHT SPUR, away fast and taken to the inside before reaching the turn, responded to a brisk rousing when entering the stretch and, taken in hand in the final eighth, won with something left. RANGE DUST appeared nicely in hand for about three-eighths, failed to rally when called upon, yet held on in determined fashion. STOCKBOARD, well up from the start, also went in resolute fashion in the drive.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Claiming. Four year olds and up. Purse $1,200. Net value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50.

SILVERETTE, away in motion, was taken to the inside after gradually increasing her advantage throughout the first quarter, continued strongly under a light hold on the turn, but weakened after sustaining keen speed to the last sixteenth, yet held TALKED ABOUT safe. MILLIE M. lucky to keep up when between horses the first three-eighths, saved ground on the stretch turn and closed well.

SEVENTH RACE—Six furlongs. Allowances. Four year olds and up. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

With a prize listed for every golfer who competes and remains for dinner, more than 200 members of Medinah temple are expected to start tomorrow in the Shiners' midsummer golf tournament at Olympia fields. The feature event will be an eighteen hole handicap. Trophies will go to contestants with low gross and net scores in each of three flights. Prizes also will be awarded to the winner of each foursome. Case L. Griffis is chairman of the tournament committee.

Dean Hole won the advertising men's trophy with a low net score of 68 at Rolling Green Country club yesterday. C. K. Royce won the blind bogey event with 87. David Decker had 80 for low gross. J. J. Sullivan and Mel Miles also won prizes.

DODGERS ACQUIRE WYATT, CAMPBELL AND STAINBACK

New York, July 11.—[Special.]—The Brooklyn Dodgers today acquired Catcher Gilly Campbell from Montreal, Outfielder Tuck Stainback from the Phillies and Pitcher Whitlow Wyatt from Milwaukee.

For Campbell the Dodgers are parting with Paul Chervinko, third string catcher, and Art Parks, a third baseman who has been with Nashville. Stainback comes to Brooklyn in exchange for Gibby Brack. Wyatt will not report until some time after Labor day, unless Milwaukee drops out of contention in the American association race. Wyatt cost Brooklyn $20,000 and two players.

MOON MULLINS—KAYO'S NO LONGER DARK AND HANDSOME

WHY CAN'T I GO OVER TO DOTTY'S? THEY INVITED ME.
LOOKING LIKE THAT—I SHOULD SAY NOT! YOU MARCH RIGHT BACK HERE
MY STARS! YOU LOOKED SO CRUMMY, IT'S A WONDER THE SPARROWS DIDN'T GET YOU A PAIN IN TH' NECK, I CALLS HER.
WHY, KAYO, HOW PALE YOU ARE, DARLING—AREN'T YOU WELL?
YEH—I'M OKAY. EMMY WASHED ME THIS MORNING.

DICK TRACY—Great Mind

SO YOU'RE A DETECTIVE—AND YOU'RE TRYING TO RUN DOWN A RING OF FREIGHT CAR THIEVES, EH?
YES, SIR, I MEAN—YES M'AM—I MEAN—
NOW THAT FINGER—YOU SAY IT CAME FROM A THIEF—HOW DO YOU KNOW HE WAS A THIEF?
I MADE A RAPID FIRE DEDUCTION ONE NIGHT—RIGHT AFTER I SAW HIM BREAK THE SEAL ON A FREIGHT CAR, GO INSIDE AND TAKE OUT ABOUT 200 SMOKED HAMS—WHICH HE PUT INTO A TRUCK.
OF COURSE A DEDUCTION LIKE THAT—IS—RATHER A LONG SHOT CHANCE—BUT I BELIEVE YOU WERE FAIRLY SAFE IN YOUR CONCLUSION.
THANK YOU, SIR. IT MAKES ME HAPPY TO KNOW THAT YOUR THOUGHT COINCIDES WITH MINE.

Sarazen, Once a Caddy, Leads Match Players

[This is the first of a series of sketches on leading players in the second annual Chicago open golf tournament to be played at Olympia Fields July 22, 23 and 24.]

Gene Sarazen, who has made himself one of the immortals of golf since he won his first national open championship at Skokie in 1922, will begin defense of his Chicago open title at Olympia Fields one week from Friday. Sarazen was born at Harrison, N. Y., on Feb. 27, 1902, in a section which produced caddies who later became champions.

The stocky little Italian is ranked one of the game's greatest competitors. He has won the national open twice, in 1922 with a finishing round of 68 at Skokie and in 1932 with a final 66 at Fresh Meadow. He has held the National P. G. A. crown three times—1922, 1923, and 1933—ranking second only to Walter Hagen in the number of victories in this match play event.

He won the British open of 1932 to match his American open of that year and thus further prove his medal play ability. Among other tournament victories Sarazen has scored was that which brought him first prize of $10,000 in the richest golf meet ever held—the $25,000 Agua Caliente tourney of 1928.

Gene in 1935 fired the historic double eagle which enabled him to tie Craig Wood, whom he later defeated to win the masters' tournament at Augusta. He has been a mainstay of the American Ryder cup team since it was first named. Last year he won the Chicago open at Medinah with a seventy-two hole score of 290.

Strong Field Sets Out for Western Title

Notre Dame, Ind., July 11.—[Special.]—With the addition today of some of amateur golf's best known names, the field in the 39th annual Western Amateur golf tournament awaited the morrow and the first of two eighteen hole qualifying rounds.

Two former champions, Gus Moreland and Paul Leslie, were among today's entrants, which swelled the total to 151 names. Moreland won in Rockford in 1932. Leslie, former national intercollegiate runner-up, won the Western in 1936.

Walter Emery, 1933 national intercollegiate champion, playing for the University of Oklahoma, present Oklahoma state champion, and Don Cooprider, Indianapolis, former Indiana state junior champion, are the other late entrants. The field contains golfers from seventeen states, including twelve state champions.

Western Golf association officials toured the Chain o' Lakes layout this afternoon with Greenkeeper Jake Kohn, designating where the cups would be placed for tomorrow's round. More than 100 entrants played the course yesterday and today and no one broke par.

PLAY FIVE GAMES TONIGHT IN LOOP HOTEL SOFTBALL

The Loop Hotel league will be active tonight in Grant Park Softball association competition, three games being scheduled in bracket No. 1 and two in bracket No. 2.

The Stevens and Allertons will play for undisputed possession of second place in No. 1, while Bismarck, which leads this bracket with six victories and two defeats, engages Congress. Leading contest in No. 2 finds La Salle defending its undefeated record against Morrison.

Three games are scheduled tomorrow night in the close Central Y Commercial league race. Carson Pirie leads with eight victories and one loss, but may have its advantage cut when it meets Commonwealth Edison, which is tied with Lyttons at seven and three for second place.

BUDGE'S ARRIVAL STARTS TROUBLE IN JUGO-SLAVIA

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, July 11.—(AP)—Don Budge and Gene Mako, the American tennis stars, came to Jugo-Slavia today for a little exhibition tennis—and immediately found themselves unwilling principals in a Serb-Croat quarrel.

They were scheduled to meet the Jugo-Slav stars, Franz Kukujevic and Ferenc Puncec, tomorrow, but tonight nobody was certain whether the match would be in Zagreb or Belgrade.

Zagreb is a Croat metropolis, more than 200 miles from Belgrade, the seat of government and of most major sports. Both are cities of the Serb-Croat-Slovene kingdom.

Tennis associations of both cities went ahead selling tickets for the match and issuing angry statements over which was entitled to it. There were refusals to arbitrate.

Belgrade even went to the expense of building additional seats around its courts, naming them Budge stand.

TURIELLO WINS ANOTHER FIGHT FROM MILT ARON

Saverio Turiello, Italian welterweight, last night, for the second straight time, defeated Milt Aron in a ten round contest in Marigold Gardens. Aron suffered two knockdowns, one in the first round for no count and the other in the fourth for a six count.

HERE'S A LIST TO HELP YOU PICK ALL-STAR TEAM

Remember these stars? They are among the players who completed their college careers last fall and are eligible for the All-Star team which will play the Washington Redskin in Soldiers' field Aug. 31. You may vote for any player who falls in this classification whether his name appears in this list or not. Send your selections to All-Star Game Editor, Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

An Extra Pale-Extra Dry Beer
Meister Bräu PILSNER
Champagne-like in Color and Brilliance

By RICHARD SEIBOLD, Meister Bräu Brewmaster

DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK
if you don't think it equals 50¢ Imported Beers

FOR a long time I've noticed that some people spend as much as 50¢ for a bottle of imported Pilsner. I felt that we could make as good a Pilsner here at the Meister Bräu brewery, and save folks a lot of money.

So I spent a whole year experimenting . . . making up small batches of beer and testing them out among my friends. Finally we developed an exclusive formula which makes the most delicious pale dry beer you've ever tasted. And now we're ready to supply this new treat to all our friends.

We're so sure you will like this new Meister Bräu Pilsner that we make this startling offer. Drink a bottle. Then if you don't think it equals 50¢ imported beers we'll give you DOUBLE the amount you paid!

We can afford to make this amazing offer because we know you'll rave about our Pilsner . . . and tell your friends. It has the color and brilliance of champagne. It is extra-dry, extra-pale . . . outstanding in flavor. And instead of 50¢ a bottle you pay only 15¢—or two for 25¢!

Please try this delicious new Pilsner . . . any dealer who handles Meister Bräu Beer can supply you. And remember . . . DOUBLE YOUR MONEY back if you are not delighted.

LOANS BY BANKS TO BUSINESS MEN DWINDLE IN WEEK

Brokers' Borrowings Rise Nine Million.

Loans made to business by the banks that belong to the federal reserve system decreased 56 million dollars in the week ended July 6. This information was contained in the weekly report issued yesterday by the federal reserve board on the condition of the member banks in 101 leading cities.

Prior to the week ended June 29 loans made by the member banks of the federal reserve system had declined for twenty-one weeks without interruption. Last week's sharp decline of 56 million dollars may have been the result in part of the Fourth of July holiday, which reduced the need of business for loans. Also it may have been caused partly by a summer slackening in business.

Brokers' Loans Rise.

Reflecting the increased business in the stock market, loans made by the member banks to brokers and dealers in securities showed a small gain of 9 million dollars. Brokers' loans outstanding June 29 totaled only 661 million dollars.

Bank holdings of direct obligations of the United States government declined 39 millions from the week ended June 29 to a total of 7 billion 731 million. On the other hand, holdings of obligations fully guaranteed by the government increased 7 millions to 1 billion 495 million.

Comparative Figures.

Following are comparisons of the principal assets and liabilities of the weekly reporting member banks of the federal reserve system at the close of business Wednesday (last 6 ciphers omitted):

BIG WHEAT CROP FORECAST; AAA TO ASK SLASH

Revolt Among Grain Growers Feared.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 11.—The second largest wheat crop in American history was forecast for this year by the department of agriculture today.

Secretary Wallace has new insurance program.

In its first general crop estimate of the year, the department predicted a wheat crop of 967,412,000 bushels, largest since the record crop of 1915. A sharp slash in acreage to be planted to wheat must be called for by the Agricultural Adjustment administration as a result. Acreage cuts, plus wheat loans, are now automatic and mandatory under the new farm act, congress having directed that loans be made to farmers who comply with acreage allotments if the July 1 wheat estimate is above 750,000,000 bushels.

Growers Oppose Crop Cuts.

Similar cuts in acreage aroused a revolt among corn, cotton, and tobacco growers last spring. There was much speculation concerning whether wheat farmers would also rebel when forced to comply with the new acreage allotments.

The department predicted a corn crop of 2,482,102,000 bushels, an oats production of 1,093,829,000 bushels, a barley crop of 239,375,000 bushels, and a rye crop of 51,327,000 bushels.

Tobacco production was forecast at 1,496,000,000 pounds and rice production at 53,330,000 bushels. The report indicated that most crops, with the exception of wheat, were slightly under last year's figures, but well above the ten year acreage for the years 1927-1936.

Winter Wheat Crop Larger.

The indicated production of winter wheat is 715,425,000 bushels, the crop reporting board said, compared with 685,102,000 bushels produced last year and the 10 year [1927-1936] average of 546,396,000 bushels. The acreage of winter wheat harvested or about to be harvested is estimated at 49,915,000 acres, compared with 46,946,000 acres harvested in 1937.

Spring wheat production is estimated by the board at 251,987,000 bushels, compared with 188,891,000 bushels last year. The acreage for spring wheat for harvest in 1938 is estimated at 21,154,000 acres, compared with 17,514,000 acres last year.

Thus, a wheat crop from 71,069,000 acres is indicated with an estimated yield per acre of 13.6 bushels. There is a carryover of 59,258,000 bushels of wheat from last year, which added to the 967,412,000 bushels this year will make a total of more than one billion bushels on hand.

Large Surplus Forecast.

Inasmuch as the normal national consumption is about 750,000,000 bushels, there will be an indicated surplus this year of 276,670,000 million bushels.

With the new farm act providing for announcement of the 1939 wheat program by July 15, AAA officials face the task of reducing planting to perhaps as low as 50,000,000 acres this fall and next spring to prevent another addition to the price depressing surplus and to use part of the heavy carryover in prospect.

What the wheat farmers of the nation will say when told to reduce their acreage by 20,000,000 acres or more remains the important question. Growers have the option of complying with or rejecting the allotments, but only those who comply will be eligible for maximum benefit payments and wheat loans.

AAA Propagandizes Farmers.

The AAA has been working strenuously in the wheat belt, conferring with farmers and propagandizing for the farm program, in an attempt to prevent in the wheat section a repetition of the wave of resentment that followed announcement of allotments to corn, cotton, and tobacco raisers.

AAA officials minimized the likelihood of a revolt in the nation's bread basket. They said wheat farmers would realize it was a question of a large crop with small prices or a smaller crop at more favorable prices.

The farm act provides for generous wheat loans to those complying with acreage allotments. When the crop goes above the normal consumption of the country or the price drops below 52 per cent of the parity price, fixed at $1.15 a bushel, the loans are to be made. They may be fixed to return the grower 52 to 75 per cent of the parity price.

Plan Wheat Insurance Program.

In addition to acreage reduction and wheat loan projects Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has a new wheat insurance program to carry out. This program is expected to take 50,000,000 bushels out of the market, by farmers paying their insurance premiums in grain, as the law permits.

Insurance is provided against

Wheat Firmer; Crop Damage Is Indicated

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$0.72½	$0.72	$1.21¼
Corn	.59¾	.59¼	1.12
Oats	.26½	.26¼	.37
Rye	.52¼	.52¼	.85¼
*Soy beans	.84	.84	1.16½

*October delivery.

North American wheat markets made a rather feeble response yesterday to reports indicating the possibility of damage to the spring sown crop in the Dakotas, Minnesota, and the Canadian northwest. A decline of 1½ cents a bushel in the early trading on selling induced by large receipts of cash wheat at terminal markets, weakness in securities and a lack of export demand was followed by a rally.

Early losses were more than recovered. Wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade closed at net gains of ½ to ¾ cent a bushel. Winnipeg prices were as much as 2⅞ cents higher.

Corn Crop Less Favorable.

Reports indicating that the general condition of the new corn crop is not as favorable as it was at this season last year, combined with export sales of 500,000 bushels, lifted the price of futures ⅛ to ½ cen.. Price changes in oats, rye, and soy beans were small.

A number of professional traders who sold wheat futures early yesterday were said to have covered their short sales later, fearing the government crop estimate to be issued after the close might indicate a smaller prospective spring wheat crop than anticipated. Hedging sales were a factor in extending the early decline.

Approximately 10,000,000 bushels of cash wheat were received yesterday at the primary and five interior southwestern markets, including 991 cars, or nearly 1,500,000 bushels, at Chicago.

Chicago Wheat Receipts Large.

The Chicago receipts were the largest, with one exception, in more than four years. Kansas City received 2,421 cars, practically all of which were sold before noon.

A belief that the department of agriculture will announce the basis for wheat loans soon after issuance of the July 1 crop report has a tendency to decrease pressure on American markets. Millions of bushels from the 1938 crop have been shipped by farmers to terminal markets in the last four weeks in anticipation that the loan level would be higher than could be secured in the open market. This applies particularly to the southwest.

Food Cost Index Up; Vegetables Chief Cause

Washington, D. C., July 11.—[Special.]—Retail prices of food advanced in the month ended June 14, the bureau of labor statistics announced today. The bureau's index, based on the 1923-'25 average was 80.2 compared with 79.1 May 17, and 86.3 June 15, 1937. The increase was due chiefly to a sharp rise in the prices of certain fresh fruits and vegetabels Meat costs reached the highest level yet this year, and eggs advanced seasonally.

U. S. Finds Borrowing Cost Higher; 10 Cents on $1,000

Washington, D. C., July 11.—(AP)—The treasury borrowed $1,000,000 on 92-day bills today at an average cost of 10 cents per $1,000. This compared with 6 cents in the preceeding week and 3 cents two weeks ago. Today's discount rate was equivalent to borrowing money at 0.038 per cent.

BRITISH POUND DROPS ON TALK OF RESTORING OLD RATIO TO DOLLAR

British money yesterday was the cheapest in terms of American money in more than a year. The pound sterling declined in foreign exchange markets on rumors that it will be restored to its old relationship to the dollar—between $4.86 and $4.87—if a trade agreement is signed by the United States and Great Britain. The pound closed yesterday in New York at $4.92⅞, off ¾ of a cent.

Selling of other European currencies was caused by weakness in the pound. The Netherlands guilder closed 0.12 cent lower, at 55.03 cents, in one of the day's sharpest setbacks. The French franc dipped 0.00¾ of a cent, finishing at 2.76 cents, near the record low level established last spring.

In Washington, Secretary of State Hull would not say whether the contemplated trade agreement with Great Britain would be accompanied by an understanding on the dollar-pound ratio. He referred such inquiries to the treasury.

MEXICAN LABOR TAKES OVER FIVE AMERICAN MINES

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, July 11.—[Special.]—Five United States owned mines are among fifteen such properties recently taken over for operation by Mexican labor unions, it was disclosed today.

A bill was introduced into the Mexican senate to exempt workers in "cooperatives" from paying taxes at a time when union sabotage and unfavorable operating conditions are tightening the "squeeze" on foreign owned mines in Mexico.

Endangered but not yet taken over is the Real del Monte mine of the United States Smelting company. The Real del Monte is the largest single silver producing unit in Mexico.

The five United States mines recently taken over are the Amparo in the state of Jalisco; the Espada, in Jalisco; the Promotorio in the state of Durango; the Naica in the state of Chihuahua, and the Michapa in the state of Sonora.

In addition, two British owned mines, the Dos Carlos in Hidalgo and another in the state of Zacatecas, and one French mine have been transferred to labor control.

Steel Output Rises Sharply After Holiday

Production of steel this week is scheduled to rise sharply to 32.3 per cent of the industry's capacity, the American Iron and Steel institute estimated yesterday. This will be the highest output for any week since April 18, institute authorities said.

The increase is a gain of 9.9 points over the preceding week, when ingot production dropped to a low of 22.4 per cent of mill capacity because of the independence day shutdown. Two weeks ago production stood at 28.7 per cent of capacity, and a month ago the rate was 27.1 per cent.

Gain More than Seasonal.

The rebound was said in trade circles to have been substantially larger than a normal seasonal recovery from the holiday week. This was the result largely of further clarification of the new pricing policy instituted two weeks ago by the industry.

In 1937 steel production in the week following that which included the July 4 holiday jumped to 82.7 per cent, a gain of 14.5 points.

Chicago manufacturers asserted yesterday that, although the recent improvement in steel demand has created better sentiment, thus far there are no grounds to warant any real optimism regarding prospects for coming months.

Gradual Upturn Expected.

A gradual upturn is expected, they said, but no predictions were ventured as to what the next few weeks will bring.

One important local producer reported yesterday that sales last week increased 15 per cent over the preceding week, and were the largest for any week since April.

Generally, production in the Chicago steel district will be the heaviest this week for any week since mid-November, last year, except for the last week of March.

Autoists Pay 100 Million Annually to Park Cars

American motorists pay nearly $100,000,000 annually to park their cars, Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, said yesterday. This does not include garage rental. Most of the total, Hayes said, goes to parking lots and parking garages, whose annual receipts amount to about $70,000,000. The rest goes to parking meters, Hayes said.

Guard Today's Precious Profits

Shrewd, careful management is needed to make business profitable under present conditions. One sizeable credit loss may change the figures from black to red. And fear of further losses might cause you to turn down desirable business with good, potential profits.

You insure your profits, your capital, your ease of mind when you cover your sales with

American Credit Insurance

A policyholder (name on request), reimbursed for a $7,600 loss, writes: "This account was a sizeable one with whom we had been doing business for several years. They always had discounted their bills, had never been in arrears with us . . . This experience has proved to us that the average manufacturer cannot afford to take the risk on any account."

Debtors may default—"American" will not. All goods sold under the terms of the policy will be paid for. You are promptly reimbursed for losses through insolvencies and "77-B" reorganizations. Delinquencies are also liquidated.

COAL MEN FIGHT GAS PIPE LINE LOAN BY RFC

Declare Plan Will Injure Industry.

Washington, D. C., July 11.—[Special.]—An indication that coal interests will resist efforts of their natural gas rivals to get the help of federal money came to light here today. The prospect developed as Allen V. Junkin, a St. Paul, Minn., attorney, made public plans to ask the Reconstruction Finance corporation for a loan of $20,000,000 to finance the construction of a natural gas pipe line from southwestern Kansas to the Mesaba iron range in northern Minnesota.

John D. Battle asks unions to protest.

News of the plan had been received earlier in the coal industry, and protests were received by the RFC today from the coal mine owners and the National Coal association. These declared that if the pipe line is built many coal miners and others employed in the industry will lose work.

Urge Gas Be Put to Use.

Junkin declared he represented a number of natural gas and industrial interests which are anxious to have the natural gas by-product of the Kansas petroleum fields put to use. The United States Steel corporation owns huge iron ore mines and reserves in the Mesaba range.

One of the companies interested in the venture, Junkins said, is the Kansas Pipe Line and Gas company of Phillipsburg, Kas. He said he is not yet ready to discuss details of the proposal but asserted that industrialists engaged in developing the big iron ore deposits are anxious to have the natural gas piped in to the scene of their operations.

John D. Battle, secretary of the National Coal association, told the RFC that he has asked locals of the United Mine Workers to send protests directly to the RFC.

Charges Jobs Will Be Lost.

Battle declared that the Junkin interests propose to sell natural gas in Kansas, Nebraska, North and South Dakota and in other sections of Minnesota besides the Mesaba country. This, he declared, would cut into coal production at the mines and reduce employment for the coal miners.

Clare L. Wildner, executive secretary of the chamber of commerce at Superior, Wis., has told Senator Duffy [D., Wis.] that if the plan is carried out the employment of many hundreds of men working at the head of the Great Lakes will be endangered.

Jesse Jones, chairman of the RFC, said protests will be laid before the RFC board.

INSULL TRUST TO MAKE NOTE PAYMENT SOON

Payment of $918,365 to noteholders of the Corporation Securities company of Chicago, bankrupt Insull investment company, should be started within 30 days, Garfield Charles, special referee in bankruptcy, said yesterday. Charles has been holding hearings on contested claims against the company.

The actual payments will be made by Sam Howard, trustee of the bankrupt company. Charles passes on the claims and when he certifies them to Howard the money will be paid out. The payments soon to be made will represent 4⅝ per cent of the claims of the noteholders, which amount to approximately $19,000,000.

Short Interest in Each Stock Is Disclosed for First Time

New York, July 11.—(AP)—Disclosing for the first time in history the extent of the short interest in individual stocks the New York Stock exchange today reported a total short account of 1,050,164 shares as of June 30, compared with 1,343,573 shares at the end of May.

A cross section view of the short position in leading stocks indicated the short sellers covered their contracts actively during June, the latter part of which witnessed sharply rising prices.

Short 69,300 U. S. Steel.

In United States Steel stock the short account at the close of June was 69,300 shares against 86,548 shares at the end of May; General Motors 41,057 against 68,987; General Electric 27,223 against 46,182; Chrysler 99,290 against 102,051, and Westinghouse 30,990 against 40,832.

Disclosure of short figures on individual issues was decided upon by the exchange as a step in its own and in the Security and Exchange commission's moves for more rigid control of this form of speculative trading.

Total number of issues in which a short interest was reported as of June 30 was 521, compared with 514 on May 31.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 11.—Light but persistent selling and the absence of support combined today to send stock market prices fractions to 2 points lower. Several attempts to rally the list failed, but prevented it from dropping still further.

Trading was at a much reduced pace from what it had been during the last three weeks, the volume today barely reaching 1,087,000 shares. Last week the daily five hour average was 1,945,000 shares.

Inasmuch as the setback came in the face of generally favorable business developments, observers were of the opinion that technical factors were still at work. They pointed to the small demand and relatively light selling as indicating that many operators had taken to the sidelines to acquire a clearer view of the situation.

Chief News Is Cheerful.

The good news included a sharp rise in steel operations this week, advices from Detroit indicating motor dealers were receiving more inquiries, an improvement in department store sales, and the report of the Douglas Aircraft corporation that profits for the six months ended May 31, this year, were double those for the corresponding period a year ago.

This last item proved exceptionally beneficial to aviation issues, most of which in the forenoon climbed to new peaks for the year on active support. However, most of the gains were canceled in the afternoon as demand dwindled and some even slipped into

What is "personal" banking?

IN THE ordinary sense, "personal banking" refers to personal checking and savings accounts. But at The Northern Trust Company "personal banking" has a second meaning. For in the friendly atmosphere of this bank all transactions become personal in character.

In every department of this 48-year-old institution a close, personal relationship exists between customers and the officers and staff. This is as true of the Savings Department as it is of the Banking Department, where personal checking accounts are handled. It is equally true of the Trust Department, which assists individuals in their estate plans. And it is an outstanding feature of The Northern Trust Agency and Custodianship arrangements which have given many Chicagoans of means relief from the burdensome details which accompany security ownership.

If a personal banking or trust relationship of this nature appeals to you, the officers will be happy to answer your inquiries.

The complete facilities of The Northern Trust Company include the Savings Department, the Banking Department for commercial loans and for commercial and personal checking accounts, the Trust Department, and the Bond Department. Also available is the protection offered by The Northern Trust Safe Deposit Company.

Pivotal industrials were in the forefront and showed substantial declines. Losses in the steels, although curtailed by the better hope held out for the industry, were as follows: United States Steel, 2 points; Bethlehem, 2¼; Youngstown, 1 point, and National Steel, 4¼ points.

Chrysler and General Motors resisted offerings for a time, then followed the general list. The first named dropped 1⅜ points and the latter lost 1⅛ points.

Anaconda, off 1⅛ points, pointed the way for a lower non-ferrous metals group. International Nickel, Kennecott, and American Smelting finished with losses between 1 and 2 points.

Oils ruled fractionally lower, as did rubber stocks. Loses in the heavy machinery group ran to around 2 points, with J. I. Case and Allis-Chalmers the weakest. Except for Union Carbide, which slumped 2⅛ points, chemical stocks held close to preceding finals. Merchandising issues lost a point or so, led by Montgomery Ward and Sears-Roebuck.

Two points were shaved off American Telephone's price in the communications, and Western Union dropped 1¼ points.

New York Bonds.

New York, July 11.—[Special.]—A lag in buying interest and some selling for profit today caused several of railroad bonds which in recent weeks have been among the most active issues to decline 1 to about 2 points. Generally, however, the bond market moved in narrow range.

Trading was light, turnover totaling only $5,653,575, face value, the lowest since June 17. The total was $7,661,350 on Friday.

Among the heaviest losers in the carrier list were B. & O. convertible 4½s at 22, Great Northern 4s of 1946 at 91, New York Central 5s at 59⅜, Nickel Plate 4½s at 37, Southern Pacific 4½s of 1968 at 47⅛, and Southern Railway 4s at 40⅞.

Traders apparently were uninterested in either industrial or utility issues. A few liens of these classes moved fractionally higher and others weakened.

United States treasury loans were quiet, with gains of 1-32d to 3-32ds in the more active issues. Nine gains up to 8-32ds were recorded in the inactive issues.

Chicago Stocks.

Trading interest in Chicago stocks tapered off yesterday in an irregular market. Transactions totaled 19,000 shares, against 34,000 Friday. Of the 89 issues traded, 26 advanced, 35 declined, and 28 held unchanged. Five new 1938 highs were established.

Zenith Radio, which has been leading in activity in the last week, was again the favorite. It declined 1 point to 22 on sales of 2,050 shares. Bendix Aviation climbed to a new 1938 high of 16⅜, and then eased to 15¾, up ¼ for the day. Marshall Field lost ¼ to finish at 11⅝, and Swift was off ⅜ to 17¾. Commonwealth Edison declined ⅛ to 26⅞. Middle West was also ⅛ lower, finishing at 7.

New highs for the year, besides Bendix, were made by Chicago Towel preferred, Kentucky Utilities preferred, North West Utilities prior lien, and Process Manufacturing and Process corporation common.

Bank Stocks.

Quotations on Chicago bank stocks moved irregularly lower in dull trading yesterday. First National shares declined $3 to $221 bid, $225 asked. Continental Illinois stock was $1.50 a share lower at $70.50 bid, $71.50 asked. Chicago Title and Trust company shares declined $2 to $151 bid, $154 asked. American National, City National, and Harris Trust were unchanged from Saturday. Northern Trust, an exception to the general trend, advanced $5 a share to $515 bid, $530 asked.

RAYONIER'S NET PROFITS IN YEAR UP TO $3,124,703

Western Union Has Loss of $323,775 in May.

Rayonier, Inc., producer of pulp used in rayon and staple fiber manufacture, yesterday reported an increase in earnings for the fiscal year ended April 30. Western Union Telegraph company showed a net loss in May in contrast to net profits in May of last year.

Rayonier's net profit for the fiscal year was $3,124,703, equal after preferred dividend requirements, to $1.94 a common share. The company was organized in 1937 as a consolidation of three companies. In the preceding fiscal year combined earnings of the predecessor firms were $2,243,320, or $1.03 a common share, on a comparable basis. In the 1938 fiscal year, profits were higher than combined profits of predecessors in any year.

Sales Rise 32 Per Cent.

Sales increased 32 per cent in dollar volume and 22 per cent in tonnage over comparable orders in the preceding year.

"Demand continued practically at capacity until the end of the calendar year 1937," Edward M. Mills, president, told stockholders. "Although the company has contracts with its customers for the full output of its mills, it did not seem prudent to attempt to force delivery of tonnage in excess of customers' requirements, with the result that, since the first of this calendar year, operations have been reduced to substantially lower rates.

"The company is well established as a supplier of dissolving pulp to the rayon industry in Japan and hopes to be able to continue to send substantial tonnage to Japan. It is impossible, however, to forecast the exigencies of military undertakings [in China] and exchange controls."

Spends 7 Million on Plants.

In the fiscal year the company spent $7,378,791 for additional plants and equipment. This included construction expenditures for a new mill at Fernandina, Fla., and the purchase of 140,00 acres of nearby timber lands. Outlay for this plant has totaled $5,582,915, and it is estimated that $2,700,000 more will be spent. The company last year also spent $1,795,876 on its three plants in the state of Washington.

On April 30, current assets were $5,330,324, including cash of $793,781. Current liabilities were $4,294,405. Federal, state, and local taxes in the fiscal year totaled $1,060,000, or $1.10 a common share. This total was more than 28 per cent of wages and salaries paid employés in the period.

With May gross slipping to $7,594,230 from $8,541,268 in the same 1937 month, Western Union's net loss was $323,775 against net income of $120,942 in May, 1937. Loss for the first five months totaled $1,614,604, against net income of $1,830,972 in the corresponding 1937 period.

For the first half of 1938 Monarch Machine Tool company had net profit of $157,991, or $1.05 a share, against $183,901, or $1.22 a share, in the first half of 1937. W. E. Whipp, president, said that the backlog of orders was sufficient to insure operations at or near capacity for many weeks.

RESTRICTED N. Y. STOCK MARKET ACCOUNTS GAIN

New York, July 11.—[Special.]—The proportion of stock exchange accounts restricted as to margins widened a little in June in relation to total of all accounts, a Securities and Exchange commission report showed today. The figures reflect conditions before the stock market rise had had time to make its effect fully felt.

A group of nineteen New York Stock exchange member firms report to the SEC and the federal reserve board that on June 20 there were 49,509 accounts, and that of these 4,570 were restricted.

The restricted accounts represented 9.2 per cent of the total, it was said, and 4,393 such accounts as of May 20 represented only 8.7 per cent of the total.

Railroad Capitalization.

There has been a marked decline since 1910 in railroad net capitalization on a basis of railroad property investment, according to the Association of American Railroads. It reports that the ratio of net capitalization to railroad investment was 98.7 per cent in 1910; 93.5 per cent in 1915; 85.6 per cent in 1920, 78.3 per cent in 1925, 73.2 per cent in 1930, and 72.1 per cent in 1936.

The association quotes the interstate commerce commission in reporting that the par value of the total railroad net capitalization outstanding in the hands of the public Dec. 31, 1936, amounted to $18,335,886,587, of which $11,240,690,928 represented unmatured funded debt, and $7,095,195,659 represented stock.

When compared with total railroad investment in road and equipment, the association said, the capital stock outstanding in the hands of the public on Dec. 31, 1937, amounted to 27.9 per cent of the railroad investment on that date. The unmatured funded debt amounted to 44.2 per cent. Total securities in the hands of the public amounted to 72.1 per cent of the railroad's total investment in road and equipment.

BIG WHEAT CROP FORECAST; AAA TO ASK SLASH

Officials Fear Revolt of Grain Growers.

drouth, rust, insect damage and other "natural causes" up to 75 per cent of a farmer's normal yield. Rates run from one-half to two bushels an acre, dependent upon the risk in each section as shown in previous years. Wheat paid as premiums will be stored for indemnity payments in years of lean crops to insured farmers.

The estimated corn crop of 2,482,102,000 bushels compares with 2,644,995,000 bushels last year, a decrease, but above the ten year average of 2,306,157,000 bushels. The acreage of corn for harvest is estimated to be 92,146,000 acres, a decrease of about 2 per cent in comparison with 1937.

Corn Conditions Variable.

There is an indicated yield of 26.9 bushels of corn per acre, the board reported, which is below last year but 4 bushels above the ten year average. In the corn belt there is great variation in the stage of development of the crop, it was stated, but barring early frosts, the crop should mature. Grasshoppers threaten the Kansas and South Dakota crops, according to the report.

The predicted oats crop of 1,093,829,000 bushels is lower than last year, but about 5 per cent larger than the 10 year average, the board reported. The barley crop will be larger than in 1937 on an acreage below last year. The indicated rye crop of 51,327,000 bushels is 4 per cent above last year's big crop.

AUTO INDUSTRY QUICKENS; SALES GAIN FORESEEN

Factory Suspensions to Be Delayed.

Detroit, Mich., July 11.—[Special.]—Production schedules of virtually all automobile manufacturers are being moderately expanded, it was disclosed today. Improvement in the retail market in the latter half of the last month is the cause.

Assembly plant suspensions, expected as a seasonal development about the middle of July, are to be postponed in numerous instances for two weeks or longer to fill out larger production programs. Forecasts are that July sales probably will equal June totals, in contrast with the sharp downturn heretofore expected.

Sales Comparisons Vary.

There is no regular rule for comparison of June and July sales because in recent years each of the two months has taken turns in outdistancing the other.

Output for the week ended July 9 declined because Ford, Pontiac, and a few smaller plants suspended assembly lines, and also because of the July 4 holiday. Production was about 25,000 units, compared with 41,000 in the preceding week, according to Ward's Automotive Reports.

Improved sentiment due to stock market recovery is regarded the main factor in the brighter outlook for automobile sales. To that factor is attributed an upward trend in sales in the last ten days of June, as compared with the preceding ten day period.

More Inquiries Received.

The sales increase was less prominent than the reported increase in inquiries, which it is expected will be reflected in July deliveries. Dealer orders have shown a sign of pickup.

Retail figures published by General Motors corporation for June show a drop of about 18 per cent from the May figure and a falling off of 51 per cent from the sales total in June of last year.

HEARING DELAYED IN RECEIVER PLEA FOR TRUST FIRM

Judge Joseph Burke of the Circuit court yesterday continued until Sept. 19 hearing on a motion asking the appointment of a receiver for the Trust Company of Chicago, 33 North La Salle street. Judge Burke granted the continuance when attorneys for the company and the attorney general's office entered into an agreement providing that the company will make several adjustments.

The suit filed against the company by the attorney general's office seeks an injunction and asks the dissolution of the company. The suit charges that the company's franchise was obtained by fraud and that an examination disclosed that the company has managed its trust business in an "unsafe, imprudent, and unsound manner."

Thomas Martineau, attorney for the company, told Judge Burke its representatives are willing to make adjustments to comply with certain statutes which the firm is alleged to have violated.

UTILITY EXPLAINS TVA TRANSACTION TO POWER BOARD

Washington, D. C., July 11.—[Special.]—Representatives of the Tennessee Public Service company presented testimony today to the federal power commission in support of its application for transfer of certain of its properties to the city of Knoxville, Tenn., and the Tennessee Valley authority.

R. A. Henderson, of counsel for the company, told the commission that stockholders unanimously approved the contract of sale entered into by the company, the city of Knoxville, and the TVA June 14. The city is to pay $5,483,500 for the properties it acquires and the TVA $2,551,500 for the properties it acquires outside of Knoxville.

The Tennessee company will dispose of its transmission line from Kingsport, Tenn., to Waterville, N. C., to the Appalachian Electric Power company for $1,298,143. The Tennessee company will retain its street railway and bus system in Knoxville.

$10,000,000 Ice Advertising Campaign to Be Launched

A $10,000,000 advertising campaign for ice has been planned for 1939, 1940, and 1941. This was announced yesterday by Hurley Hust, advertising director for the National Association of Ice Industries after a two day meeting of 150 of the country's ice company executives at the Hotel Sherman. The bulk of the fund, which represents an increase of 25 per cent will be spent for newspaper advertising, Hust added. He said about $750,000 a year will go for national magazine and radio publicity.

McKesson & Robbins Sales in May Below Year Ago

A decrease in sales for May compared with the corresponding month a year ago was reported yesterday by McKesson & Robbins, Inc. The large eastern drug wholesale company announced May sales of $13,261,055, against $13,503,872 in May, 1937, a decline of 1.8 per cent. For the first five months of 1938 sales totaled $67,507,310, compared with $70,131,018 in the like 1937 period, a drop of 3.7 per cent.

COLUMBIA GAS & ELECTRIC CORPORATION

Cumulative 6% Preferred Stock, Series A

Wholesale Beef and Pork Markets Also Advance.

Cattle and hog prices soared to new 1938 peaks in the liveliest markets of the year yesterday. Top steers advanced 25 cents to $12.50, the highest mark since the closing week of last year. Hogs rose 30 cents to $10.10, the highest price since Oct. 22, 1937.

Wholesale markets for beef and pork also were bid up to new seasonal highs as butcher shops began stocking up in anticipation of further advances as the result of rising live costs at the stock yards. Top fresh pork loins at $24.50 per hundred pounds were highest of the year. Best beef ribs went to butcher shops at $25.00, loins at $33.00 and rounds at $21.00.

Chicago Hog Prices Highest.

Hogs in Chicago led the nation's mrkets to new high levels, prices here being relatively the highest in the country. Advances for the day here ranged from 25 to 50 cents.

Cattle sold strong to 25 cents higher than last week's close, the better grades leading the rise. Competition was strongest in the steers selling upward from $11.00, although all kinds of stock brought new high prices for the year.

Meat Output Up; Prices Off.

Meat production was larger and prices were lower in the first half of this year than in the first six months of 1937, the Institute of American Meat Packers reported yesterday.

Total meat and lard production under federal inspection totaled 5,815,000,000 pounds for the 1938 first half year. This was an increase of 5 per cent over the corresponding 1937 period, but was 10 per cent less than the average for the preceding five years.

Although wholesale meat prices have climbed from January's low levels, they are still substantially lower than those of a year ago, the institute reported.

Live stock prices are also lower than a year ago, but have shown substantial advances from January levels.

Schiff Shoe Store Chain's June Sales Below Year Ago

The Schiff company, operator of a chain of shoe stores, yesterday announced that June sales were $1,142,614, a decrease of 10.5 per cent from the total of $1,277,655 for June last year. Six months' sales were $5,602,736, against $6,212,701 in the first six months last year.

Mesta Machine.

Investors' Guide: May I please be furnished with any information you have on the Mesta Machine company?—R. L. H.

Answer: Ranking as the leading manufacturer of steel making machinery, the Mesta Machine company, a $17,128,000 company with plants at West Homestead, Pa., established a new high earnings record of $4,668,029 in 1937. Unfilled orders reached an all time peak of $24,000,000 in June, 1937, but declined to $13,074,460 at the end of the year, compared with $14,363,088 at the end of 1936.

Mesta was incorporated Nov. 21, 1898, in Pennsylvania to acquire Robinson Rea Manufacturing company and the Leachburg Foundry and Machine company. The company's products are used by makers of structural steel, rails, bars, plates, sheet steel, and tin plate in the United States and many foreign countries.

Mesta makes a specialty of iron, steel, and alloy steel rolls used for rolling iron, steel, and similar products. The company also makes gas and steam engines, hydraulic and steam hydraulic forging and bending presses, gears, castings, forgings, and forging ingots.

Mesta has an excellent earnings record despite its dependence on an industry which usually loses money during depression periods. The position of the common stock was improved when the company called its preferred stock in 1934. The record of earnings in recent years:

1937	$7,611,373	$4,668,029	$4.67
1936	6,857,243	4,266,964	4.27
1935	5,174,295	3,114,527	3.11
1934	2,495,619	1,517,250	1.45
1933	1,247,846	630,678	.93
1932	806,464	327,871	.41
1929	2,685,941	1,797,242	2.32

The company has no funded debt and sole capital obligation at the end of 1937 was 1,000,000 shares of $5 par common stock. Dividends totaled $3.75 a share in 1937 and $2.50 has been paid so far this year.

Postal Life and Casualty.

Investors' Guide: You sent me a report on the Postal Life and Casualty Insurance company, Kansas City, Mo., last fall. Any later data will be appreciated.—A. M.

Answer: The annual statement of Postal Life and Casualty Insurance company for the year ended Dec. 31, 1937, showed total admitted assets of $400,585 and total liabilities of $302,449. The company had cash income for the year of $522,632 and total disbursements of $440,193, including claims paid of $113,950.

Elgin Sells $121,000 Bonds for Bridge and Highway

An issue of $121,000 Elgin, Illinois, bridge and highway right-of-way 1.90 per cent bonds, maturing 1939 to 1953, was awarded yesterday to Bacon, Whipple & Company. The bonds were placed on the market at prices to yield 0.40 per cent to 1.90 per cent.

PREPARE FOR
IN Beauty Culture

Your success in Beauty Culture, your future earnings, artistry, technique, ability to please and make the most money out of customers will depend largely IN THE KIND OF TRAINING YOU RECEIVE NOW. With its 67 years of knowing how to teach BURNHAM'S knows exactly how to develop that degree of expert skill that fits you for exclusive shops where operators earn $50 a week up.

We Cannot Supply Demand for Burnham Graduates

Right now we have more positions than we can fill. Shop owners want BURNHAM graduates. They know BURNHAM graduates are superbly trained to please patrons and get them to spend more. This ability is due to the unusual, exclusive training methods at BURNHAM'S, where you are also drilled in secrets of beauty shop salesmanship.

INVESTIGATE Why Burnham Training Means Bigger Pay from the Very Start

BURNHAM training means better jobs, bigger earnings. Prestige of being a BUHNHAM graduate is priceless. Beauty shop owners know that at BURNHAM'S a girl gets the best. As one of the world's largest beauty schools, BURNHAM'S can afford best teachers and equipment. Beauty shop owners know that at BURNHAM'S girls do every kind of beauty work on living models under personal supervision of experts whose constant watchfulness insures students acquiring the right technique. And they know that the students are also being constantly drilled in beauty shop salesmanship. That's why they want BURNHAM graduates—why we can't meet the demand.

Unbelievably Easy Terms

We must have more students at once to meet the demands of our Beauty Shop friends for more BURNHAM trained operators. Consequently, we're throwing the doors wide open to ambitious girls. Don't let finances hold you back—THEY CAN BE WORKED OUT IF YOU'RE QUALIFIED. Day and evening classes. Before enrolling anywhere, you owe it to yourself to learn how much more Burnham's offers, why more girls enroll with us. To get advantage of the amazing easy term offer, visit us this week any day, or any Monday, Wednesday, Friday evening, or phone or mail coupon.
